Loyalists Flee to Port of Bilbao.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 13.—Gen. Emilio Mola's Fascist troops, masters of San Sebastian, raised the red and gold flag of the old monarchy over the capital of Guipuzcoa province today.

The last loyalist refugees quit the northern Bay of Biscay city at noon as insurgent Moorish troops moved through the city.

Men and materials were moved up from the former battle fronts of Renteria to establish a new base of operations within San Sebastian, once the heart of Spanish government resistance in the Biscay region.

Occupy Buildings.

The insurgents spread systematically throughout the city. Detachments occupied the Telephone and Telegraph buildings; the governor's palace and the railroad station.

They found the city largely deserted but were greeted by the cheers of middle class residents, the only element of the city's population remaining. The population once numbered 86,000.

Col. José Beorlegui entered the city ceremoniously by automobile at 6 p. m., still nursing the arm wound he suffered when he led a battalion of Foreign Legionnaires against Irun. Later he reviewed troops which paraded past to the music of military bands.

The only buildings burned in the abandoned city were a paper factory and two residences. Police and Basque nationalists had kept the blazes from spreading while the city was being evacuated. Basque fighters killed or wounded many of the anarchists who sought to pillage stores and homes.

Haul Goods Away.

The workers' districts were almost uninhabited when the Fascists arrived and nearly barren homes and stores were all that remained. The fleeing residents had loaded as much of their movable possessions as they could on caravans which trailed away toward Bilbao. It is estimated that 10,000 civilians and foreigners left San Sebastian in addition to the fighting forces.

Thanksgiving services were ordered for tomorrow at which the bishop of Pamplona will officiate.

José Ortega, son of the governor of San Sebastian, declared a panic broke out among defenders of Santa Barabara fort and was directly responsible for the occupation of San Sebastian by the insurgent forces.

Machine Gunners Flee.

Ortega, who caught the last boat to France before the Fascists entered the city, said the forts and garrisons had plenty of ammunition but it was unused because 29 machine gunners suddenly took to their heels yesterday about noon.

The Fascists, he said, immediately entered the fort which dominated the city and their possession of it made it useless for government defenders to offer any further resistance.

Government troops, their retreat showed by trafic congestion on the road to Bilbao, sniped at the advancing insurgents as they fled. Government militiamen sought to hold the road under heavy gunfire of insurgent troops who were within 300 yards.

Open New Headquarters.

The municipal governor, Antonio Ortega, and his staf boarded a yacht in the early morning hours to go to new headquarters at Zumaya, about 15 miles west of San Sebastian. The new line of defense was established at Orio, about halfway to Zumaya.

It was learned that the decision by government forces to abandon San Sebastian was reached at a stormy session of the city's war council yesterday.

Gov. Ortega explained that the militiamen were without munitions and demoralized by the fall of Irun and demanded that the city be evacuated immediately.

Two anarchists whose shouts of objection could be heard outside the council hall were arrested. The more conservative Basques were in the majority and supported the governor.

FOUR INCH RAIN IN 48 HOURS DELUGES CITY

Basements Flooded, Trafic Tied Up.

Residents of Chicago and its northern suburbs were working last night to repair extensive damage caused by almost uninterrupted rain, which began on Friday evening, and which amounted to 4.25 inches during the 48 hours ending at 8 p. m. yesterday.

At times the downpour assumed the proportions of a deluge. It flooded street underpasses and made many roads impassable. Thousands of basements were under water many to a depth of several feet. Streams in the northern end of the county burst their banks. Between occasional downpours, there was an almost continous drizzle which made driving perilous and caused numerous trafic accidents, including several deaths. [Details on Page 5.]

Rainfall Deficiency Much Reduced.

Coming at the end of one of the dryest growing seasons in the history of Illinois, the rain greatly reduced the moisture deficiency for the year. From Jan. 1 to 8 p. m. last Friday the total precipitation was 14.89 inches, or 9.07 inches below normal. Last night at 8 o'clock the deficiency stood at 5.03 inches.

This three day drenching brought the total rainfall for the month to 5.01 inches, nearly four times the average. Normal for the entire 30 days of September is 3.14 inches—for the first 13 days 1.34 inches.

After a day and night of drizzle, the rain approached the proportions of a cloudburst at 1:10 a. m. yesterday, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said.

It was the heaviest between 2 and 2:12 a. m., when the bureau meters recorded .75 of an inch. Then an even inch fell in the 26 minutes from 1:53 to 2:19 a. m.

Heavier Rains on Record.

Such a downpour, while unusual, is not unprecedented, Mr. Lloyd said. In 1885 during 24 hours 6:19 inches of rain fell. There have been other instances of 4 inches in a like period.

As the rain descended in torrents early yesterday, loop streets, usually crowded at that hour, were deserted. The water poured between street car tracks in rivers.

Automobiles stranded during the night and during the heavy fall yesterday kept the Chicago Motor club rescue crews busy. Power company crews of pumpers were going all day to keep water from wire conduits under business streets.

Chicago River in Reverse.

Until late last night the Chicago river flowed "in reverse," emptying into the lake, despite wide open sluices at Lockport. The supply of water proved a boon to inland navigation, which has been severely hampered during the summer by shallow channels.

The sanitary canal rose five feet in Wilmette, sending the water pouring over the lock at the Wilmette harbor. The water there rose above the retaining walls, and inundated the power plant, although none of the turbines was put out of commission.

Dynamite Kenilworth Jam.

Winnetka and Kenilworth, with hundreds of basements flooded and streets awash, suffered heaviest among the suburbs.

Dynamite was used to break a jam of waste material at Warwick avenue in Kenilworth when Skokie creek backed up. Firemen worked for five hours to pump out the basement of the Skokie school in Winnetka, in which stood six feet of water. Despite the damage, the school is expected to open today.

Unable to accommodate the onrush of water, the west fork of the north branch of the Chicago river went out of its banks, pouring water over portions of the Glenview Golf club grounds. The flood waters invaded also some nearby estates.

Opening of the Maine township high school, Potter and Dempster roads, Des Plaines, which was set for today, has been postponed. Highway police reported that Potter road was flooded for half a mile in the vicinity of the school.

CHAPTER IV.

The Hon. Jason Jellico's distracted mind left him no peaceful interludes as he followed after the wheeled stretcher which was bearing his daughter back to her sickroom. Between his concern for June's safety and the astounding discovery that Henry North had been furtively spying upon his affairs he was left in a dilemma of disturbing proportions.

Henry North, of all men! Henry North was the very man he had been attacking with all his eloquence. Henry North who was known as a man of wealth, a director of large companies, and a leader in what Jason Jellico was always pleased to denominate Big Business! Henry North was to have been the target for one of his most vehement oratorical bombardments on this very night. Why had Henry North been lurking in this hospital of all places? Why had Henry North been silently observing the movements of Jason Jellico? And why had he been fixing his curious eyes on June Jellico?

The Hon. Jellico was in the midst of these perplexing considerations when Dr. Work entered the room. He had apparently, with great haste, resumed his business clothes and now, smiling pleasantly yet with a little wrinkle of seriousness about his eyes, had hurried in to observe the progress of his patient. Frank Furter had waited in the room for the return of June from the operating room. But he paid scant attention to Dr. Work. Instead he tried, somewhat unsuccessfully, to attract the interest of the Hon. Jellico.

"You see, Mr. Jellico," he said, "it's about as I told you. These operations are quite simple. Any doctor knows how to do them."

Dr. Work gave him a thoughtful glance and then turned toward June who still slept from the effects of the anæsthetic. Obviously the surgeon did not consider Mr. Furter's observations of any vast importance.

But a surge of enthusiasm swept over the Hon. Jellico. He gave his back to Furter as if he had not even seen or heard him. He seized Dr. Work by the arm and before the surgeon had time to adjust himself to the new and bewildering circumstance he had been almost pushed bodily out the door and into the corridor. The youthful surgeon, half resisting, half frowning, was on the point of uttering some determined protest when Jellico stopped him.

"Doctor," he almost shouted, "how can I thank you? It was great. You are a great surgeon. You have saved my daughter. And I want to apologize, too. Yes, I want to apologize. I have learned something. And we can all learn something, can't we . . .?"

Dr. Work tried to stop the flow of anxious and almost inarticulate phrases. "O, please," he began.

"No, don't stop me," Jellico interrupted, so loudly that passersby in the corridor turned to gaze wide-eyed at a commotion so unexpected in the hushed and discreet halls. "You have given me so much happiness. And I must explain what I mean by an apology. For I do owe you that. I have always thought that some of you doctors make too much money. I have thought it wrong that you should have big automobiles and are able to take vacations when you want to. But I can see better now."

"Perhaps," said Dr. Work, "we try to earn our pay."

"That isn't it," Jellico burst forth again. "You should have more than pay."

A figure emerged from the sickroom. It was Frank Furter, the intellectual enthusiast of the youth movement, who had been listening just inside the door and could no longer restrain his impatience to state his own opinions. "I think, Mr. Jellico," he said, suavely, "I think the doctor is right. They try to earn their pay and that's all there is to it."

"Yes," said the surgeon, patiently, "any man who knows his business should be able to give good service?"

"You see," said Furter, with the gleam of victory in his eyes, "the doctor agrees. Any man is as good as another. The human race is pretty much all the same thing."

"Yes, it's all the same thing up to a certain point," said Dr. Work.

"No," cried Jellico, irritably and almost elbowing aside young Furter, "no, it isn't the same thing. Just any kind of a doctor might not have saved my daughter. I think you are deserving of everything you get. You should have every recognition and I'm one to let you know that."

Dr. Work grinned knowingly. "I should like to make one correction in your logic, Mr. Jellico," he said. "It is probably true that I have been somewhat successful in surgical operations. It also is true that others have been successful. We know how to use instruments. But we don't know how to make those instruments."

"Make them?" said Jellico, staring in unbelief. "What has that to do with it?"

"Much," said the surgeon. "Without instruments there would be no surgery."

Jellico suddenly swung around as his glance caught the figure of the old stranger, who crossed the lower corridor and disappeared down a stairway.

"There he is," he shouted, half starting down the corridor. "Stop him, some one!"

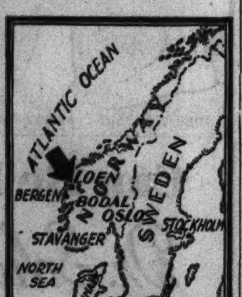
Lake Hurled by Avalanche on Town; 73 Die

LOEN, Norway, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Seventy-three residents of this famous tourist area were killed today when a rock avalanche plunged into Leon lake and sent a wall of water sweeping over the town.



The slide from the 6,000 foot Rogne mountain, with its resultant flood, left death and destruction to greet would-be rescuers who reached this picturesque village of 120 inhabitants.

They rushed to the town, awakened by a roar like that of artillery fire.

Not a Single House Stands.

The catastrophe, at 5:30 a. m., left not a single house standing. Even the fields were scoured clear of soil, leaving bare rocks to show where the waters had rushed and then subsided.

Rescuers found about 20 survivors, but many of them were severely injured and some were expected to die. Not a single family escaped at least one death.

One woman, who had arisen early to milk her goats pastured in a high field, saw the flood envelop her home and drown every member of her family, she said.

A farmer who had worked late in the field, slept in a small fieldhouse and was carried 1,200 feet by the flood, but survived.

"My wife, four children, my father, and mother all are gone," he said dazedly. "My house, which was one of a group of nine, has been swept away so entirely that I cannot find where it stood."

A battered steamboat, which since the catastrophe of 1905 in which 60 were killed had perched 350 feet from the water, was carried another 300 feet up the mountainside.

Several of the victims were carried hundreds of yards from the village. Apparently they had frozen to death.

The settlement of Bodal, straight across the precipice from which the mass of rock hurtled down, is the only community in the region still standing.

Water Overtakes Fleeing Families.

Fourteen families at Nesdal, three-fourths of a mile away, were awakened by the roar of the avalanches and fled their home. They were overtaken by the water and only one survived.

The flood wave was so immense that one house standing on a high ridge two miles up Rogne mountain was demolished and its inhabitants killed.

FISHERMEN RESCUE WILD DEER FROM SEA AT RISK OF THEIR LIVES

Saugus, Mass., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—A wild deer exhausted in a struggle of several hours in rough waters, considerable distance from shore, was rescued by two fishermen who risked their lives in getting the half dead animal into their boat. With the deer's feet tied, they rowed five and a half miles to a landing in the Saugus river.

The rescuers, Frank and William Belkus, called Game Warden Frank Colby. Colby enlisted two sea scouts, John Westhaver and Hugh Robinson, and they got Frank A. Green to donate a truck to further the rescue of the stray animal.

The deer was bundled aboard the truck and driven deep into Cedar swamp woods, where it was released. Eyeing its rescuers warily, the deer struggled to its feet, edged slowly away from the group and then, finding its legs much fresher after the boat and truck ride, it dashed away.

Father Is Slain, Girl Shot by Police in Home

(Pictures on back page.)

Frank Lappen, 45 years old, 4239 Fillmore street, was shot and killed by police in his home last evening when he resisted arrest on a warant charging assault and battery. One of his three daughters, Bernice, 20 years old, was wounded slightly in the right wrist when she ran between her father and the policemen as they exchanged fire.

The warant against Lappen, a taxicab driver, was sworn out by Mrs. Anna Berg, who lives at 4243 Fillmore street. She charged that Lappen struck her during a quarrel.

Wife Meets Police.

Last evening the Fillmore police received a telephone call from a woman, who said Lappen was at home and that the warant could be served. Policemen William Mangan, Abe Greenblau, and William Jannisch went there and were met at the front door by Lappen's wife, Lillian, who asked them to go to the back door after they identified themselves as policemen and showed their stars.

Mangan and Greenblau said they were admitted at the back door, but Mrs. Lappen and Bernice said they broke the screen door and forced their way in.

Police Return Pistol Fire.

After gaining entrance, Policemen Mangan and Greenblau started searching the rooms. Mrs. Lappen, they said, stood with her back to a bedroom door. Suddenly the door opened, and Lappen's hand and arm appeared, holding a pistol. He fired one shot, according to the policemen, and Mangan returned the fire as Lappen backed away. Then Greenblau fired and Lappen fell, fatally wounded. Bernice was struck at this time.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] asked that a complete investigation be made into the killing of a householder in his home over a misdemeanor.

Richman Flying Sea on Return Trip

BULLETIN.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 14 (Monday).—(AP)—Harry Richman and Dick Merrill, flying back to New York from England, radioed Eastern Air Lines here at 3:07 a. m., Chicago daylight time, today that their plane was approximately at position 36 on their chart, which would put them 1,158 miles from the starting point.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—[Monday.]—Harry Richman, flying night club singer, and Dick Merrill, his pilot, took off from Birkdale beach, Southport, at 3:04 a. m. [9:04 p. m. Sunday, Chicago time] on their return flight to New York in Richman's low-winged monoplane, Lady Peace.

The flyers made a perfect takeoff, the plane taxiing less than a mile before it rose and headed west into pitch blackness. Weather conditions over the Atlantic were reported excellent with the exception of head-winds.

Hurricane Lamps Light Beach.

The three mile stretch of beach was lighted by hurricane lamps, since it was anticipated nearly all this distance would be required for the Lady Peace, with a load of nearly eight tons, to rise into the air. As the plane roared across the sands a crowd of about 1,000 cheered. There were shouts of "Au revoir!" and "Good luck!"

Richman before taking off said he hoped to reach New York in twenty hours and "in time for dinner."

If Richman realizes his hope, the plane will arrive in New York shortly after 5 p. m., Chicago time. The American flyers' west to east flight, which ended in a Welsh cow pasture, took 18 hours 38 minutes. The east-west flight is considered more dangerous.

Weather conditions may make it necessary for the flyers to hit the American continent somewhere near Cape Race, Newfoundland, whence they would turn southward to New York.

Merrill Is Pessimistic.

Merrill was doubtful whether the plane's 800 gallons of gasoline was sufficient to accomplish the full trip. On the flight from west to east the plane's motor consumed more fuel than was anticipated, resulting in the forced landing at Llandilo, Wales, and short of London, the flyers' goal.

The airmen planned to maintain constant radio communication with the Speke airport at Liverpool until they were six hours out, after which they intend to pick up the powerful Cape Race station, which will guide them to the Canadian coast.

(Pictures on back page.)

Portland, Me., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Maine election—disputed barometer of national sentiment in presidential campaigns—is tomorrow. Voters will cast their ballots after an unprecedented wave of heavy political oratory.

Last night the Republican presidential candidate, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, and Democratic Gov. Louis J. Brann of Maine both bid for support.

"As Maine goes, so goes the Union," has been a popular campaign saying since 1840, but how valid a barometer the Maine vote actually is has been a matter of dispute virtually ever since. Answers have varied in the past.

Campaign Is Hot One.

This particular campaign has seen a barrage of major party appeals and denunciation. Traditionally Republican Maine elected a Democratic governor four years ago and Republican efforts to take the state back have been met with charges by Democrats that the Republicans were trying to nationalize a state election.

Maine voters tomorrow will elect a senator, governor, members of congress, and other state officials. They return in November to help elect a President.

Gov. Brann and Senator Wallace H. White Jr. [Rep.], whom he seeks to replace, carry the standards of their parties. Republican leaders admittedly view Brann's personal popularity as a threat to their hope for a clean sweep.

Brann Makes Appeal.

Brann based his lone national interjection on a contention that Maine needed financial aid extended by the Roosevelt administration. As a senator, he maintained, he could obtain such assistance better than as a governor.

The state campaign has been gathering momentum for weeks. The Democrats charged their opponents had the financial support of the Morgans, Rockefellers, du Ponts, and other wealthy families. Republican Chairman John Hamilton made a countercharge that the New Deal had been spending the people's money for political purposes for the last three years.

Gov. Brann was quoted by James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, tonight as being confident of success tomorrow and as saying that "Gov. Landon's visit to Maine was helpful to the Democratic candidates" and that "it created no great impression."

The polls generally open at 6 a. m. [eastern standard time] and close at 7 p. m. In communities of 300 or less population a 5 p. m. closing is permissible.

Three Candidates Visit State.

Within the state during the campaign came three presidential candidates—Franklin D. Roosevelt, with a voiced hope that the abandoned $40,000,000 Passamaquoddy bay power project might eventually "be sold to the American people"; Landon with a Republican forecast of a "great victory" in the state and nation, and William A. Lemke, Union party nominee, with a prediction of his own success and appeals for support of his party candidates.

Three Republican candidates had Townsend support in the congressional contests.

James C. Oliver [Rep.], in the First district, and Representative Ralph O. Brewster [Rep.], in the Third, bore Townsend approval. Oliver opposed incumbent Representative Simon M. Hamlin [Dem.], while Brewster's opponent was the youthful former mayor of Eastport, Wallace F. Mabee [Dem.]. Oliver also had the support of the National Union for Social Justice.

Townsend Support Issue.

Divided Townsend support, a Union candidate and an independent, presented a more complicated picture in the Second district. Clyde H. Smith [Rep.] had the ratification of state Townsend officials, and A. Raymond Rogers, Unionite, the national Townsend indorsement. The Rev. J. Clarence Leckemby, independent, was supported by Townsend clubs in the district. The other contestant was Ernest L. McLean [Dem.], prominent Augusta lawyer.

A division of old age pension planners' sentiment in the senatorial fight saw national Townsend support accorded to Brann in the closing hours of the campaign. It was closely followed by indorsement of White by the state group. Neither candidate had espoused the principles of Townsendites.

Brann's election to his first term in 1932 forecast Roosevelt success in the November election, although in the election the state was carried by Herbert Hoover. Brann was the first Democratic governor elected since 1914. Woodrow Wilson, in 1912, was the only Democratic presidential candidate ever to carry the state.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Despite the conflagration that raged more than three and one-half hours in the building early this morning the Paris opera is intact.

Serious damage, which probably will much exceed the first estimate of a million and a half francs [about $100,000], was confined principally to the back stage mechanism and walls and roof of the nine story "well" which rises above the stage. The fire was quickly extinguished in the auditorium which lowering steel curtains isolated from the fire's center. Water which was flooded into the building for hours did almost as much havoc as the flames.

But the opera as a monument has not been destroyed. Its riches in documents and musical collections were not touched.

LICENSE PRESS, ALBERTA CREDIT CHIEF SUGGESTS

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, leader of the world's only Social Credit government, suggested tonight that newspapers in the province might be licensed.

"I feel certain," he declared in a speech, "that the citizens of Alberta will soon come to the judgment that something should be done to curb the mad dog tactics of certain financial newspapers."

He complained of articles concerning himself and his administration published in Alberta.

H. H. Rogers and 2 Women Saved After Boat Mishap

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Henry Huddleston Rogers, son of the late oil millionaire, H. H. Rogers, and two young women companions were rescued from the East river tonight after the motor in Rogers' 22 foot cabin speedboat, The Prigg, went dead near Welfare Island and was struck by an oil barge. Rogers, catapulted from the boat by the shock, swam back and aided the two women in keeping the boat afloat until two life guards arrived from a nearby East river station.

FIVE STATES VOTE TOMORROW FOR PARTY TICKETS

Four Primaries Will Test Townsend, Coughlin.

Primary contests in five states—New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Michigan, and Wisconsin—hold the attention of the nation tomorrow.

In all but Massachusetts the Townsend and Coughlin camps are waging a vigorous fight for congressional seats. The New York and Michigan contests of the two groups overshadow all other incidents of the campaign.

Although unopposed for the Progressive party nomination, Gov. Philip La Follette is the target of his rivals in the Democratic and Republican primaries in an unusual jumble of Wisconsin party lines.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—More than a dozen supporters of the Townsend old age pension plan and the Rev. Charles Coughlin oppose regular Republican and Democratic congressional candidates in the Tuesday state-wide primary. It is the first New York test of Townsend-Coughlin strength.

Jesse W. Williams, a Townsendite, opposes Bertrand H. Snell of Potsdam, Republican minority leader of the house, in a northern state district. Williams also is entered in the Democratic primary.

Moses Attempts Comeback.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—George H. Moses, member of the senate from 1918 to 1933, will attempt a comeback in the primary Tuesday. He is opposed for the Republican nomination by Gov. H. Styles Bridges, his former political ally. Moses is 67 years old and his opponent is 38.

Representative William N. Rogers is unopposed for the Democratic nomination. New Hampshire was one of the few states in 1932 to give Hoover a majority in the presidential election.

Thomas Laite, state Townsend plan director, indorsed by the Rev. Father Coughlin, and three other men will contest the Republican congressional election in the Second district with Representative Charles W. Tobey.

Indorsements in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Interest in Tuesday's primaries centers tonight in the indorsement given by the Townsend and Coughlin factions to candidates for congress.

Nineteen of the 200 candidates from both major parties for the state's 17 congressional seats have the backing of Father Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice. The Townsend old age pensioners are supporting 16.

The Republican senatorial nomination centers in Senator James Couzens, supporter of President Roosevelt. Senator Couzens, a millionaire, has been independent in party politics for several years.

Two New Deal supporters are pitted for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. They are Frank Murphy, high commissioner of the Philippines, and George W. Yelch, former Republican lieutenant governor.

Three-Cornered Bay State Fight.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. James M. Curley, Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, and former District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien hold the stage tonight in their final bids for the Democratic nomination for United States senator in the primary Tuesday.

Gang Up on La Follette.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's primary next Tuesday has drawn little interest in anticipation of a bitter general election in November.

Alexander Wiley and John B. Chapple, Republican opponents, and State Senator William D. Carroll and Arthur W. Lueck, Democratic rivals, for the gubernatorial nomination, have directed their fire against Gov. Philip F. La Follette. He is unopposed for the Progressive party candidacy.

There has been much speculation that the Republicans and Democrats may back the candidate who appears the stronger in November, in an effort to defeat La Follette.

Most of the nine candidates for congress have the backing of either Townsend, Coughlin, the new Union party, the Wisconsin Farmer-Labor federation, or of all four. Seven Progressives and three Democrats, all incumbents, seek renomination.

Landon to Start for Home Today as Maine Casts Vote

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Me., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon will begin his homeward journey to Topeka tomorrow morning while the voters of the free state of Maine are marking their ballots in a state election which will mean much to the future course of the Republican presidential candidate.

If the result of tomorrow's election is strongly Republican, with majorities of 25,000 or more, it is a fair conclusion that a real anti-New Deal ground swell is under way and that the chances of Gov. Landon's election in November are materially increased.

It was in the belief that such would be the decision of the Maine voters that the decision to make this trip was reached. It was to be the beginning of a Republican victory march through the nation.

Hopeful of Victory.

Nothing has occurred to shake this belief, but an election is always a hazard until the votes are counted and it is apparent that Gov. Landon has staked a good deal on the Maine outcome.

"Do we want a free government in America?" Gov. Landon asked the stadium crowd last night as the conclusion of his speech accusing the President of leading toward autocratic one-man government in this country.

"Yes," shouted the crowd, with real fervor.

"It is an issue not to be smoothed over or minimized," says the Portland Telegram today. "The situation has not been exaggerated for partisan purposes, as some have affected to believe. The President stands for that which has obtained in Germany and Italy. Do we want it? The people of Maine will give their answer Monday."

Landon Attends Church.

Gov. Landon attended the Chestnut Street Methodist church today accompanied by Senator Frederick Hale, at whose home he was an overnight guest. Landon reached the church only a few minutes before services began. He occupied a seat on the aile in the fourth pew. A sign on the vestibule through which he passed urged the congregation to "vote 'no' on all three liquor questions."

The Maine ballot tomorrow submits to voters a local option choice on whether there should be a state liquor store "in our town," whether hotels and clubs should serve hard liquor by the drink and whether beer should be sold in restaurants and stores.

Guest of Boston Editor.

After church Gov. Landon rested until his departure this afternoon by automobile for Topsfield, Mass., where he will spend the night with Robert Choate, editor of the Boston Herald, and will board his special train tomorrow morning at Nashua, N. H., where he will speak briefly at noon.

The governor will arrive in Chicago at 8:10 a. m. Tuesday and will leave in an hour over the Santa Fe. During the day he will campaign in Illinois and Missouri.

WPA FORCES IN PIVOTAL STATES ARE INCREASED

Try to Show Boost Due to Drouth, Says G. O. P.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The Republican national committee charged today that the New Deal, despite its repeated assertions that the relief rolls would be reduced as business conditions improved, is increasing the WPA rolls in pivotal states as the election approaches. This is proved, the national committee charges, by the recent report of WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The Republican statement declares that on Feb. 28 there were 3,269,000 persons on the relief rolls and that on July 31 there were 3,297,000. The percentage of increase has been larger in the WPA, which had 2,248,000 on the pay roll on July 31, than in the PWA, with 171,000, or the CCC, with 404,000, the committee charges.

Desire Pennsylvania Vote.

"The report attempts to show that the increase in WPA workers from 2,232,917 during the week ending July 11 to 2,248,113 at the end of July was due to drouth employment," says the Republican statement, "but it makes no attempt to explain the WPA increase in Pennsylvania, a nondrouth state, but one that is very much desired in the New Deal electoral column next November.

"For instance, the WPA workers in Pennsylvania increased from 235,000 on last June 27, to 236,335 on July 25.

"Kansas is another where the New Deal relief funds lately have been poured forth in increasing volume. New Deal WPA workers increased in that state from 30,402 on June 27 to 31,988 on July 25, while the total relief employés jumped from 46,966 to 50,313.

Spending Is Concealed.

"Although the report attempts to hide the orgy of New Deal spending behind the descriptive data it presents, analysis shows that the Roosevelt administration's bill to American taxpayers for emergency relief from March 4, 1933, to the present is $11,800,000,000, a sum almost one-half the national debt when the New Deal came into power.

"The report discloses that in addition to the $5,705,000,000 appropriated for relief in 1933 and 1934, the New Deal has spent an additional sum of $5,100,000,000 up to July 31, 1936, for relief in 1935 and 1936.

"What the report does not show is how many billions will be requested for spending by the Roosevelt administration when the present relief till is empty. Neither does it show the salaries paid to nonrelief workers of the white collar class, running into the millions, and represented by the jobs given to New Deal political favorites.

"Many of these workers were taken from well paying jobs and given tremendous increases in salary on federal emergency and relief employment."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

NEW DEALERS' FAKING OF PHOTOS HITS ROOSEVELT

Shows Political Nature of Drouth Tour.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt surpassed himself as a shewd politician and master showman in his recent tour of this drouth stricken country.

The Democratic leaders gleefully boast that the President went away leaving North Dakota and neighboring states in the election bag for him and numerous Republican leaders ruefully concede that it may be so. The Republicans admit they are up against an uphill fight to reclaim this normally Republican region.

The Democrats affect no end of pity for any one who dreams of beating a candidate of the political brilliance of Mr. Roosevelt. They marvel at the adroitness with which he turned the drouth to political profit.

For Political Reasons.

The Democratic leaders had deemed it highly important that Mr. Roosevelt make a campaign tour of the northwest to hold in line the farmers who were slipping back into the Republican fold. But when he had come and gone they were ready to admit that his "nonpolitical" tour had been of greater value to the Democratic cause than any frankly political canvass could have been. Everywhere he appeared he subtly made the farmers feel they were peculiarly indebted to him for present and future favors.

So intent were the New Dealers on "playing politics with human misery," as Mr. Hoover once phrased it, that they overplayed their hand and brought themselves into considerable disrepute in some quarters at least.

Drouth Appears Less Bad.

The drouth was serious enough but far less so in degree and extent than that of 1934. Nevertheless, the New Dealers in the effort to make political capital went to unconscionable extremes to magnify the visitation which WPA was alleviating with relief measures and Dr. Tugwell's Resettlement administration proposed to deal with by moving populations to other land. The worse the New Dealers could make the situation look, the more need they could make it appear there was for these measures and for the retention of the head New Dealer in the White House.

But they went a bit too far. When they got to circulating in the press fake photographs of drouth conditions it was too much for the toleration of the editor of the Fargo [N. D.] Forum who is known to all the northwest as "Happy" Paulson but who, it appears, is never so happy as when he is exposing a fake.

Paulson Discovers Fake.

Editor Paulson looked at a number of photographs offered to him for publication by the Associated Press and other picture agencies. They purported to depict the desolate drouth region of North Dakota, where growing crops had been withered by the lack of rain and the blistering heat. In each picture right down in the foreground there was a bovine skull.

Now, "Happy" Paulson has spent his life on the range and he knows a bovine skull when he sees one. He can even tell its vintage, even in a photograph. He noted at once that this whitened skull was not that of a cow that died in this drouth or any recent drouth or perhaps any drouth at all. It was just one of those skulls with which the range has been littered for decades. Moreover he noted that the same skull appeared in all the pictures which purported to depict different areas hard hit by the drouth. It was evidently a "property" skull, in theater parlance. Furthermore Mr. Paulson noted that one of the pictures was that of an "alkali flat" on which nothing grows or ever has grown.

Graze Near Skyscraper.

Then another picture caught Mr. Paulson's eye. It depicted cattle grazing on the lawn of North Dakota's skyscraper capitol here, to which lawn the caption said they had been driven for feed from the parched plains beyond. Mr. Paulson detected the fake in this. It happens that the capitol is a mile from Bismarck in an unfenced area and the cattle of a neighboring dairy farmer have wandered over to graze on that lawn for years. In fact the state hired a man to chase the cows from the lawn and he was so doing when the picture was taken.

Other fake pictures detected by Mr. Paulson purported to show forlorn families in exodus from the drouth zone. These he found to be wholly untruthful, the families having been induced to pose for the photographers in the role of refugees.

One family admitted it was paid $5 for posing the act of carrying its furniture out of the house to a dilapidated car furnished by the photographer, after which it carried the furniture back.

WPA Supplies Fakes.

Editor Paulson exposed these fakes in his paper, copies of which were copiously supplied to those aboard the presidential train on the drouth tour. At this time, however, Mr. Paulson did not know the origin of the fake pictures. It transpired, however, that the pictures containing the property skull and that of the cattle on the capitol lawn were supplied to the press by the publicity department of WPA in Washington. They were the work of a WPA photographer.

The incident moreover illustrated the insidious and deceptive methods of disseminating New Deal propaganda. None of the fake pictures was credited to the WPA.

Has 1,000 Press Agents.

The New Deal operates a propaganda machine of unparalleled magnitude. It employs more than 1,000 press agents and photographers. Whether it be pictures as in this case or reading matter the endeavor is always to get the propaganda used by a newspaper or press agency as its own report.

Lemke Takes Precaution.

North Dakota is the home of Congressman William Lemke, Union party candidate for President. Mr. Lemke is sure he is going to be elected president, but he has taken the precaution of running for reëlection to the house, also. It does not look as if he could possibly carry his home state for president, but the size of his vote may determine the result in North Dakota.

The third party will draw its strength here as elsewhere chiefly from the Democrats. If the vote for Lemke should be negligible Mr. Roosevelt probably would carry the state. A heavy vote for Lemke would throw the state to Landon.

SALESMAN FOUND DEAD OF FUMES; LEAVES A NOTE

John U. Wyer, 39 years old, was found dead from exhaust fumes yesterday seated in his automobile in the garage at the home of his father-in-law, Hugo C. Wagner, 1242 Judson avenue, Evanston, where he lived.

Evanston police found a suicide note addressed to his wife, Helen. The body was discovered by William Hepner, a caretaker, an hour after Mrs. Wyer, her son, John, 9 years old, and Mr. Wagner returned from a vacation trip.

Wagner said his son-in-law had been in poor health, but had no financial troubles. He was a salesman for the Perfection Bedding company. Wagner is in the sales department of the Simmons bed company.

HOME MEETINGS FOR VOLUNTEERS START THIS WEEK

Women Organize on South and Southwest Sides.

A chain of home meetings will start next Thursday, Constitution day, to spread the VOLUNTEER movement throughout Chicago's south and south west sides.

As outlined by Mrs. Olive E. Gwynne, 5027 St. Lawrence avenue, who is being aided by Mrs. Aubrey Edwards and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, the plan is a new one which is expected to spread throughout the state.

"The real purpose of these chain meetings is to get hold of voters who still are sitting on the fence," said Mrs. Gwynne. "We are not interested in entertaining regular Republicans, but in persuading men and women who have not made up their minds to vote for Gov. Landon." Mrs. Gwynne was one of the first persons to register in the VOLUNTEER headquarters, 17th floor, Tribune Tower, when the movement was started five weeks ago.

First Meeting This Week.

Mrs. Gwynne has invited ten women to her home at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She has asked each to bring with her one voter who "is still on the fence." A week from Thursday Mrs. Gwynne will have the ten "fence riders" back to her house for a second session and she will ask each one of them to bring another "fence rider." On the same day the first ten voters that Mrs. Gwynne has invited will have similar meetings in their homes.

In the course of the next seven weeks Mrs. Gwynne thus expects to contact hundreds of uncertain voters. At the first meeting Thursday afternoon Mrs. Margaret Steele will be the speaker and Mrs. Gwynne will explain the work aspects of the VOLUNTEER movement.

Add Notes to Personal Letters.

Another new activity of the VOLUNTEER movement was announced yesterday by Miss Ruth De Young, chairman of the women's division. Mrs. A. J. Toren, 139 West 107th street, a resident of the Ninth ward, is adding a postscript to every personal letter she writes urging her friends and acquaintances to register and vote Nov. 3 for Landon. Mrs. Toren is urging all of her neighbors to adopt this same form of campaigning.

The Clyde Ladies' Republican club will report as a unit at VOLUNTEER headquarters next Friday morning to receive instructions and supplies. Mrs. Lillian Kafka, 1533 South 60th court, Cicero, organized this club 18 years ago and still is its president.

From the Second ward headquarters Mrs. William E. King has turned in more than 800 VOLUNTEER registration cards. In enrollment this ward now stands as one of the strongest in the city.

1,000 Women Enroll.

From Pontiac comes word that 1,000 VOLUNTEERS have been enrolled by a unit led by a number of prominent local women. Some of these leaders are Miss Edna L. Follett, Miss Ann F. Lord, Mrs. J. W. Porter, and Mrs. A. B. Middleton.

A VOLUNTEER rally has been scheduled by the Illinois Woman's Republican club, with Dr. Irene Behnke as the president, for the afternoon of Oct. 2 in the Hamilton club. Speakers on this occasion will be Mrs. Bertha Baur, candidate for congress from the Ninth congressional district, and Mrs. Ben Franklin, wife of the business manager of the state of Kansas.

VOLUNTEERS in the Forty-fourth ward will attend a meeting of the ward Republican organization tomorrow evening. A large number of new enrollments is expected. Among the speakers will be Mrs. J. B. Organ, who has been assigned to the meeting by VOLUNTEER headquarters.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Klasing, 35 years old, of Trenton, Ill., died in Christian hospital today, apparently from poison swallowed while she was visiting here at the home of her mother, Mrs. Kate Grodmann.

WALLACE CALLS FARM MEETING TO LAY PLAN FOR '37 CROP CONTROL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Secretary Henry A. Wallace today announced a series of farmers' community meetings designed to map out next year's "agricultural conservation program."

Wallace said the AAA planned the meetings in the farm areas in order to discuss crop insurance and possible maximum limits on benefit payments to each farm.

The agricultural secretary said the program aimed at providing "greater abundance for the average American home," and should "help to check soil erosion, improve fertility, encourage better land use, and maintain farm income."

Describing these as "sound objectives," he said the farm program "will serve not only agricultural welfare but national welfare" by bringing "about a better balance in the production of feed and food."

COUGHLIN ASKS DEFEAT OF ALL ROOSEVELT AIDS

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin asserted tonight that "it is time for us to throw out of congress bodily every one who says 'support Roosevelt.'"

In an address broadcast throughout Massachusetts, he urged the nomination for senator of Thomas C. O'Brien, by a sticker and write-in campaign. O'Brien, Union party vice presidential candidate, shared tonight's program with the priest.

Father Coughlin also urged support in Tuesday's Massachusetts primaries of candidates for the house of representatives who have been endorsed by the national union for social justice. He asked his followers to "ring door bells" and each obtain five additional votes.

He said that under President Roosevelt "the Democratic congress meekly submitted to a new kind of dictatorship—must legislation," and that otherwise the members of congress were "threatened" with a "loss of their patronage."

Young Man Leaps to Death in River at Madison Street

A man about 25 years old jumped into the Chicago river from the embankment northwest of the Madison street bridge last evening. His body had disappeared when Bridgetenders P. C. Cullinane and Michael Owens, notified by spectators of the leap, rowed to the scene. Coast guardsmen dragged the river for the body without success.

VI.—THE ELECTRIFICATION PROGRAM.

Well, it hasn't.

It's part of the "remolding" process, and it came right from the brain of Lenin, who put the proposition thus:

"If we get electrification in ten or twenty years, the individualism of the small agriculturist and the freedom of trade exercised by him locally are not dangerous in the least. If we do not get electrification, the return to capitalism is in any case inevitable."

Lenin's theory was:

[b] The communists must get "rid of the small commodity producers, and they cannot be driven out or crushed; we must live in harmony with them; they can [and must] be remolded and reëducated."

Lenin said: "Communism is the soviet government plus the electrification of the whole country," and his solution of the "remolding" problem was:

[a] "Preferential aid" to peasants who went along, by extension of credits, exemption from taxes, etc., and

[b] "Electrification on a mass scale."

Add TVA and AAA. Then what?

There you have it. Translating the Russian into American, the formula is: T. V. A. + A. A. A. = U. S. S. R.

Maybe you are inclined to excuse the terrific waste resulting from the duplication of plants and expensive machinery because you think it had something to do with relieving human misery.

Then figure this one out: Under the work relief act of 1935 Mr. Roosevelt had four billion dollars to spend for relief. P. W. A. press release No. 1439 shows that the overall cost per man per year on 72 different types of work, including electric power projects, was $2,132, while the electric power projects cost $4,366 per man, over twice as much. Or, to put it the other way around, the same money that supported one man on a power job would have supported two men on a different kind of job.

Those useless power plants have been paid for, not only by taxes imposed on most of us, but by the misery and suffering of men who could have been put to work if Mr. Roosevelt and his gay band of experimenters had not followed Lenin's idea that government + electrification = socialism.

VII.—THE NATIONAL QUESTION.

The Socialist theory is that "imperial powers," like the United States, oppress and exploit subject nations and races just as "princes of privilege"—I mean "financial oligarchies"—oppress and exploit the working man.

Lenin said: "It is necessary for the communist parties to render direct aid to the revolutionary movements in the dependent and unequal nations [for example, in Ireland, the Negroes in America, etc.] and in the colonies."

The communists have published a book, called "The Negroes In a Soviet America," in which the new Negro republic is described as covering "the present area in which the Negroes constitute the majority of the population."

This book also says that the allies of the revolutionary proletariat are

"1. The poor and small farmers.

"2. The oppressed Negro people.

"3. The oppressed peoples of the American colonies—the Philippine Islands, Cuba, etc., and of South and Central America who are under the domination of the capitalists of the U. S."

Monroe Doctrin Is "Out."

Mr. Roosevelt has abrogated the Monroe doctrin, thereby "freeing" South and Central America.

He has "freed" the Philippines.

He proposes to "free" Porto Rico.

He obviously believes in at least part of this Socialist theory.

What about the Negro?

Look on page 92 of Tugwell's book, "Our Economic Society and Its Problems." There you will find a picture of stevedores unloading cars. The men are clearly Negroes. Underneath the picture is printed this:

"Millions of men are forced into this heavy type of work by circumstances over which they individually have no control. Many of these men probably have the capacity to be artists or executives."

What's the answer to this one?

I think the answer is:

[1] To the southern aristocratic Democrat:

"Don't worry about what Tugwell says. Just let Tammany Jim Farley get out the vote and you and my friends,' will run things."

A Word to the Negroes.

[2] To the Negro:

"The new Roosevelt Social Democratic party is devoted to all 'forgotten men' and will not allow you to be oppressed any more by wicked 'princes of privilege.' Vote for us and become 'artists or executives'!"

You don't agree? Then you think up the answer.

Lenin said: "Our party, like every other political party, strives after political domination for itself."

In its striving the Socialist party makes promises.

The trouble with Socialists, however, is that they can pledge undying devotion to anything [including the 1932 platform] and not mean it.

Of one thing, however, the Negroes may be sure, no matter what Tugwell tells them about being "artists or executives," and that is: The comrades will be right there to "help" them become efficient with lots of Stalin's "iron discipline" and Tugwell's "industrial discipline."

Maybe the old folks can tell them something about "industrial discipline" and can give them some good advice on sticking with the party of Abraham Lincoln, which stands for personal liberty.

JAMES A. REED WILL ADDRESS BAR HERE ON CONSTITUTION DAY

JAMES A. REED.

James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri and president of the National Jeffersonian Democrats, an organization opposed to the reëlection of President Roosevelt, will be the principal speaker at the Constitution day luncheon Thursday of the Chicago Bar association.

The luncheon, which was announced by the Bar association yesterday, is one of a number of special programs to be staged by civic and patriotic organizations throughout the day in the city's third observance of Constitution day. In the evening the observance will be climaxed with a huge patriotic program in the Chicago Stadium.

More than 25,000 persons are expected to gather there, according to Julius H. Miner, executive director.

Mr. Miner said that a large stage is being erected outside the Stadium o accommodate those unable to obtain seats inside.

FLAG REMOVAL DEMAND BRINGS QUICK REFUSAL

Democrat Issues Order to Patriotic Group.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Patriotic citizens of this community were up in arms today over the efforts of the state's attorney of Champaign county to compel the removal of a large electric sign recently erected in the heart of the business section showing a lighted, waving American flag over the pictures of Landon, Knox, and Brooks, Republican candidates for President, Vice President, and governor.

The Patriotic Citizens' organization, a nonpartisan group, by popular subscription, paid for the erection of the sign and its maintenance.

Prosecution Threatened.

Yesterday, A. J. B. Showalter, attorney of this city, who, with Paul Prehn, founded the Patriotic Citizens' organization, received a letter from William E. Gilmore, the Democratic state's attorney of this county, demanding that the flag be removed from the sign, on threat of prosecution.

Showalter immediately consulted with leading attorneys and with Perry B. McCullough, chairman of the Illinois Republican state central committee in Chicago. The attorneys declared that the section of the statute which Gilmore charged had been violated did not apply to the sign.

McCullough denounced the effort to compel removal of the sign and advised Showalter to disregard the warning.

Claims Law Not Violated.

McCullough, in his letter said:

"The American flag is displayed in electric lights. Neither the pictures nor lettering touch the flag at any point. We are advised by prominent attorneys that such use of the flag does not in any way violate the law.

"We dislike to believe that the showing of the American flag offends the leaders of any political party, and your demand for its removal emphasizes the need for its display.

"We wish that the flag of our country might be flown from a conspicuous point in each crossroads town or great city despite the aims of some individuals to supplant it with the Red flag, or some other symbol of foreign philosophy. The preservation of free government, which our flag symbolizes, is the vital issue before the American people today.

"Accordingly, we are obliged not only to decline your request, but to urge the American people to emulate the splendid example initiated by the patriotic citizens' committee of Champaign. We will strenuously resist the action outlined in your letter."

4,000 CITY G. O. P. WORKERS HEAR CHIEFS TONIGHT

H. J. Allen to Address Precinct Workers.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Four thousand or more Republican precinct captains and workers are expected to attend a party organization rally in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman tonight. Since the party has been stripped of all patronage in Cook county, it will be a meeting of voluntary hustlers.

The men and women who do the missionary work in their home areas and get out the vote will listen to a discussion of the big issues of the campaign which will guide them in their activities during the final seven weeks of the campaign. The big drive of national and state speakers in Cook county does not come until the last two weeks before the election and tonight's event is intended to give them a foretaste of what may be expected then.

The national speaker is to be Henry J. Allen, former United States senator from Kansas, Landon's home state. The Illinois speakers are to be Wayland Brooks, nominee for governor, and Otis F. Glenn, nominee for senator. The other candidates on the state ticket and all the nominees on the county ticket will be introduced to the workers.

Luncheon Today for Brooks.

Brooks will be the guest of honor at a luncheon this noon in the Bismarck hotel arranged by the Brooks for Governor Union Labor league. Three hundred labor leaders are expected to attend.

Early arrivals for the conference called by National Chairman John Hamilton for today began to come in last night and the indications were that the attendance will reach the 200 mark. The morning will be occupied by group meetings starting at 10 o'clock. The general meeting will be held at 3 o'clock in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. Twenty-seven states will be represented by their national committee members, state chairmen and vice chairmen and officers of other Landon-Knox units.

Republican national headquarters issued simultaneously two public statements directed to voters who have a dollars and cents interest in the outcome of the November election—insurance policy holders and bank depositors.

Warns of Continued Waste.

Insurance investors and their beneficiaries were warned again that the value of their policies is threatened.

"There is no will to stop spending," read a statement by A. A. Ballentine, former assistant secretary of the treasury. "Mr. Roosevelt knows which side his bread is buttered on politically. If it is necessary to plunge this nation so deeply into debt by reckless and politically minded spending that printing press money is the only logical outcome, he will do it unflinchingly.

"He will do it even if it makes a piece of waste paper out of every life insurance policy and savings bank book in the United States!"

Republican authorship of bank deposit insurance was recalled.

POLICE OFFICER KILLED AS 3 CARS CRASH IN RAIN

Lieutenant Loses Life on Way to Church.

Lieut. Sylvester Cotter, 61 years old, 2434 Nordica avenue, a member of the police force for 34 years, was injured fatally yesterday in the collision of three automobiles at Cicero and Touhy avenues in Lincolnwood.

The policeman and his son, Edward, 19 years old, driver of the car, were on their way to attend mass at St. Ignatius church, 6559 Glenwood avenue, when their automobile collided with the car of Arthur Kjellquist, 48 years old, of Highwood.

Struck by Third Car.

The impact hurled the Cotter car into the path of the automobile of Everett Carlson, 32 years old, 1914 Juneway terrace. Neither Carlson nor Kjellquist was injured. The younger Cotter incurred slight injuries.

Edward Cotter told the Niles Center police that he had stopped for Cicero avenue, a stop street, and was proceeding across when his machine was struck by Kjellquist's car. Kjellquist said he did not see the Cotter car as his vision was impaired by the rain.

Helped Seize Willie Doody.

Lieut. Cotter joined the police force in 1902. He figured in a number of important arrests and aided in the capture of Willie Doody, the "baby faced gunman," who now is serving a life sentence in the Joliet penitentiary. Lieut. Cotter was assigned to the Rogers Park station, and since June of 1935 had been in charge of the police detail at Wrigley field.

In addition to his son, Edward, Lieut. Cotter is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Cotter, two daughters, and three other sons. An inquest into his death will be held today.

Truck Victim Dies.

Patsy Serpico, 21 years old, 2235 Polk street, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries incurred Aug. 17 when he was struck by a Commonwealth Edison company truck at Western avenue and Polk street.

James Dunn, 21 years old, 8926 South Laflin street, a gasoline station attendant, was killed early yesterday and his companion, Miss Marie Feilen, 20 years old, 7616 South Marshfield avenue, was seriously injured when the automobile in which they were passengers struck a parked automobile during the rainstorm.

The two were riding in the rumble seat of the car of Charles Butler, 23 years old, 8637 Loomis boulevard, and were thrown to the street when the machine struck the car of F. J. Maher which was parked in front of his home at 8256 South Loomis boulevard.

Woman Taxicab Victim Dies.

Mrs. Martha Marshall, 55 years old, 3924 Augusta boulevard, died yesterday in the Lutheran Memorial hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when she was struck by a taxicab in front of 3823 Augusta boulevard.

One man was killed, another was seriously injured and a woman and a boy incurred minor hurts yesterday in a collision involving three automobiles in the Outer drive at 49th street.

The dead man is Dr. Milton Givens, 4300 Mangouns street, East Chicago, Ind., former health commissioner of Gary, driver of one of the cars. The injured are Jerome Saitz, 24 years old, 7723 Essex avenue, driver of another machine, the wife of Dr. Givens and his son, Herbert, 12 years old. The latter two were treated for minor hurts.

Police said the accident occurred when Saitz, who had been driving south, made a U-turn at 49th street and proceeded north. His car was struck by Dr. Givens' machine, which also was headed north. After the collision Dr. Givens' car was sideswiped by a third car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 677 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 520 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 12,936 were injured in trafic accidents within the city limits.

LIEUT. S. J. COTTER.

YOUTH IN AUTO CRASH SAYS HE IS ROBERT ICKES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Robert H. Ickes, adopted son of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who was acquitted of drunken driving charges in Winchester less than three weeks ago, was named tonight as the driver of a car which struck another Saturday night, causing slight injury to five occupants.

John F. Kerins, 21, of Roxbury, driver of the other car, did not file an accident report until late today. He told police he delayed making the report because he did not learn that occupants of his car were injured until this morning.

Ickes has not returned home since Saturday afternoon, his landlady reported. After the accident Kerins said a young man got out of the other car and said:

"I'm Robert Ickes, so don't let this get out. If my father hears of this I'll be disowned, because I just got out of a scrape in Winchester a few weeks ago. Don't worry, I have plenty of insurance and everything will be taken care of."

WAR VET FOUND DEAD.

6 KILLED WHEN WABASH TRAIN SMASHES AUTO

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A train-automobile crash at a little used road crossing near Inkster, Mich., brought death today to six persons. The dead were identified as:

Mrs. Irene T. Talanshar, 39, his wife.

Mrs. Anna Talanshar, mother of John.

Mrs. Mary Jantoshik, 35, sister of Talanshar.

Dorothy Talanshar, 12.

Joseph Jantoshik, 5.

Officers who went to the scene said they learned the group was en route to Eloise hospital, near Inkster, to visit Mrs. Jantoshik's husband, a patient.

The car was traveling on a lane which had been blocked off for use of construction crews working on an overpass at Ecorse and Telegraph roads. Talanshar apparently had taken it to avoid heavy Sunday traffic on a detour.

Ralph Rust, engineer of the Wabash passenger train which struck the car, said he was unable to check the train. The car was carried a half mile down the right of way.

The body of Talanshar was found beside the tracks. The other bodies were pinned in the car. It required an hour to extricate them.

HORNER DEFENDS RECORD; REVIEWS FARM PROGRAM

Friends Fear Sales Tax Will Cause Defeat.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Highland, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner defended his record in office and lauded his farm program before a sympathetic audience in Democratic Madison county today, but drew less enthusiasm from the crowd as he continued his defense of the sales tax from attacks of his Republican foes.

The governor spoke at the Madison county fair here and at Collinsville. Last night he addressed the annual picnic of the Bohemian Beneficial lodge near Maryville.

Mr. Horner declared that his farm program for Illinois has developed the finest agricultural department in the nation, and that debt adjustment commissions he named to aid the farmer have saved "at least 5,000 farms" in the state.

"I don't claim to be a farmer, although I did own forty acres once," the governor said, "but I selected the finest agricultural advisers I could get to develop a farm program. I'm proud of the work those men have done, and we will continue it if you reëlect the Democratic ticket.

"I favor farm-to-market roads. I'm not going to build political roads and I'm not going to issue bonds to build roads. We're still paying for road bonds issued by previous administrations. They did fine work, undoubtedly, but we're paying nearly 99 millions of interest on 100 millions of road bonds. My program is to pay as you go."

Cites Balanced Budget.

"The Democratic administration has restored the credit of the state, paid its bills, balanced the budget and generally enhanced its financial position to the strongest point in the history of the state," Mr. Horner continued. "My opponent says he will reduce the pay roll. Well, I cut the pay roll to the bone in 1933, and I've saved the state millions of dollars a year. I offer you a record as against ballyhoo and promises."

The governor then recited his own campaign promises of 1932 and asserted that he had kept them "100 per cent."

In defense of the sales tax, Gov. Horner said that no one would begrudge such tax money if they knew how it was spent.

"It went for relief, for schools, for pensions, and for state obligations," he explained. "We needed every cent of it. My opponent is against it. Fine. But how will he get the money? Let him tell us that."

Sales Tax Is Big Hurdle.

Democrats here and at other points visited by Mr. Horner on his downstate tour expressed the hope that the governor would help the people to "understand" the sales tax.

"If Mr. Horner should lose, the sales tax would be to blame," they said. "There's lots of criticism of the tax, but that will stop when people realize the good it has done."

Mr. Horner again sounded the cry for full support of President Roosevelt, contrasting 1932 conditions with those of 1936.

HITLER REVIEWS PRIVATE ARMY; HAILS STRENGTH

Fuehrer Is Saluted by 107,000 Nazi Troops.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 13.—Reichfuehrer Adolph Hitler today reviewed 107,000 men of his "party army"—Storm Troopers, Schutz Staffel men [hand picked guards], the Nazi motor corps, and the Nazi air force. The martial appearance of the Nazis left no doubt in anybody's mind that Hitler's private army runs a close second in snappiness to his regular army.

The day started with an impressive ceremony in Luitpold arena, one of the three vast arenas erected at Nuremberg as the site for demonstrations which are designed to drum into the German mind the glory of national unity. The ritual was the same as in all eight Nazi party rallies held here before and since Hitler assumed power. The only difference is that now the men step with the pride of those accustimed to power and determined to keep it.

Funeral Dirge Played.

The temple to the memory of the dead opposite the main stand was flanked by twelve flaming cressets. Hitler, followed by the leaders of the Storm Troopers and the Schutz Staffel, marched down the wide aile to the temple to the tune of a funeral dirge, while the 107,000 men and almost as many onlookers stood riveted at attention.

"Death's Head troops" in black uniforms and black steel helmets moved ahead in the center aile thirty-two abreast. Halfway across the field they suddenly swung into an impeccable goosestep.

Hitler in reviewing his private army stood at attention almost continuously for five hours as the men filed by.

"We're Ready," Hitler Warns.

"Let me tell those who have the slightest doubt in the stability of my government that the men in this field represent less than 5 per cent of my party army," Hitler said in a speech. "I can hold more than twenty identical meetings simultaneously in Germany. Our old opponent, the Jewish bolshevik, is trying to become active around our borders and is threatening us.

"But let no one be deceived. We are ready at any hour. We all have one wish—to maintain peace—but with it goes one firm decision: Never to surrender Germany to that enemy we have come to know so well."

Hitler's "party army" roared its approval to these words. Referring to Spain, Hitler continued:

"I protest against the demonstrations being staged against Fascism and Naziism and for bolshevism, and for the export of arms and fighting men. I have not called upon my men yet. But if I should order a demonstration there will not be assembled 10,000 or 20,000 undisciplined persons. Millions upon millions would respond with flaming hearts."

Host at Luncheon.

Before reviewing his private army, Hitler entertained a number of foreign guests, including a group of foreign correspondents, at luncheon in an old castle overlooking Nuremberg.

In a conversation he disclosed that the reich possesses the biggest military and semi-military forces in central and western Europe.

By stating that the Storm Troops total 2,000,000 men and the Schutz Staffel 260,000 men he revealed that his "party army" numbers close to 3,000,000 men, including the Nazi Motor corps and the Nazi air force. Add to these the 1,200,000 soldiers of the regular army and 400,000 members of the Labor Service, then Hitler commands a force of 4,600,000 men.

The fuehrer expressed his amusement over the notion which he said he understood had been current in foreign lands that the Nuremberg rally was in effect a sort of training for German mobilization.

"Why, that's absurd," he chuckled.

He changed his tone when one guest referred to the size and earnestness of the week's demonstrations.

"If I would, I could make a real demonstration against bolshevism with many millions," he said. "I would only need to give propaganda a free hand. There would come, not hundreds or thousands, but millions.

"It is true we have done with fratricidal quarrels and fighting. But all the same we cannot watch as disinterested spectators what is now going on. Bolshevism we have known. Only a short time ago, in these very streets, officers were beaten and maltreated. Houses were burned. Our enemy tried to destroy utterly our national organism.

"Russians Plot Against Us."

"We won, but after a hard struggle. And now if we see around Germany the same power trying to threaten us and plot against us how can we remain indifferent? Europe is a unit. We live in Europe. We are a part of Europe. We in Germany wish to compete peacefully with such states as we are ourselves—strong, national, and sound. But ruined states, disintegration, and the decay of nations—I cannot permit that on my doorstep.

"And when I think that the metropolis which is striving to dominate Europe is Moscow—Moscow, ha! ha! [He laughed bitterly.] Moscow, of all cities! What a shame! How grotesque!

"The last city with the right to hegemony over cultivated nations is Moscow. If it were a capital with traditions in a civilized country! But Moscow—that goes beyond all limits."

Plans Political Boycott.

The Nazi government is preparing a surprise for "deadly democracies" while Europe is looking forward to a new Locarno conference and negotiations for reforming the league of nations.

To increase the effectiveness of his appeal to the world to accept his leadership against "Jews and bolshevists," Hitler intends to throw down a new gauntlet to Russia and solemnly refuse to take part in any political conferences in which the Russians are represented.

Foreign diplomats who heard of Hitler's proposed plan believe it is an effort to goad the Russians into breaking diplomatic relations with the reich and thus increase the impressiveness of the soviet danger in the minds of the Germans and at the same time increase their willingness to make further sacrifices for the army and the Nazi cause.

EX-QUEEN OF SPAIN ASKS TO BE LET ALONE ON U.S. TRIP TO SEE SON

ROME [by radio from S. S. Conte de Savoia, at sea], Sept. 13.—(AP)—Former Queen Victoria of Spain, crossing the Atlantic to visit her oldest son, who is critically ill in a New York hospital, begged today to be spared the fanfare usually given visiting royalty. Prince Alessandro Torlonia, her son-in-law and companion on the trip, acted as her spokesman in the radio conversation.

EX-QUEEN VICTORIA.

"Such a hospitable country as the United States," said the prince, husband of the former Infanta Beatriz, "must surely understand her reasons for wanting to appear there incognito.

"The duchess of Toledo," he said of his mother-in-law, "is going to America solely to see her son, the count of Covadonga, and desires that her visit should pass in the strictest incognito. This can be clearly understood in view of her great anxiety over her son's health, added to by the sad events happening in Spain."

CHARGES HITLER PLANS WAR ON CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Soviet Paper Says Russia Is General Goal.

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia, the authoritative communist newspaper Pravda charged today, will be the next goal of Germany's army.

Ignoring the attack upon bolshevism by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in speeches at Nuremberg, Pravda outlined what it asserted were the Nazi dictator's immediate plans—allegedly the subjugation and partition of Czechoslovakia in order to open a road toward the soviet union.

Vision Drive on Russia.

"Czechoslovakia, because of her geographical position figures next in Hitler's plans," the newspaper charged. "The Germans plan to liquidate the barrier that lies in their way to southeastern Europe in order to clear the road for a drive against the soviet union."

The newspaper declared the campaign was designed to weaken Czechoslovakia internally and that it already was under way in conjunction with Hungary, with whom it was charged the Nazis plan to share the territory if they can obtain it.

"Nazis are at work through the information bureau Gestlo, trying to drive a wedge between the Czechs and Poland and at the same time working on German minorities in Czechoslovakia.

"Simultaneously the Germans are pushing great military highways, railways, and air plans for subjugation of Czechoslovakia.

Says Nazis Store Munitions.

"A third of the military highways Hitler is building are aimed at a thrust into Czechoslovakia."

"At the same time Germans are storing vast munitions and military equipment underground along the frontiers of Czechoslovakia," the communist newspaper continued. "Everything, even the pettiest detail has been thought of.

"The German general staf plan calls for:

"1. Hungary will act in union with Germany.

"2. Germany counts on support of millions of Germans on the northern frontier.

"3. Southern Czechoslovakia will go to Hungary in return for support of the 3,600,000 Hungarian minority there.

"Plans have been worked out for war similar to that which the Germans waged against Austria in 1866."

GERMAN LABOR FRONT COLLECTS 144 MILLION IN DUES IN ONE YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The vast sums collected by the German Labor Front, which claims to be the world's largest organization of its kind, were revealed today by Dr. Robert Ley, Labor Front leader. Ley said that 96 per cent of German workers and employés now are members of the Labor Front.

While membership officially is not compulsory, workers find it difficult if not impossible to get jobs unless they belong to the Labor Front.

According to Ley, the Labor Front collects monthly fees totaling $144,000,000 a year. These sums, Ley said, enabled the Labor Front to finance vast projects, such as the building of two bathing resorts for the accommodation of 300,000 workers each, two ocean steamers for "strength through joy" trips, and numerous recreation homes for workers.

Three Power Conference in 1921 Advocated.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A secret British proposal for a three power conference designed to agree on a common policy in the Pacific and far east as a prelude to the Washington disarmament conference was disclosed today in hitherto confidential diplomatic correspondence made public by the state department.

Great Britain's proposal—which was flatly rejected by Charles Evans Hughes, then secretary of state—was for President Harding to invite high British and Japanese officials to meet with American representatives at Bar Harbor, Me., in August, 1921.

The President a few days before had issued the call for the conference on limitation of armaments to be held Nov. 11 and the Bar Harbor meeting was projected as a preliminary session to consider agenda and "if possible arrive at a common understanding on wider principles which should underlie future Pacific policy of the three power."

Prepared to Sail.

The documents disclosed that Ambassador Harvey, forwarding the latest note advocating the meeting, reported that "if you accept" Prime Minister Lloyd George, Earl Curzon, foreign secretary, and the prime ministers of Canada, New Zealand, and Australia were prepared to sail on a fast warship direct from London to Bar Harbor.

Secretary Hughes immediately sent a long note flatly rejecting the proposal on the ground that any preliminary session would imperil the success of the disarmament conference, and be a discourtesy to France, Italy, and China, already invited to the disarmament discussions.

"If at such a preliminary meeting," Hughes said, "the agenda was framed or any controling action taken, it would be felt that the conference had in fact been forestalled.

Sees Threat to Success.

"If there was a failure to reach an agreement because of divisions of opinion, the success of the main conference might easily be jeopardized."

The British finally accepted the American government's view and the conference was held as planned, with the consequent signing of the nine and four power treaties and a settlement of existing far eastern and naval questions.

One clew to the persistent British maneuvers was included in the correspondence made public. The American chargé d'affaires in China reported that W. W. Yen, minister of foreign affairs, was anxious to have Great Britain make a statement on its attitude toward the Anglo-Japanese alliance before the disarmament conference was held.

AMERICAN NEWS WRITER IN ROME TAKEN TO BORDER

ROME, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Henry Gorrell, acting chief of bureau of the United Press in Rome, who was ordered by the Italian government to leave the country, departed tonight for Paris by train. Two officials accompanied him to the frontier. His expulsion was ordered as the result of a news story which stated high Fascist officials had been arrested on accusations of communist activities. The report was denied officially.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, spent his 76th birthday quietly today, receiving friends and comrades in his apartment. They said Pershing was in "excellent" health. He had asked leaders of American and other organizations in Paris to hold no official ceremonies in honor of his birthday.

STEAL A MARCH IN HUG O' WAR; PRINCIPAL IS IN School Opens Today; Threaten Arrests.

CHARLES O'HEARN.

The Union Ridge district school board in Norwood Park stole a march yesterday on Noble Puffer, county superintendent of schools, by announcing that Charles O'Hearn, who was ordered ousted as principal after he was involved with three teachers in the "hugging" controversy, has been made business manager of the school and will be on hand when classes open today.

Herman Reussow, head of the school board, said that O'Hearn will not receive any salary as business manager. "But he won't go hungry," Reussow declared. "The people of the community think too much of him."

Hope to Block Walkout.

The presence of O'Hearn as business manager is expected to forestall the possibility of a "walkout" by pupils of the school. Many parents had stated they would not allow their children to continue in the school if O'Hearn was not there.

Two of the three women teachers who were dismissed by the school board after accusing O'Hearn of trying to hug them are planning legal action for restoration of their jobs. They are Miss Larinda Cleary, 5033 Maypole avenue, and Miss Clarabell Lindsay, 4222 College avenue, De Kalb, who are expected to appear at the school today as another feature of the "hug o' war." It was indicated they want a formal refusal by the school board to restore their jobs—this as a basis for their suit.

Arrests Are Threatened.

Mrs. Mary Hammond, 6600 Gunnison avenue, the third teacher dismissed by the school board, is not expected to appear today.

"We offered through Mr. Puffer to give these teachers written statements showing their jobs were refused them," Reussow said, "but apparently their attorney has advised them they must show up to get kicked out. If they insist on wanting their jobs when school opens and refuse to leave, we will have them arrested.

The Law Is with Puffer.

"As far as O'Hearn is concerned, Puffer has the law on us there. If we hired him back as principal, Puffer would refuse to certify him and he wouldn't get any salary. But we can make him business manager without a salary."

O'Hearn, a bachelor, 38 years old, was at the school yesterday showing four women teachers of the staf around the rooms.

"I want to serve the community," he said. "I have no other statement to make."

their departure the mayor of Southport wished them bon voyage. He said the town of Southport considered it a great honor for the flyers to take off from the beach. Richman, in response, said:

"I wish to thank everybody in this country for their marvelous hospitality. I hope we may safely reach New York so we can come back a safer way and reciprocate all the good wishes accorded us in this country."

The Lady Peace was flown to Southport from Liverpool last night. The flyers were welcomed by crowds of holiday merrymakers at the English seaside.

Richman and Merrill went to a hotel to sleep. The singer was up first and watched as mechanics loaded the plane with fuel. Merrill stayed in his room for about seven hours, but said he didn't sleep much.

Amputate Foot of Howard, Injured in Plane Race

Crown Point, N. M., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Physicians attending Benny O. Howard announced today it had been necessary to amputate the pilot's right foot, badly mangled in the crash of his Bendix racing plane, but that his general condition was much better. The Chicago transport pilot rallied Saturday after complications from internal injuries threatened his life for several days. Mrs. Howard, flying with her husband, also suffered fractures of both legs. Her injuries were less serious and she has improved steadily.

473,000 ENTER IMPROVED CITY SCHOOLS TODAY

Stafs Larger, Equipment Better, Says Johnson.

Chicago's public schools open today with an expected enrollment of 473,500 pupils. Approximately 330,000 students will register in the elementary schools and 133,000 in the high schools. About 10,500 other students will enroll in the normal, prevocational, and continuation schools and the junior colleges.

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, and James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, declared yesterday that the public schools are greatly improved over past years from the standpoints of teaching stafs, buildings and textbooks. In all departments steps have been taken to adopt the most modern educational measures.

Expects 600 New Appointments.

Supt. Johnson said that 75 new teaching positions have been added and with vacancies to be filled due to retirements, 600 normal school graduates will probably be called to service during the year.

Building equipment has been improved with the construction of 15 new schools and renovations and additions to almost all the other school buildings. Most of this work was carried on under projects of the federal Public Works administration and the Works Progress administration.

The anticipated enrollments in elementary and high schools in the three sections of the city are given as follows:

	Elementary schools.	High schools.
South side	120,000	50,000
North side	120,000	50,000
West side	90,000	33,000
Totals	330,000	133,000

The enrollment in the elementary schools will be slightly less than in 1935, school officials believe. Supt. Johnson said Saturday that during the last ten years there has been a downward trend in elementary school attendance attributable largely to a continuous decrease in the city's birth rate.

There will be a small increase in high school attendance, however, as the birth rate decline is not felt there until several years after its effect is noticeable in the lower schools.

WOMEN TO PUSH STATE VOTE CAMPAIGNS THIS WEEK IN BOTH PARTIES

By airplane, trailer, automobile, and train, Republican and Democratic women are to get their Illinois campaign for women's votes in November into full swing this week. Speaking schedules call for a start downstate, winding up in Chicago.

Wednesday the Democratic women open their campaign at Danville. Mrs. Phoebe F. Omlie, the aviatrix, will arrive there by plane for her tour. Other speakers who will follow through the state are Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, former minister to Denmark who is journeying by trailer, and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, sister of "Coal Bill" Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania.

The Republican women's downstate campaign starts Thursday with an address at East St. Louis by Mrs. Adalin Wright Macauley, former president of the American Legion auxiliary. Other feminine headliners are Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms; Mme. Julia Cantacuzene-Grant, a granddaughter of President Grant; Dolly Gann; Mrs. George A. Wyeth of New York; Mrs. George B. Simmons of Marshall, Mo., and Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, novelist.

COLORED GIRL, 11, GIVES BIRTH TO SIX POUND BOY

New Orleans, La., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A colored girl listed on hospital records as Warnester Strickland, 11, became the mother of a six pound boy tonight. A cæsarean operation was performed because of the mother's small size. The child was reported "doing nicely" but the mother's condition was termed critical. Warnester is the oldest child of Charles and Aline Strickland. Aline Strickland is now a grandmother at the age of 26. Strickland is employed on a Works Progress administration project.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

PEOPLE ARE APPRECIATIVE

By CALEB

BUSINESS makes some people cynical. But we have so many happy contacts with old and new friends in our business that it does the opposite to us. We are firmly of the opinion that most people react in accord with the motives of the people with whom they deal.

A young man recently called us on the telephone and excitedly told us he "didn't know department stores did that sort of thing." Some months ago he asked us to mail a wedding present to his former college roommate. The roommate was apparently of the procrastinating type who, it may be supposed, forgets to turn off the bath water, never returns a book, and fails to acknowledge wedding presents.

The first young man wondered if his friend had received the wedding present. He asked if it had been mailed. We checked up, then wrote him a letter telling him when it had been mailed, how it had been sent, the day and method by which it had been delivered, and the hour it entered the front door of his friend's home.

The donor was impressed by the fact that we had checked so completely—and yet had stopped short of embarrassing him by asking the recipient if he had actually received the present.

Recently we received an enthusiastic letter from an Englishman who several weeks earlier had been crossing the United States en route to his home in Shanghai. He needed two rolls of moving picture film. From Cleveland he had telegraphed Field's his dilemma—for he had no time to leave the railroad station. Of course we took care of his requirement and met him at the train with films. His letter says: "Such service is rarely seen and I offer my best thanks and appreciation."

A lady came to us recently at 3:30 in the afternoon and wished to be fitted out with an entire evening ensemble—together with a shampoo, facial, manicure, and wave—for that evening. At 5:30 she left the store with all her requirements cared for, including alterations of the dress she selected. A letter to our shopper who served her said, "I have never shopped anywhere with such pleasure. Your service is marvelous."

We quote these illustrations not because the instances are unusual, but because they are typical. They are typical of the response of the public to the intent of this store—to satisfy completely the needs of our patrons.

REBELS' FLAG OF KINGS RAISED AT SAN SEBASTIAN

Loyalists Flee Toward Port of Bilbao.

ed naval revolt was quelled last week, announced today that aerial bombardment of the Oviedo and Talavera sectors resulted in the most decisive victories of the 52 day civil war.

Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, who formed a communist-Socialist cabinet to carry on the war against Fascism, watched the Portuguese situation and his newspaper, Claridad, insisted the outbreak there was of far more serious character than the Lisbon government admitted.

Caballero has often hinted of a hope to become president of an all Iberian federation of soviet republics, and Spanish government observers proclaimed an anti-Fascist outbreak in Portugal would result in quick suppression of the Spanish revolt.

Advance Three Miles.

In constant touch with Caballero today was Gen. José Asensio, whose militia forces grimly held their lines, while the government planes bombed the Talavera sector southwest of Madrid and not far from the Portuguese border.

Fascists were driven from the village of Cazalegas, the government reported, after an arduous three mile advance from Asensio's Santa Olalla headquarters.

Gen. Asensio was awaiting reënforcements from Catalonia; 4,000 militia who evacuated the Mediterranean isle of Mallorca were coming to assist the Talavera drive.

More than 200 bombs were dropped on northern Oviedo by the government, the war ministry said. Government troops also were active in the Saragossa sector, it was reported here.

New bombardments of government troops in the Guardarrama mountains outside of Madrid was attributed to Fascists "without positive results."

Alcazar Holds Out.

Official reports said also government columns had occupied new positions near Somosierra pass in the mountains of the Guadarrama front northeast of the capital.

The government radio disputed insurgent reports the Fascists had captured Toledo, about 40 miles south of Madrid, and had rescued the besieged prisoners in the Alcazar fortress.

José Hernandez, the communist minister of education, today took energetic action to rid all universities, colleges, and schools of teachers "who might use their positions to make enemies of the republic."

Hernandez' action in naming the famed painter, Pablo Picasso, director of the Prado gallery and Ramon Menendez Pidal, president of the supreme council of education, although it caused surprise, was well received. Menendez Pidal was president of the Spanish academy.

POPE SPEAKS TODAY ON RED EXCESSES IN SPAIN; TO URGE PRAYER

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Pope Pius let it be known today he will condemn the excesses of communism in his address tomorrow to Spanish civil war refugees. [The speech will be broadcast from Castel Gandolfo at 6 a. m. Chicago time.]

Vatican prelates asserted the pontiff, bowed with grief because of the grave Spanish situation, prays incessantly that Spaniards may add "prayer" to their weapons in what he sees as a battle against communism. Working on the speech he intends to give to the Spanish refugees the Pope revealed to his attendants that he intends to employ about 3,000 words, 1,500 of which will "scourge communism and its excesses." The remainder of his address will be devoted to welcoming the refugees.

The pontiff went about his preparation of the speech, wearied by the ills of old age. Some days ago his legs became weakened and he was forced to curtail daily automobile rides about his villa at Castel Gandolfo. Although reported gravely ill at that time, the 79 year old holy father rallied and now has resumed his daily auto rides.

CHINA HUNTS FOR GIRL'S HELPER IN DRUG SMUGGLING

SHANGHAI, Sept. 13.—Police were searching today for A. L. Stey, a business department employé of the German Paulun hospital here. He is charged with being an accomplice of Maria Wendt, 23 years old, Dutch-Chinese girl who was arrested Aug. 6 by custom agents in Los Angeles, and $100,000 worth of heroin was found concealed in her baggage.

Stey, a native of Alsace-Lorraine, is of French nationality. Allegedly he obtained supplies of heroin from Chinese sources. Miss Wendt is a daughter of a former Chinese official, Wen Tsung-yao, once commissioner of Tibet and now retired.

Maria Wendt was arrested when she arrived in Los Angeles on the Heiyo Maru. On Aug. 7 she escaped custody, but was apprehended Aug. 12 in New York as she was boarding the liner Deutschland for Germany. Her arraignment has been postponed several times. On Aug. 29, according to a dispatch from Los Angeles, Miss Wendt was visited in jail by her sister, Dr. Constance G. Wendt of Hinsdale, Ill. Dr. Wendt disclaimed all knowledge of her sister's difficulty at that time.

CHICAGO GIRL, 18, HOME FROM JAPAN TOUR BY BICYCLE

Miss Margaret Brown, 18 years old, daughter of V. K. Brown, 1655 West 104th street, head of the recreation commission of the Chicago park district, returned to her home yesterday after an eight weeks' tour of Japan by bicycle. She was one of a group of twelve American college students who made the tour in an effort to introduce in that country the youth hostel movement.

The hostels are overnight stops at wayside homes prearranged for the travelers who carry their supplies in knapsacks and who cook their meals and prepare their own beds. The movement has become popular in Europe and along the Atlantic coast in this country.

PLUNGES FROM HOTEL TO DIE.

Edward Canny, 54 years old, unemployed, leaped or fell to his death early yesterday from his third floor room of the Ewing hotel, 347 North Clark street.

VETERANS TOLD COMMUNISM IS RISING MENACE

Units Formed to Battle Red Activities.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Veterans of Foreign Wars, gathering by thousands for their annual encampment, heard charges today that communism and Fascism are growing menaces in the United States.

Pre-convention discussions also drew assertions of a need for teachers' oaths and stronger national defenses.

Victor E. Devereaux, national director of Americanism for the V. F. W., disclosed that 5,000 units of the organization constantly report communistic activities.

"We are fighting communism, Fascism and atheism," said Devereaux.

Stronger on Coasts.

"The interior of the United States is not as badly infested with communists and similar radicals as the coastal regions, with the exception of large cities such as Chicago."

Speaking of the Americanism department's program of education for youth, Devereaux said, "the Reds have their own youth program and are boring into the schools and colleges."

"Teachers," he added, "are molding the idea of the America of tomorrow. Theirs is a patriotic responsibility. The V. F. W. is urging teachers' oath laws to prevent communistic ideas from seeping into our educational system."

Hobson for Big Navy.

Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, retired, who led the volunteers who bottled up the Spanish fleet in Santiago barbor in the Spanish-American war, asserted:

"The best peace insurance the world could have would be for the United States to double the size of its navy, increase its air forces and quickly gain and permanently maintain control of the air and sea in the northern hemisphere at least from the middle Atlantic to the middle Pacific."

DEFIANT CHINESE BAR JAP PROBE OF NEW 'INCIDENT'

SHANGHAI, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Advices from the Japanese gunboat Saga at Pakhoi today asserted rebellious Chinese refused to permit Japanese to land to investigate the reported slaying of a Japanese druggist there. Japanese observers here professed to view the situation gravely and asserted: "It is likely to cause complications betwen Nanking and Tokio."

Insurgent Chinese at Pakhoi were said to be demonstrating against the Japanese and thereby embarrassing the Nanking government. The demonstrators, it was believed, are remnants of the 19th Route army which fought Japanese troops at Shanghai in 1932.

[Hongkong dispatches said two Japanese destroyers arrived at Pakhoi and remained despite a request from Dictator Chiang Kai-shek of the Nanking government that they withdraw to avoid new incidents.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to the White House tonight after a 26 hour river cruise on the U. S. S. Potomac. The President and his small party, including Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Ickes, tried fishing late yesterday south of Quantico, Va., but there was little boasting about the catch.

SHAW ASSAILS CATHOLIC GROUP AS PLAY CENSORS

Resents Their Tinkering with His St. Joan.

New York, Sept. 14 [Monday].—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, in a letter to the New York Times today, said that the Catholic Action society, which he said had "neither the knowledge nor the manners to sustain such a part," had undertaken to censor motion picture production of his play, "St. Joan."

The Irish playwright, in a 3,000 word, three column letter, assailed the Catholic Action society as "an irresponsible Catholic society" and declared it "had assumed control of" the artistic recreations of the American people.

Scenario Is Changed.

"I find in the copy of my scenario that fell into the hands of the Catholic Action that the word 'paradise' and an allusion to a 'halo' are struck out," he wrote, "because they are classed as religious.

"The word damned is cut out apparently because it is profane. The word God is cut out, St. Denis is cut out. Sentences containing the words religion, archbishop, deadly sin, holy, infernal, sacred office and the like are cut out quite senselessly. . . .

What Will Happen to Them?

"I find myself," the playwright wrote, "presented with specific requisitions to be complied with on pain of having all Roman Catholics forbidden to witness an exhibition of my St. Joan film. What will happen to them if they do, whether excommunication or mild penance from the confessional, is not specified.

"On my compliance and submission and 'if the final film appears to be according to the truth of the story and does not contain anything against the prestige of the Roman Catholic church the Catholic Action [Azione Catholica] will declare that the shooting of such a picture has not met with any objections from the church authorities.'

"I cannot accept the pretension of the Catholic Action to represent the Vatican," Shaw wrote. "It is as obnoxious to the United States constitution as any of the features of the New Deal forbidden by the Supreme court. It has no legal authority to enforce its vetoes.

Bring Them to Their Knees.

"Yet it has brought all the Hollywood financiers and corporations to their knees by the threat that if they dare to produce a film banned by it not one of the 20,000,000 Catholics in the United States will be allowed to cross the threshold of any picture house exhibiting it.

"I am not so credulous as the Hollywood financiers," the letter said.

"I will make The Action a present of all the Catholics who never dream of going to a theater under any circumstances; but I defy it to add a baker's dozen to that number by any interdict it can utter."

"I do not consider public control [of theatrical matters] a bad thing in itself," the playwright wrote.

Calls Censorship Wrong.

"I greatly prefer it to the irresponsible and sometimes vicious private control which is the real alternative. But I have again to point out that censorship is the wrong method. Whatever its moral and religious pretenses may be, it always comes in practice to postulating the desirability of an official with the attributes of a god, and then offering the salary of a minor railway station master plus a fee per play to some erring mortal to deputize omniscience.

"There is an epidemic of censorship at present raging through the United States as a protest against the very licentious anarchy which has hitherto prevailed. Through a crowd of amateur regulations and lists of words varying from state to state and even from city to city the anarchists, the pugilists, the pornographers can easily drive a coach and six, as it is useless to check up on the letter if the spirit still eludes.

Play Not Being Filmed.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 13.—(AP)—So far as could be learned tonight, none of the major motion picture studios here has any present plans for the filming of George Bernard Shaw's play "St. Joan."

ASKS FREEDOM

ABD-EL-KRIM.

PARIS, Sept. 14 (Monday).—(AP)—Nationalists charged the Blum government today with attempting to provoke a native uprising in French Morocco in the hope the rebellious movement would spread to Spanish Morocco and cause trouble for Spanish Fascists. Communists, on the other hand, declared a rightist military coup was planned for Morocco "with the complicity of Resident General Marcel Peyrouton."

The rightist newspaper Echo de Paris reported all chiefains of Abd-El-Krim, former war lord of the Riff, had been freed from exile and permitted to return.

"Several quarters affirm the government is trying to provoke trouble in North Morocco to harass both Peyrouton and Franco [Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the Spanish insurgents], the newspaper declared."

Abd-El-Krim, meanwhile, appealed to the government to be freed from his 10 year exile on tiny Reunion Island in the Indian ocean and promised to "be useful to France" if permitted to return to his native country or to settle on the French Mediterranean coast. Decision on his appeal was withheld pending study of "the delicate situation created in Morocco and Algeria by the Spanish civil war."

ADELE H. BLOOD, FORMER STAGE STAR, ENDS LIFE

Port Chester, N. Y., Sept. 14 [Monday].—(AP)—Adele Hope Blood, 50, former Broadway stage star, died today at the United hospital here from a bullet wound which police said was self-inflicted.

Chief of Police Charles Connor of the nearby town of Harrison said she had shot herself at her home on the grounds of the Westchester Country club there.

Connor said he was called by the actress' 20 year old daughter, Dawn Hope Blood, who told him of her mother's act. She was brought to the hospital late last night.

Mrs. Blood withdrew from the theater more than a decade ago to live in California after a successful run in the celebrated drama, "Everywoman."

35,000 REJECT BLUM'S PLEA TO CALL OFF STRIKE

French Premier Visits Textile Mills.

LILLE, France, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Premier Leon Blum failed tonight to arrange a settlement of the "sit-down" strike of 35,000 textile workers here. After long conferences with spokesmen for workers and employers, the premier, who came here in response to an urgent call, announced he had failed to reach "a solution which I consider necessary."

The premier indicated failure to end the discord, despite his personal intervention, was due to the employers. The employers told Blum, informed sources said, their businesses would not stand the strain of a 10 per cent raise in workers' salaries—one of the demands of the strikers—without government aid.

Warns Employers.

The premier gave the employers a 24 hour period in which to select a member of his government to decide the difficulties between them and the striking workers. He told them the collective labor contract provided in legislation recently enacted by parliament should be signed and the workers should return to their benches without unnecessary delay.

He said he would persist, however, in his efforts to mediate the strike and warned that similar occupational strikes throughout France have had "repercussions which appear to me to be considerable both in France and abroad."

"I shall not renounce the task which the government has undertaken," Blum declared, "and will continue it with renewed vigor."

Spaniards on Guard.

In Paris, meanwhile, tens of thousands of communists marched to the Pere la Chaise cemetery for the unveiling of a memorial to Henri Barbusse, radical French writer. The monument was erected with funds subscribed by Russian workers.

The communists sang the "Internationale" and raised their clenched fists in salute, as they passed the marble memorial over which three Spanish communist militiamen stood guard. They had escaped to France from the fall of Irun.

Thousands of Socialists thronged to Pershing stadium where they heard Leon Jouhaux, Socialist leader and others in a massmeeting for "solidarity with the Spanish government."

GALE BRINGS NEEDED RAIN TO TEXAS LANDS; ONLY SLIGHT DAMAGE

Corpus Christi, Tex., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A gulf disturbance blew itself out south of here tonight, bringing rains which were considered beneficial to ranch lands.

The storm, which had threatened the Texas coast, moved inland across a thinly-settled district about 70 miles south of here shortly after 2 p. m. There was slight damage to flimsy buildings, and a few sailboats were turned over during the squally weather.

Further north, at Bay City, a heavy driving rain damaged the rice crop. Elsewhere along the coast there were winds up to 40 miles per hour, accompanied by rainsqualls.

PROWLER TRIES TO END LIFE.

Walter Koziol, 28 years old, arrested Thursday while prowling in the attic of the home of Mrs. Mary Kvapil at 2110 South Fairfield avenue, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by beating his head against the bars in the Marquette police station lockup.

THOUSANDS SEE FLOWER SHOW; AWARDS TODAY

Thousands of visitors continued to view the first International Horticultural exposition at the International amphitheater of the Union stockyards yesterday in spite of rainy weather. The 75 judges completed their review of the displays of more than 2,000 amateur exhibitors and additional exhibits of colleges and clubs. Prizes will be announced today.

Officials announced that new entries will be received in 295 amateur floriculture classes [dahlias excepted] until Wednesday, and duplicate prizes, corresponding to those awarded in the first group entered, will be given in this new exhibit.

Lectures by leading horticulturists from the United States and Canada will be made today on the cultivation of various flowers and plants. Folk dances will be given at 4:30 p. m. on the main stage.

THE LAKE SHORE TRACKS.

Chicago is proud of its outer drives. Visitors marvel at the easy access offered to the center of the city. The condition is unique in metropolitan cities. Just imagine being able to proceed to New York City's City Hall square or Boston's Hub in perfect safety, without physical or mental strain and at highway speeds! Chicago is going to maintain and extend these beautiful stretches of roadway irrespective of legal pitfalls or attempts to commercialize them.

The Leif Ericson drive has been extended across Grant park to the Chicago river. On the north Grand avenue has been bridged. Difficulties of loop trafic congestion will be short-circuited as soon as the bridge at the mouth of the river is completed. The consummation of an ideal cannot and will not be blocked by a series of stop and go lights along Lake Shore drive between Ohio street and Chicago avenue just because the Surface Lines insists on delivering a few passengers on the east side of the superhighway. The system is not going to be disfigured by intersecting or parallel trolley lines.

This much is definite and every devout Chicagoan is looking forward to the completion of the bridge. It is difficult to understand the claim of the Surface Lines that it will lose revenue by removing its lake shore tracks because of parallel service on Grand avenue; but, be this as it may, the amount of trafic lost could scarcely embarrass the company. More to the point, it will eventually find that the retention of public good will is of greater value than a few fares. It is certainly losing heavily in this department as it continues obstructionist tactics to preserve the occupancy of a right of way that never should have been granted it.

MR. ROOSEVELT IN THE GREEN PASTURES.

Again in his speech at Charlotte, N. C., Mr. Roosevelt gave evidence that he has lost the witchery that charmed his auditors in the early days of the dictatorship.

His reference to "green pastures" has already brought out a crop of new Roosevelt jokes. An ominous sign; a dictator may exist even though hated, but he cannot last when he becomes ridiculous.

When Mr. Roosevelt went on to discuss his preparation for the presidency he opened a subject which needs airing. Speaking autobiographically, Mr. Roosevelt said he had been occupied in his career in the "highly competitive give and take of the profession of the law, the practice of business, and the exactions of public service."

In this connection it would be interesting to know who were some of Mr. Roosevelt's clients. There are a good many distinguished and successful lawyers at the New York bar. So far as is known, Mr. Roosevelt never was numbered among them. He did hang out his shingle, but if he ever played a leading part in important litigation or negotiation the facts should be brought out. Otherwise Mr. Roosevelt will again be in the position of making statements he cannot prove. Certainly his services never were in great demand. If his livelihood had depended upon his abilities as a lawyer he would have had fewer houses, fewer ship models, and fewer servants.

Of Mr. Roosevelt's experiences in the give and take of business little is chronicled except his activities as a director of Camco and his interest in a pool operation in German marks. Camco was a stock promotion in boom times which should be explained if it will bear explaining. A lot of people who may have reposed confidence in his name printed on the fanciful prospectus lost a lot of money when the scheme blew up, as it did with great promptitude once the stock had been sold. The speculation in German marks dated from the German inflation. It can best be described, perhaps, as a venture in money changing.

Mr. Roosevelt's references to "the exactions of public service" will be read with frank incredulity. He has always taken his responsibilities lightly. With the exception of a brief service as a state legislator, the offices he has held have been at least comfortable. He was assistant secretary of the navy when other men of his age were in the trenches. His later offices as governor and President provided a living that can be described only as magnificent. The exactions he speaks of have been less his tnan the taxpayers'. He left the governorship of New York with an enormous accumulation of debt. Certainly he has never sweated to balance a budget. Whatever the exactions may have been, they have not obliged him to reject for long any proposal for debauching the civil service or otherwise wasting public money.

Mr. Roosevelt went on at Charlotte to claim credit for such recovery as has been attained in this country. The AAA, the NRA, and similar agencies, he said, turned the trick. He neglected only to mention that, for practical purposes, the revival of business in this country dates from the Supreme court's invalidation of NRA. As one scheme after another was rejected by the court the tide of recovery rose. It seems fair to conclude that if none of his ill considered and revolutionary schemes had been adopted the recovery in this country would long ago have reached the levels achieved in other lands not blessed with the New Deal.

A POWER PROGRAM MADE IN RUSSIA

Today Mr. Golding of the Chicago bar calls attention to the astounding similarity between the electrification program announced by Lenin for Russia in the early '20s and the electrification program announced by Mr. Roosevelt for America some ten years later.

Comrade Lenin saw in state ownership of electrical power services a mighty engine for the promotion of communism. Communism, he said, consisted of the soviet form of government, plus electrification.

Mr. Roosevelt's effort to concentrate authority first in Washington and then in his hands was in large part frustrated by the Supreme court. He has, therefore, not achieved—as yet—the first of Comrade Lenin's objectives. But he is hard at work on the second. His TVA, his REA, his Grand Coulee, Platte river, and Quoddy projects, to name but a few of his electrification schemes, show how earnestly he is following the lead given him from Russia.

Mr. Roosevelt's notions about the rôle in future of great central power stations are open to most serious question on technical grounds. But that point may be passed by. The fact of outstanding importance is that the building and control of such stations by the government was recognized by his preceptor in Russia as one of the two means of bringing the communist state into being.

Mr. Roosevelt was an apt pupil.

OUR AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN.

Mr. Claude Bowers' presence in or absence from Spain is explained on the literary page. Mr. Bowers is the soi disant ambassador to a country which was in the way of becoming the joy of the tourist when he was appointed and has since become the bomber's delight and anarchy's prize hope.

Mr. Bowers is distinguished as a man of letters and not of action. His literary services to the Democratic party even after it became the demagogic party were highly regarded and he was rewarded with what now proves to have been a WPA and not a diplomatic job. He had in process or in contemplation a new work on Thomas Jefferson and the appointment as ambassador to Spain was in the nature of author's aid.

Mr. Bowers went to Madrid to write, adding to his chief opus another volume entitled "Jefferson in Power," 538 pages, 16 pictures. His choice of subject among the great Americans of the revolution and early republic was definitly one of sympatico. Jefferson also was a man of letters and not of action, and Mr. Bowers in his partisanship has been a bit severe on the men of the camp and field when they cross Jefferson's path.

Spanish archives are yet to yield a wealth of American material for the historian. Mr. Bowers may or may not have done some delving. Probably he was given Spain for no such reason, but rather because it was a charming place and the work would not be too exacting for the third assistant. It proved, however, to be the world's powder keg, a mishap tempered for Mr. Bowers by the fact that he had his book done and the manuscript with the printers, even had the proofs corrected, before everything blew up, including the ambassador. Now it is plain that Mr. Bowers should have been made port collector at Kennebunk, Me., where he would have encountered nothing more violent than Booth Tarkington. He would still be at Kennebunk, whereas in his present service no one knows where he is except to know that he has not been at his post in Madrid and is completely out of the country to which he is accredited.

Mr. Bowers will be allowed to plead that he went to Spain to get a book into the hands of his publishers and not to evacuate Americans from a war torn land. He has been successful in his service as he understood it. There's another popular book he might have written, "Gone with the Wind."

TILLING THE SEA.

[Hartford Courant.]

With the opening of the traditional oyster season, the oystermen are preparing to harvest a crop that, from the time when it was planted, has been cultivated as assiduously as any farmer ever cared for his garden patch. Indeed, the comparison between oyster and plant cultivation is strikingly close. With oysters as with land crops, there is planting, transplanting, cultivating, weeding, and harvesting to be done, each in its season and with the same penalty for the oyster grower who neglects one of the operations that attaches to the husbandman.

If oysters are not literally planted, the shell to which the small fry attaches itself is. Clean shell is shipped to the planting grounds, which have been leased from the state, and strewn evenly along the bottom before the spawning season. The fry attach themselves to these husks of their ancestors and draw from them calcium that they need to build their own shells rapidly. From time to time, particularly during the winter, the oyster boats pass over the beds, dragging huge mops to entangle what is, next to man, the greatest lover of the oyster, the starfish. They are brought to the surface by the mops by thousands and, after being scalded in hot water, are sold for fertilizer.

In addition to the "weeding" for starfish, however, the oyster beds must be, almost literally, "cultivated" by dragging to break up shell clusters and spread the growing oysters evenly over the bottom. Generally, too, at least once during their lifetime, the oysters are dredged up, those growing together broken up by hand, and then thrown back. A few months before they are ready to be harvested the shellfish are dredged up again and transported from their growing beds to other beds in clearer water to avoid any possibility of pollution. And finally, three years or so after the shell was first planted, they are dredged up for the last time and shipped to market.

The bravest man in history, according to the classic definition, was he who ate the first oyster. Second only to him, as any oyster grower will ruefully admit, is the man who takes up the cultivation of oysters. For him there is no season when his fields lie fallow. Winter and summer, to him, are cultivating months. Of the troubles of the land farmer the oysterman is spared only the drouth, though to compensate for it he has a host of difficulties of which the farmer has never dreamed. But the oyster season has opened and, if the oyster grower's difficulties are not ended, the pleasures of the oyster eater are about to begin.

SPANISH BLOOD.

In my waking or my dreaming it is calling clear to me;
Calling, calling as a mother to her exile son. In vain
Have I sought to still the pleading that would lure me home to Spain.

I have never seen the glory of the sunrise on Seville,
I have never felt the magic touch of old Madrid, and still
There's a luring and a longing ever burning in my brain—
For my fathers they were Spaniards, and they sailed the Spanish Main.

In the time of the Armada, in the years of Moorish sway,
In the dawn of Spanish triumph, in the hour of Spain's decay,
All my people proved their kinship; lived and loved and, fighting, fell
For the honor of their breeding, and the land they loved so well.

There are Spanish sons in many climes; they never change their hearts.
And the calling and the craving will yet charm them back to Spain.

TINGLE FROM TINGTOWN.

Re Tingtown, Minn., which advertises, "POPULATION 4½"; the Lippmans and Bankmans, who know the road between Chisholm and Hibbing, tell me Tingtown is a hot dog joint run by a family of four and a dog. Anything else you want cleared up?—E. B. Yes, what does the dog do to keep cool?

BUT HOLD! WAIT!

Tingtown, Minn., pop. 4½, is a garage with semi-bath attached. The sign is not strictly accurate, as there are really five Tingtowners. They are Swedish people and one of them is a girl named Effie. Her father, who has a big mustache, always called her Haffie, and thus the ½ legend grew up. Are you satisfied?—Veritas. No, nor will be until the Tingtown Rotary club gives us the lowdown.

HOW "NERVES" INJURE HEALTH.

According to the figures of the ministry of health, about 30 per cent of all the illness in Great Britain is believed to be due to functional nervous disease, and a recent report by E. F. Skinner warns emphatically against misinterpreting many of the symptoms as evidences of organic disease [actual changes in the tissues].

For our purpose we may take up three types of functional disorders: [1] hysteria, [2] that which results from anxiety, and [3] that which is characterized by obsessions. While each differs from the others, all hark back to the same failure, namely, the inability of the victim to adapt himself to his environment—his family, his employment, or his friends.

Let us consider the simplest form—hysteria—in which the individual is unhappy, uncongenial, and feels that he is misunderstood by every one. He is like the youngster who believes that nobody loves him and who declares he is going out into the garden to eat worms—both woolly and smooth.

Failing to attract attention in any other manner, he plans for himself a line of conduct which is spectacular and which he hopes will bring sympathy. He is simply reverting to a childlike type of behavior. If the manifestation resolves itself into illness, and if the members of the family respond with solicitude, with jellies, fruits, flowers, and books, the patient may settle into a state of satisfied repose.

Some of us have encountered the typical hysteric who has been bedridden for years—the center of interest for a large circle of friends and relatives, the recipient of felicitations on his [or her] remarkable fortitude in bearing up. The fact is that the "sufferer" is extremely happy and would be unwilling to exchange the couch for health unless some equally compensating advantage were in prospect.

The anxious patient, on the other hand, is irritable, quick, mentally alert, and strongly desirous of recovering his health. But he is afraid of failing in whatever he undertakes. He shuns competition because he fears he will be worsted and thus disgraced. One of the most pronounced dangers of unemployment lies in the possible development of a neurosis, making the individual utterly incompetent to take on even a minor task. Idleness, however, does not affect every one alike, as some will complacently accept conditions as they are and become willing dependents for life, with complete loss of ambition.

A neurosis which is accompanied by an obsession is the least common of all. It is a sharp reversion to a subconscious belief in magic, in the powers of the supernatural. For example, the Welsh mother will tie a sprig of mistletoe around her child's neck and believe implicitly that it will prevent fits.

The case is reported of a 24 year old man who began to evince a distinct aversion to passing a certain door on a particular street. An unpleasant incident associated with the door filled the panorama of his mind. As the feeling grew he could not bring himself to walk down the same street, and was obliged to follow another pathway to his work.

We can visualize to what ends this type of behavior will carry an otherwise normal person if it is surrendered to without the saving grace of self-control and common sense. It may be difficult, however, to persuade the victim that he is catering only to a superstition, an evidence of weakness.

These instances emphasize the need for physicians who understand the vagaries of the human mind as well as the amount of sugar in the blood or the measurement of the corpuscles. I have my doubts that neuroses are accountable for so high a percentage of illness as Skinner contends. Nevertheless there are many so afflicted, and complete recovery is possible with a careful diagnosis and the right approach.

H. O. writes: I work in a basement fur factory, with no windows or ventilation of any kind. After a day's work I feel dizzy and weak and in the morning my throat is very dry. Every time we complain to the boss about this lack of ventilation, he will light a cigaret and tell us that the air is good because the smoke goes up to the ceiling. We are all worried about our health, but are afraid of reporting the place, as we may lose our jobs.

REPLY.

The health authorities should be informed of the situation confronting you and your fellow workers. There are laws which prohibit insanitary working conditions. An investigator from the health department can determine the ventilation needed and compel its installation. Complaints of this sort are regarded as confidential by the authorities.

2. What is the remedy?
3. Is the condition dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Vincent's angina is sometimes called trench mouth. It is due to infection with a spiral-shaped organism—a spirillum—and occurs chiefly in unclean mouths or whenever the general health is low. Ulcerated areas appear on the tonsils and the mucous surfaces.
2. Solutions of hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate have been used with success. Painting the infected areas with a solution of salvarsan is effective.

M. B. writes: Is it something in the diet or lack of some food that causes my nephew, aged 19, and my niece, aged 15, to grow so tall and slim? My nephew is 6 feet 10 inches and my niece 6 feet.

REPLY.

Growth is governed by a number of factors, among which the secretion from the pituitary gland is of prime importance. Overactivity of this gland produces tall individuals. The X-ray is sometimes used as a control.

HAIR ON BODY.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Canals, Monopolies, Banks, and the Freedom of the Press

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 14, 1787.—In convention. Mr. Williamson of North Carolina moved to reconsider in order to increase the number of representatives fixed for the first legislature. His purpose was to make an addition of one-half generally to the number allotted to the respective states and to allow two to the smallest states. [Defeated, 6 to 5.] Mr. Rutledge and Mr. Gouverneur Morris moved that "persons impeached be suspended from office until they be tried and acquitted." Mr. Madison: The President is made too much dependent already on the legislature by the power of one branch to try him in consequence of an impeachment by the other. This intermediate suspension will put him in the power of one branch only. They can at any moment vote a temporary removal of the existing magistrate. [The motion was defeated, three ay, eight no.]

Dr. Franklin moved to add after the words, "post roads," "a power to provide for cutting canals where deemed necessary." Mr. Sherman objected. The expense will fall on the United States and the benefit will fall where the canals may be cut. Mr. Wilson: Instead of an expense to the United States, they may be made a source of revenue. Mr. Madison suggested an enlargement of the motion into a power "to grant charters of incorporation where the interest of the United States might require and the legislative provisions of individual states may be incompetent." His primary object was, however, to secure an easy communication between the states. Mr. King thought the power unnecessary. Mr. Wilson: It is necessary to prevent a state from obstructing the general welfare.

Mr. King: The states will be prejudiced and divided into parties by it. In Philadelphia and New York it will be referred to the establishment of a bank which has been a subject of contention in those cities. In other places it will be referred to mercantile monopolies. Mr. Wilson mentioned the importance of facilitating by canals the communication with the western settlements. As to banks, he did not think with Mr. King that the power in that point of view would excite the prejudices and parties apprehended. As to mercantile monopolies, they are already included in the power to regulate trade. Col. Mason was for limiting the power to the single case of canals. He was afraid of monopolies of every sort which he did not think were by any means already implied by the constitution as supposed by Mr. Wilson. The motion being so modified as to admit a distinct question specifying and limited to the case of canals—[all no except Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Georgia].

[A proposal supported by Col. Mason, Mr. Randolph, and Mr. Madison to guard against standing armies by a discountenance of them in the constitution was defeated as setting, in the words of Mr. Gouverneur Morris, "a dishonorable mark of distinction on the military class of citizens."]

Mr. Pinckney of South Carolina and Mr. Gerry of Massachusetts moved to insert a declaration "that the liberty of the press should be inviolably observed." Mr. Sherman of Connecticut: It is unnecessary. The power of congress does not extend to the press. On the question it passed in the negative. [Massachusetts and South Carolina ay.] Mr. Gerry entered into observations inculcating the importance of public faith and the propriety of the restraint put on the states from impairing the obligation of contract, alleging that congress ought to be laid under like prohibition, he made a motion to that effect. He was not seconded. Adjourned.

HIS REASONS.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 11.—I am going to vote for Mr. Landon because:

1. Landon knows what it means to earn a living.
2. Landon has demonstrated his ability to understand and carry out sound, economical finance.
3. Landon's ability is in actual performance, not in the realm of radio speaking perfection.
4. Landon knows the needs of farmers, but he believes farmers do not want to become objects of charity.
5. Landon is a friend of labor, but he also recognizes the necessity of encouraging capital.
6. Landon is democratic in the truest sense; he does not believe in fomenting class hatred.
7. Landon believes in American institutions and does not want European methods to prevail in the U. S. A.
8. Landon's record is unblemished; he has had no connection with shady stock transactions.
9. Landon knows the dangers of inflation and understands the futility of "pulling ourselves up by our bootstraps."
10. Landon wants to reduce taxes, especially the indirect kind; he knows excessive taxation will ruin any country.
11. Landon will balance the budget in the only proper way: Reduction of cost of government.
12. Landon will protect domestic producers against foreign imports.
13. Landon is for economy of plenty, not economy of scarcity.
14. Landon knows that unemployment can be solved only by industrial activity that is not produced by artificial stimulation.
15. Landon understands the necessity of relief measures, but realizes politics must be kept out of relief.
16. Landon hates deficits just as he dislikes war.
17. Landon would keep us free from any European entanglements.
18. Landon is not favored by radicals and communists.
19. Landon doesn't believe in the persecution of business men, but considers them the lifeblood of the nation.
20. Landon is not in favor of making congress just another burocracy.
21. Landon is in favor of a strong, vigorous federal government, but he also respects the rights of states.
22. Landon respects the constitution; he will not try to circumvent the basic law of the land.
23. Landon believes in keeping his pledges to the American people and not disregarding them after election.
24. Landon believes in a policy of free competition to maintain the independence of the citizen.
25. Landon believes in a government of laws, not one of arbitrary authority.

NONE TODAY.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—I suppose if I had been bragging up one side of the political party and the other side I suppose you would have printed my two letter's to this Column.

But because I have wrote the truth about all Parties, you rather not print it.

I wrote those letters, one on Aug. 29 and the other Sept. 1, failed to see them printed but lots of nonsense is printed every day. J. C. Kindle.

FOR A CITY MANAGER.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—At the beginning of your editorial page you have for a long time printed a caption "Throw the rascals out."

Your editorial writers know very well that if they were really sincere in agitating a plan to give us better government locally that could be accomplished by getting behind a city manager form of government.

About twenty-five cities have decided in favor of that form of rule, and in every instance a sharp reduction in real estate taxes amounting to about one-half has been shown, to say nothing of tremendous reductions in other forms of taxation and costs in all departments.

George W. Trent.

MYSTERY STORY.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—What has become of Vice President Garner? Isn't he running for some office on the New Deal ticket? If above the din of the campaign you hear a noise like an oyster, that's him. It looks like he is not very enthusiastic about the more abundant life, such as they have in Spain, and the voters are not either—for abundant reasons. C.

SECOND ENLISTMENT.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—At the age of 18 I enlisted to save the world for democracy. Today at 37 I am enlisted to save the American republic for democracy. That is why I contributed $50 of my bonus money to elect Landon and Knox.

Ben Kallis.

ADOPTION RECORDS.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I was born about 1900, adopted legally about 1904. Where would I find record of this, and would there be any fee?

2. Would a legally adopted child have any claim to an estate of a foster grandmother?

3. A promise was made verbally before death of foster grandmother that I would be "taken care of." No will was evidently left.

4. Could I demand share of estate? If will was left [5] where could I receive a copy thereof or see it? Are they on record?

6. Deceased eight years, could will, if any, still be opened?

1. Presumably in the office of the clerk of the County court at the county seat of the county in which the adopting parents resided. It seems probable that the clerk of the court would be willing to answer a simple question without charge.
2. The Illinois statute says that the adopted child "shall not be capable of taking property from the lineal or collateral kindred of such parents by right of representation" [chapter 4, p. 5].
3. Such promises would not be enforceable as a will, because statutory formalities were not complied with. It would not be enforceable as a contract for lack of legal consideration.
4. See preceding answers.
5. At the office of the clerk of the Probate court.
6. A will contest must be commenced within one year after commencement of probate proceedings.

CROWN POINT'S MARRIAGE MILL GOES BOOTLEG!

And Marrying Parson Is First Casualty.

Bootleg gin, a creature of prohibition, was blamed in years past for the size of the notorious marriage industry at Crown Point, Chicago's Gretna Green; but early yesterday, with a prohibition in effect there against midnight weddings, the marriages themselves went bootleg. And there was a casualty, as often happens in bootlegging.

The new prohibition, which came as a distinct shock to Crown Point's marrying parsons and justices of the peace, was the doing of Mayor W. Vincent Youkey. At his insistence the council passed an ordinance late Saturday. It contained a curfew law prohibiting public marrying offices from remaining open after 9 p. m. Neither could they advertise marriage salons, solicit young couples, nor marry any one intoxicated.

Officials Act Swiftly.

Immediately after its passage, the mayor, the police and city firemen set about posting the ordinance in public squares. Justices of the peace were compelled to take down signs announcing "Marriage Ceremonies Performed Here."

The justices complied with the order, but the Rev. Howard H. Kemp, who has played an important rôle in the $50,000 annual marriage industry, refused. His advertising sign was then torn down from his office.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp was indignant. So was Mrs. Kemp. They engaged a lawyer immediately to set about fighting the ordinance. Meanwhile, Kemp apparently figured it would be possible to "bootleg" a few early morning marriages and still be within the law.

Customers Still Arrive.

None of the county offices are affected by the city ordinance, so the marriage bureau remained open until early in the morning, selling licenses at advanced rates to young couples who continued to arrive in profitable numbers.

One of these couples was directed to Kemp's office. The parson explained to them the contretemps. If they would accompany him to his home [a man's home is his castle and not a public office] he would be glad to join them in holy wedlock.

Cautiously the conspirators tiptoed down the rear stairs. But this stairway is very narrow. In his haste Kemp tripped and plunged headlong. The fall broke his left leg. He was taken to the Methodist hospital in Gary.

"It just goes to show," remarked Mayor Youkey, "that it doesn't pay to sneak around the law."

WOMAN ASSAILS PAROLE ABUSE AT PRISON PARLEY

Delegates Open 5 Day Conference Here.

Abuses of the parole system were assailed last night by Mrs. Blanche L. La Du, president of the American Prison association, in an address at the opening session of the 66th congress of the association in the Stevens hotel. Mrs. La Du is a practicing attorney of Minneapolis.

"It is not the theory of parole," she said, "but the administration of parole that is causing the trouble. Just so long as dangerous or habitual criminals are turned loose in the community after serving a very brief term for a serious offense, whether by mistake of the parole board or political pressure, just so long will danger to the community and antagonism to the parole system exist."

Supports New York Finding.

Mrs. La Du's address supported findings in a report of the Prison Association of New York, copies of which were distributed at the meeting.

"The people are led to believe that there is a parole system in operation," the report stated, "but not more than six or seven states and the federal government have what can be termed suitable and scientific parole methods."

Another speaker was James A. Pratt, superintendent of the Maryland Training School for Boys, who discussed a program of education to adjust the future lives of juvenile offenders. Mr. Pratt is president of the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies, which is holding its 33d annual convention, and is meeting with the prison association at several sessions.

Juvenile Group Withdraws.

The juvenile agencies group has decided to sever relationship with the prison association after this congress and to affiliate henceforth with the National Conference of Social Workers.

Presiding over last night's meeting was Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, chairman of the Chicago committee of the prison association.

Among the speakers at today's session will be Sanford Bates, director of the United States bureau of prisons; Warden Roy Best of Colorado prison, and Warden C. F. McClintic of West Virginia penitentiary.

Cheer Social Worker.

After last night's meeting was adjourned, and as the crowd began to depart, a member of the audience arose to ask for a speech from a former vice president of the association who celebrated her 71st birthday yesterday. He introduced Maud Ballington Booth of New York, Former Salvation Army worker, now a leader in the Volunteers of America. Her brief speech won cheers.

An exhibition of manufactured goods from the Illinois prisons is being held at the convention. It was arranged by George T. Scully, chief parole supervisor.

POLICE PREVENT BROWDER TALK AT ATLANTA, GA.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Greeted at the station by a police reception committee, Earl Browder, communist candidate for President, canceled an address in this Georgia capital which once sentenced a radical to 20 years' imprisonment for preaching doctrins of communism.

A detail of four detectives with orders to arrest Browder if he made any "communistic utterances" met him upon his arrival last night from a speaking engagement at Birmingham.

Browder ate lunch at the Terminal restaurant and boarded another train. He said his next stop will be Tampa, Fla.

Farmer-Laborite Leader Pneumonia Victim.

Litchfield, Minn., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Magnus Johnson, a Swedish immigrant to the northwest in the '90s who became a United States congressman and senator, died early today. He would have been 65 years old next Saturday.

Stricken with pneumonia Aug. 23, Johnson was brought to a hospital here from his home in Kimball. He rallied last week until Friday, when his condition took a sudden turn for the worse.

Heart stimulants were administered and he was placed under an oxygen tent, but lapsed into unconsciousness last night and died at 4:27 a. m. Members of his family, including the widow, were at the bedside.

Backer of Coöperatives.

Soon after he established a homestead in Meeker county, Minnesota, after working several years as a Wisconsin lumberjack, Johnson interested himself in coöperatives and the Farmer-Labor movement. He served in both houses of the Minnesota legislature and in 1923 was elected to the United States sentate to fill out the unexpired term of the late Knute Nelson.

When the former senator was defeated for the governorship of Minnesota in 1926 by Theodore Christianson, the Republican senatorial candidate, Johnson returned to his farm. He returned to the political wars in 1932.

Leads Twenty-six for Congress.

Running for congress against 26 others in a race in which nine "at large" seats were to be filled, Johnson was first with 388,616 votes. As a representative he supported President Roosevelt and voted for most New Deal measures.

He was defeated for reëlection in 1934 by Harold Knutson, and in the primary last June lost the Farmer-Labor gubernatorial nomination to Senator Elmer Benson.

Johnson attracted nation-wide attention when in 1923 as a dirt farmer he was elected to the United States senate.

Son of a boat captain, Magnus Johnson was born in Varmland, Sweden, Sept. 19, 1871.

WELFARE GROUP MEETS SEPT. 17, 18 IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Representatives of private welfare organizations from all parts of the country will meet here Thursday and Friday to plan the 1936 Mobilization for Human Needs. The conference was called by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, who is chairman of the mobilization.

The meeting will open at 10 o'clock Thursday morning when President Roosevelt will address the conference from the south portico of the White House. Among the matters to be considered at the conference are problems of restoring unemployed to gainful occupations, hospitalization and clinics for the poor, child welfare, visiting nursing and programs of leisure time and character building societies.

More than four hundred persons are expected to attend the two day meeting. At the Thursday night meeting Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, Republican national committee worker, will discuss "The Outlook for American Youth," and Miss Dorothy Thompson, foreign correspondent and news commentator, will talk on "Youth in Europe and the United States."

Blood Poisoning Fatal to Pana, Ill., Girl, 12

Pana, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Gladys Irene, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carlock, died today of tetanus, caused by piercing her foot when wading in a ditch two weeks ago.

ASSEMBLY MEETS TONIGHT; RENEW FEUD ON RELIEF

There were predictions yesterday that another split between Gov. Horner and Cook county Democrats may develop tonight when the special session of the general assembly reconvenes at Springfield.

Two weeks ago, while Gov. Horner was out of the capital, the Cook county forces blocked his plan to wind up the affairs of the session with a sine die adjournment. He may direct his downstate leaders to attempt such an adjournment tonight, it is reported, and if he does so it is probable that the Chicago Democrats will oppose his plan forcibly.

The most important bill pending is the $10,000,000 relief appropriation proposal of Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelly's spokesman in the upper chamber. Ward said yesterday that if the attendance warrants he will ask the passage of his bill. If the attendance is light, he said, he will seek a recess until tomorrow, when more senators may appear.

Mayor Kelly hopes to receive some word today concerning the attitude of the Reconstruction Finance corporation toward his proposal that the corporation purchase Chicago relief tax warrants issued under the Hickman-Lantz act. He presented his proposal directly to President Roosevelt at Springfield.

FOX LAKE MAYOR WILL FACE WIFE'S CONTEMPT SUIT

The troublesome domestic situation in the home of the Arthur J. Amundsens in Fox Lake was unchanged yesterday as Mrs. Amundsen prepared to seek a contempt citation against her husband in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan today. Amundsen, who is village president of Fox Lake, was sued for divorce by his wife, Rose, last week, but she neglected for a time to tell him about it.

Mrs. Amundsen even prepared a few meals for her husband before her attorney, Gerald Snyder of Waukegan, emphatically informed her that she was endangering her divorce case by doing so. Snyder reminded her that she had obtained an injunction restraining her husband being on the same premises with her.

"He comes in quietly every night now," Mrs. Amundsen said, "and goes to his room. What can I do with that man? We own the house in joint tenancy and I can't put him out." However, she no longer cooks meals for her husband. Now, she said, he eats in restaurants.

PLANE CRASH KILLS ONE AND HURTS ANOTHER

Rochester, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—An airplane crashed at nearby Conway airport this afternoon, killing Sidney R. Messner of Pittsburgh and seriously injuring Charles F. Kropf of Bellevue, near Pittsburgh.

Physicians at Rochester General hospital said Kropf's condition is critical. He incurred fractures of both legs and injuries to the head and chest.

The crash was the second in the Pittsburgh district in eight days. The "Skyways," a sightseeing plane, crashed near the Allegheny County airport on Saturday, Sept. 5. Ten persons died in the fire swept wreckage.

Who Takes Care of Your Hair? WHY WELLINGTON?

He Can Save It and Generally Thicken It

WELLINGTON service is under the immediate supervision of WELLINGTON—a specialist who, in his own Institute, oversees all its work.

This service is not a "system" or "method." It is found in no other office.

WELLINGTON by constant study and research has won some fine commendation from scientists. He is convinced that he has added much in new discoveries concerning the hair.

(1) Health of the hair (not noticeable as "falling") may be affected as early as fiften years of age. A new physical status and new responsibilities and nervous strains are coincident.

(2) That the idea of "heredity" is to be considered more as a tendency to be combated to avoid baldness, just as a tendency toward weak lungs is to be combated to avoid "consumption."

(3) That habits, patterned after parents, account for much which passes as "heredity."

(4) That the scalp's blood supply, reaching farthest from the heart straight up, with no down flow to it, as in the rest of the body, is not sufficiently compensated by nature to withstand the unnatural strains put upon it by individuals.

(5) That certain forms of dandruff develop into one of the most stubborn disorders of the scalp if not corrected.

WELLINGTON treatment must recommend itself. Consultation is without cost. No advance payment is solicited. No medicines or home helps to buy. You will like the "atmosphere" here.

Many of our patrons come from nearby states. Some as far distant also as Pennslyvania, New York, Washington, D. C. We give such "appointments." Our price is published. It is not competitive or open to change.

UNEARTH TRACE OF FIRST LIFE IN MICHIGAN AREA

Iron Mountain, Mich., Sept. 13.—(AP)—WPA dynamiters at a municipal quarry here were credited today by Oscar H. Reonholt, geologist and mining engineer, with having unearthed evidence of life forms that existed 1 billion 500 million years ago.

Reinholt, who formerly served with various federal departments, said the discovery means that the upper Michigan peninsula region "now takes precedence over the section near Saratoga Springs, N. Y., as the oldest region in which life forms are known to have existed."

The important new tract lies between the north and south iron veins of the Menominee range and is far older than the iron foundations, he said, adding:

"If this doesn't outrank all the geological discoveries of history, it is at least as important as the appearance of the dinosauri in Mongolia, the toothed bird archeoptery in Bavaria, or the Ranco la Brea camels, lions, and sabre toothed tigers near Los Angeles."

Once a Granite Island.

The geologist stated that billions of years ago, in the Algonkian era, Wisconsin was a large granite island and the Menominee range country was the shore of a sea which probably extended into eastern Canada. The discovery here, he said, led geologists to deduce that the shore was gently sloping, since the deposit there was seaweed instead of stones and gravel, as it would have been had the shore risen sharply from the water's edge.

The seaweed, Reinholt continued, secreted lime and magnesium from the salt water and the lime preserved the seaweed's form, a shape rather like a head of cabbage.

Sun's Part Is Explained.

When the forms were exposed to the sun, fissures occurred and new materials filled the cracks. Under the pressure of later layers, as the ages progressed, the seaweed consolidated so that some layers now have a thickness of 2,000 feet.

Sometime, probably at the beginning of the upper Huronian, Reinholt continued, the strata tilted and the consolidated algae were eroded, with beveled edges to receive new sediment. Further earth disturbances squeezed them together and made them stand on end.

FEW ESCAPE EXPOSURE

to this most dreadful of all the diseases that afflict men and women!

Because syphilis can be acquired innocently and exist without your knowledge, an examination by your doctor or this clinic is advised!

BASED on U. S. Public Health Service figures, 1 out of every 5 persons in this country has or has had syphilis! In fact, Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, declares:

"Outrageous as it may seem, few men and women past 21 have never been exposed to syphilis. Remember that a kiss may carry the germ. One of our health officers traced 17 cases of syphilis to a party at which kissing games were played!

"I estimate that half the victims of syphilis are innocently infected; the larger part in marriage or by inheritance. Many cases come from the use of a recently soiled drinking cup, pipe or cigarette, and in receiving services from diseased barbers, beauty shop operators, nursemaids, etc.

"Syphilis is a plague that is wrecking lives, shattering homes, and filling institutions with its insane, blind or unemployable victims. Perhaps the refusal of insurance because of organic heart disease, the failure of vision preceding blindness, the irritability and delusions of general paresis, or the stumbling gait of locomotor ataxia first brings knowledge of the infection!"

Early examination is best

Because syphilis can easily be cured or arrested in its earlier stages, it is highly desirable to be examined for it while there is still a good chance of recovery. Such an examination can be obtained from your family physician, or you can get it confidentially and at very low cost from the Public Health Institute.

However, even those with long-standing syphilis should not despair, for modern methods of treatment are benefiting many supposedly hopeless cases. For example, it is frequently possible these days to restore to usefulness persons who have become insane from syphilis! So, if you know or suspect that you have the disease, don't delay another moment but seek proper medical attention at once!

The friendly men and women physicians of the Public Health Institute specialize in treating syphilis and gonorrhea—an almost equally dangerous infection. Up to now they have given more than 4,000,000 treatments to nearly 250,000 patients! Each patient is promptly attended in a private room, and for the sake of even greater privacy is known by a number instead of by name.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute offers low cost venereal disease treatment to those unable to pay higher fees. A complete examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including urinalysis, smears and Wassermann blood test, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Hence no man or woman should let another day pass without making certain that he or she is free from both syphilis and gonorrhea. For not only can the very best of medical attention be obtained confidentially and at nominal cost, but even persons who are temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

IT'S a story told by Representative Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] at a luncheon at the stockyards last week. A victim of the depression, broke, world-weary, and eager for solitude, packed his equipment for a sojourn in the wilderness. An experienced guide looked over his equipment, checking off the various items.

Kibitzer—Suggestion—
Error—
Butlerism—
Commentary—

"But you haven't got a deck of cards," he commented after seeing that bedroll, so many cans of this and this, and a first aid kit was included.

"What do I want with a deck of cards in the wilderness?" asked the world-weary one.

"Well, it's like this," explained the guide. "You think you want to be all alone, and away from the world, but there will come a time when you need help one way or another. And if you'll just sit down and start to play solitaire—in three minutes there'll be somebody looking over your shoulder telling you how you should have played the last card."

* *

MENTION of the stockyards brings to mind that pigs about to be slaughtered now are stunned by means of an electric beam, a device that sounds as if it might be a humanitarian measure. A visitor to the stockyards, who attended a convention banquet the same day, came away wondering why the same device couldn't be used to stun long-winded speakers.

FROM the Monroe [Wis.] Evening Times: "A Monroe shoe clerk is bald. He had the surprise of his long service the other day when, as he stooped before a woman customer, he suddenly found her patting the edge of her dress over his bald pate. The current story insists that the woman, glancing down suddenly, was under the impression that her knee had become exposed and was trying to cover it quickly."

* *

A CHARMING Chicagoan was a guest at a smart Long Island home during a very hot spell. As she came downstairs to the motor in which her bags were being deposited, she encountered the butler, an impressive and awe-inspiring servitor. Wondering whether she could get away with giving him a $5 tip or whether she ought to give him $10, she said brightly, as she fished in her purse, "It certainly is hot today, isn't it Perkins?"

"Yes, madam," answered Perkins gravely, and with hauteur, "I hate to think what it is in Chicago."

* *

COMMENTARY. A friend back from a Long Island summer tells of the child who asked her father if she might have a very special present for her birthday.

"I want it very much, daddy," she pleaded. "Please say I can have it."

"Well, what is it?" asked her father.

"A detective," the child replied. "All the other children have one."

MRS. JOHN HALSEY BLAIR announced Saturday afternoon the engagement of her daughter, Frances Elizabeth, to Thomas Phillips Field, son of Mrs. William Alexander Field of North State parkway. The announcement was made at a small tea in Mrs. Blair's Schiller street apartment.

The engagement of Miss Leslie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Karl Wilson, to Roger Sherman, son of Mrs. Roger Sherman and the late Mr. Sherman of Evanston, was announced at a tea in the Wilsons' Winnetka home yesterday.

Choice of Oct. 3 as Date for Wedding is Surprise.

The young friends of Miss Blair, who always is called Betty, and Mr. Field were not surprised to hear the engagement announcement, for Mr. Field and Miss Blair frequently have been seen in each other's company for quite a long while. However, it was a surprise to learn that the wedding date has been set for Oct. 3, and that Mr. Field and his bride to be already have chosen an apartment at 1366 North Dearborn parkway where they will make their home.

Miss Blair is a graduate of the Girls' Latin school and attended Miss Madeira's school in Washington, D. C., for a year before entering Smith college. She was presented to society at a dinner-dance during the Christmas holidays several years ago. Since finishing her education Miss Blair has been much occupied with a variety of interests, including the Chicago Junior league, the Emerson House settlement, the Visiting Nurse association and the League of Women Voters.

Mr. Field prepared at Choate for Yale university, and later was graduated from the Harvard School of Business administration. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

Wilson Party Limited to Young Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson invited only young friends of their daughter and Mr. Sherman to hear the romantic news concerning the young couple.

Miss Wilson attended the North Shore Country Day school and now is a student at the University of Chicago. She made her debut two years ago at a dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle club, which was given also for Miss Henrietta Boal and Mrs. Francis D. Moore, the former Miss Laura Bartlett.

Mr. Sherman is a graduate of Wesleyan university and is engaged in business here.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Louise Vested Engaged to Wed Herbert R. Keith.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bode Vested announced the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Herbert R. Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Keith, of North Bay, Racine, Wis., at a family dinner Saturday night in the Vesteds' Oglesby avenue home. Miss Vested is a graduate of the Ogontz schools, and is the treasurer of the Chicago Ogontz association. Mr. Keith is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and of the Babson institute. He is engaged in business in Chicago, and he and his bride will make their home here.

Good Morning!

Svenska film fans who count that week lost which doesn't include a visit to the little Julian theater are hugely enjoying its current comedy with music.

I eased in there the other afternoon to see what it was all about and discovered as follows, to wit:

That the players are able and natural.

That there are several pleasing songs and amusing comedy situations.

That the photography could be better—but that it gets by.

That the dialog MUST be snappy, judging from the hilarious reception of some of the lines. BUT——

As for the story—dun't esk me! There's not a single English title in the whole shebang, and I must admit that there were moments when I found myself completely baffled.

The yarn has to do—I think—with two brothers—one a businessman, the other a bricklayer, and their respective families and friends. The bricklayer lives in Shanty Town, which, apparently, begins just the other side of his brother's back yard.

The affluent brother's snooty wife doesn't care for her in-laws, and would marry her pretty niece off to a middle aged financier. The girl, however, is in love with the bricklayer's son, a handsome ship's officer. And so and so with complications. That's as far as I can be in any way definite.

Marital difficulties experienced by the henpecked fat friend of the bricklayer and the predicaments in which the maid of the well-to-do folks finds herself in her endeavors to serve her boy friend, the cop, with a drink, furnish most of the comedy relief.

Also on the program are news shorts, volubly explained [to those who can understand] by a Swedish commentator.

See you tomorrow.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Dead End," which came to the Studebaker theater last night in an aura of Broadway popularity, is a vivid piece of sociological slumming in a cul-de-sac of the sidewalks and gutters of New York. It deals with the familiar problem of juvenile gangs, the spawn of poverty, preparing in their boyish sports to become reform school alumni and adult criminals. As staged under the masterly direction of Norman Bel Geddes, it is a striking example of slice-of-life theatricals. It makes a stirring start for the new playgoing season in Chicago.

These scene is a street-end and wharf on the East river close to the Queensborough bridge—the Sutton place district for those who keep in touch with New York real estate developments. On one side of the stage is the rear entrance and garden of one of the new apartment châteaux from which the upper classes get a fine, expensive view of Welfare [formerly Blackwell's] island and the tugboat trafic. In the background are the dismal tenements of the submerged tribes of Avenue A. In the foreground one sees the playground of animated young guttersnipes named Tommy, Dippy, Spit, Milty, etc., who come there to swim, brawl and chatter in an unintelligible form of the New York dialect.

In order to weave the noble folk of Sutton place into this sordid picture, the playwright has arranged to have the street they would normally use torn up by road repair work. Therefore they are compelled to come and go by the back way, subject to the hoots, jeers, and obscene gestures of the young, half naked democrats on the wharf. This is a naïve stroke of playwright's license, but none of the Sutton placers complain about it. They are all apparently glad to get into the story and become symbols of social irony.

There are three angles to the story, arranged in an effective pattern. First, the problem of Tommy, leader of the juvenile gang, who is a promising lad, rapidly going wrong. Will he become a victim of his slum environment and street-boy code of ethics, like so many others? He is headed toward jail for knifing a Sutton place tenant when the curtain falls; but the author permits us to hope that he will be spared the reform school.

Second, there is the story of Gimpty, a young man who had grown up in the neighborhood, resisted its influence, and become an architect without a job. He suffers from heartbreak because he has fallen in love with a kept lady of Sutton place, but he is the white hope of Dead End wharf and the most interesting character in the tale. He speaks the moral of the play and provides its best scenes.

Third, there is the yarn of Babyface Martin, which is melodrama of purest ray serene. An alumnus of Dead End wharf, and now Public Enemy No. 1, he comes back to the scene of his youth to find his old mother, who slaps his face and renounces him, and his first girl friend now, to his disgust, a harlot. Babyface Martin is suddenly slain in a violent burst of gunfire by G-men, and Gimpty, whose lame leg he had kicked, is his betrayer.

Warren Ashe as Gimpty, Clem Wilenchick as Babyface, and Mady Correll as Tommy's sister, are the ablest of the adult players. The boys are acted with keen fidelity by lively, well-trained lads who are masters of the wharf rat dialect. The key of the dialog will have to be raised by every one. There were some bitter remonstrances last night about inaudibility from occupants of seats in the back of the house.

Smart Tunics Hold Rank in Style World

Some Find Inspiration in Dress of Clergy.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

One accessory shop, staffed with inspired experts at the indoor game of contriving stunning street and afternoon outfits and distinctive evening effects is still going strong for tunics and separate blouses.

Evidently there's no end to this sort of "top" magic. The last gasp in the tunic get-togethers features rather clerical affairs of medium stiff and swanky bengaline silk. They are the primmest things you'll find, but don't sniff till you try them on. Despite the tight bodice, the puritanical tightness and the delightfully old fashioned long sleeves that puff so charmingly at the shoulder line, the swirl of the peplums redeems the tunic from anything that savors of dullness.

You'll find them in smart, slenderizing dull black and in gleaming white. The buttons are many and covered with the same bengaline silk as the loops and the tunic blouse itself. The collar is narrow and high. With a velvet skirt, or one of satin or dull crêpe, a stunning costume is complete.

In the same shop are some slick dull crêpe tunics that are cut in a wrap-around, tie-around manner, good and flat in front and back and with the proper fulness or swing cleverly arranged at the sides. All peplums are long, reaching the kneeline. New models are arriving daily, and the prices are as practical as the tunics.

Designed for the dashing flared skirts of velveteen, dizzy wool plaids or the more circumspect straight skirts are some high colored long sleeved blouses that fit like the paper on the wall. All have those intriguing zippered pockets, with the zipper in contrasting color, and long sleeves and a demure tied collar. The material is lovely—a luscious suede-like stuff. Ask for the old gold, the greens, the rose reds and the ginger brown shades.

Fashion photograph. . . . Spectator sports ensemble of wine red, soft, fuzzy wool. A long sleeved blouse with moderate fullness at the shoulders uses embroidered designs in white for contrast. A tiny turnover collar of pique repeats the white of the embroidery. Both the high hat and the costume are to be found in the same shop.

SYNOPSIS.

Shortly after the world war Roger Mallard, handsome young Englishman, is embittered by the loss of hearing in one ear from a war injury. Mal has been raised by his godfather, William Grimwold, an actor. At a New Year's eve party Mal meets lovely young Pamella Wyeth, though he forgets her on meeting Zelda Manners, whom he marries a month later. The marriage ends disastrously. In a rage at his failure to make a living on the stage, Zelda flings a mirror at Mal and unknowingly destroys the hearing in his other ear. Fourteen years later Mal, under Grimmy's tutelage, has become a great success in pictures, hiding his affliction from his public. Zelda has refused him a divorce. Pamella Wyeth has a home in Pasadena. David Barkley, son of an old friend, boards with her. David invites Ellen Grest, young law stenographer, to a New Year's eve party at the hotel where Mallard lives and asks Pamella along as chaperon. Mal is mourning the sudden death of Grimmy. David, as a joke, has a boy page Ellen with a message that Roger Mallard wants to meet her. Mal, skilful at lip reading, is sitting at the next table. Attracted by Pamella, Mal introduces himself and asks to join their party. Mal takes Pamella home, where he collapses from shock and worry. Mal's business friends arrange to have him stay at Pamella's to recuperate. Mal and Pamella fall in love. Fearing harm to Pamella through Zelda, Mal leaves her home. Zelda and her so-called cousin, Alfred Chetwyn, try to retain Ellen's employer, Gordon Geddes, in divorce proceedings, naming Pamella as co-respondent.

INSTALMENT XLIII.

A PROMISED LAND.

Mal drew a deep, labored breath that seemed to stiffen and brace all his tall body against the onslaughts made upon it by his rebellious spirit. He sank down in a chair near a table and picked up his mail.

Here was the usual batch, most of them begging, with one from Bert, one from Sol and a two week old London Times. As he flung this back on the table his eyes caught a neat item down in one corner—Mr. Roger Mallard Refuses a Knighthood. . . . Well, that was that.

Bert wrote briefly on royal Hawaiian stationery. His job was done, thank the Lord! Mal was to polish up his fishing tackle. The trout season would be open by the time Bert got back. How about the high Sierras—up around Bishop?

Sol's letters were usually the very soul of wit, but this one was quite discursive. For the first time, his remarks about his greatest star's defection held a mild tone. Apparently, Sol had been busying himself with investigations entirely unrelated to his mammoth business. They had to do with something he'd heard about and become intensely interested in back in New York. A recent scientific invention that conveyed sound to the brain by means of vibration through bone conduction. It was being used with extraordinary results by people who had heard no sound for years. "As bad off as you are, Mal, and worse, they can enjoy music with it and hear voices." Sol thought if it would help Mal to get a little music now and then; starved as he was for it, the thing would be worth while. Hardboiled and soft-hearted old Sol Goldberg had bought one of these instruments and was sending it to him. He'd even taken the trouble to consult the great New York otologist who had painfully tinkered from time to time with Mal's fine head. This man assured him it could do no harm and might do some good.

Mal finished reading the letter with a sigh and a little smile of dubious and hopeless bitterness on his lips. He was deeply touched by Sol's attempt to help him. But Mal had no intention of allowing his hopes to be mangled again by another useless gadget designed to exploit just such avid longings as his. During the years he'd tried every known device with nothing to show for these experiments in most instances but excruciating pain. . . . Music! Not very likely. Voices. They meant nothing to him any more. What need had he of voices, considering the skill he had developed? Mal's valiantly struggling thought tripped and fell before the truth. Voices meant a lost world to him which he could only look upon hungrily, but never enter. Voices meant only one unattainable desire to him now—her voice. . . .

Mal glanced up from a long fit of brooding. Sure enough, there on the table was a package he'd overlooked. He gingerly picked it up. Small, compact, neatly wrapped, the address rewritten in Pam's decisive small hand.

Mal tore off the address and prepared to drop the package unopened in the waste paper basket. As he did so his eyes happened to rest upon the telephone. It was shrilly ringing, and Mal, with his uncanny instinct, knew that it was. Well, let it ring. He sat for a moment, tomented by the thought that Pam might be calling. . . .

Galvanized into a fury of action, he ripped open the package and jerked out a small box which he could hold in the palm of his hand. . . . He jumped up, but the phone had stopped ringing and Mal knew that it had stopped.

Well. . . . Now that he had the thing opened he might as well examine it. . . . A fantastically simple looking arrangement—a small box, a cord and two little applicators. He read the directions, went over to the radio, which Ito used occasionally, and made the necessary attachments.

A scornful smile twitched Mal's lips as he bit down on the applicator with his strong, white teeth and started the radio. Instantly the bungalow was filled with the broad, suave, unembroidered strains of Tschaikowsky's melodious Andante, played as only the great John Sias could play it with the aid of his baton and his symphony orchestra. The music, floating miraculously out of space on the wings of its own ineffable melody, to which the absence of the coarser instruments of the orchestra gave a classic purity, crept into Mal's prison like a glimmer of radiant light in a dark cavern.

"My God!" he whispered after two or three minutes of breathless listening. Indeed, Mal's whole body appeared to be listening. . . . It was unbearable. Unthinkable. He couldn't stand it. He couldn't—he dared not believe it. . . . That first, far, faint, but true stirring of sound after fourteen years of silence. . . . Frantic astonishment and hope clutched him by the throat and choked him. He was being suffocated by the beating of his heart. If it were true, and not a diabolically cruel trick of his imagination, he would have to take this delight with its overwhelming hope in very small doses. He felt that if he listened another instant this echo of eerie loveliness entering his brain would shatter him to pieces.

With something like a sob, Mal dropped the little box on the top of the radio and stood staring at it as if it were a pillar of fire leading a tribesman forth into a promised land from very black tents.

Mal turned away dazedly.

It seemed to Mal as if his soul had been stripped naked by a silvery transfiguration of sound, and he was infuriated that this stupendous re-initiation had been witnessed by a stranger.

Long habit came to Mal's rescue

"I beg your pardon," he murmured and crossed the room to unlatch the screen.

"And I beg yours for intruding."

"Not at all. Mr. Mallard?"

"Yes. Won't you come in?"

"Thank you. My name is Geddes."

He produced a card and offered it to Mal.

Mal took it with fingers that trembled.

Mal looked up like one awakening with painful alertness from a coma.

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Geddes?"

"I made an appointment for this hour with a person I took to be your secretary."

Mal's confused mind focused on one thought—if Ito had dared to make this appointment he had done so only after being persuaded of its importance. Mal shot one of his expert glances at his caller. There was something about this man he felt drawn to; something very kindly in his face. If he were astonished by what he had seen through the door he knew decently how to hide it.

"May I redeem my tardy greeting, Mr. Geddes, by offering you a drink?"

Mr. Geddes looked shrewdly up over the rims of his pince-nez into Mal's face.

"Capital idea! No doubt we shall both need it."

Mal was glad to get back to himself a moment while mixing the drinks. When he handed Mr. Geddes a glass his hand had grown steady. He then sat down, facing his caller.

Only Engagement Ties a Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Introducing your current admirer to your young women friends has its hazards, as Kathy will testify. But what can be done about it? You can't label the young man as yours until he has asked you to marry him, can you? You can't keep him tied to your apron strings at a dance. You can't keep tab on his every minute. You haven't the right, for one thing, and it is not smart to try it.

Kathy was going along beautifully with her young man until one evening she invited him and a girl friend of hers to dine with her. Kathy's mother being away on a vacation, it evolved on her to get the dinner. While she was preparing it the girl friend and the young man decided to take a walk, which proved fatal to Kathy's future prospects with the young man.

That was the beginning of the other girl's conquest. Kathy hasn't been ignored entirely since, but the other girl gets the plums in invitations. And, of course, Kathy's query is whether she should give the young man the air or hang on for future developments. Also, whether she should snub the girl friend for walking off with her beau.

Why give the young man the air, and why bother curdling your own disposition by holding a grudge against the girl? Nothing is gained by either move. It takes grit to meet the girl as if nothing happened, but it's the smart way to meet the situation. If you make a scene the girl will run and tell the man and he'll think you have a mean disposition. Go out with him when he asks you, but keep your lures and your eyes trimmed for a possible successor in the event your rival wins out.

Skin Troubles
Come from Constipation

Constipation is the cause of most complexion troubles. Poisons from the waste matter are picked up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, especially the skin.

No one needs to have a sallow, muddy complexion. Proper diet, exercise, surface cleanliness and above all—internal cleanliness. Nujol prevents intestinal poisons that ruin your health and complexion.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

"Parites for the Bride-to-Be," a booklet of menu plans and accompanying recipes for announcement parties and "showers," is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

"O, do you know the muffin man, the muffin man, the muffin man?" goes an old childhood song. We don't happen to know of any man who goes around selling muffins, but we do know of a good many who like to eat them. Especially muffins with surprises in 'em.

Surprises such as peaches. There are nice looking peaches in nearly every grocer's window this morning, so let's run around the corner and buy a few of the rosiest ones. For luncheon we'll have peach muffins, and for dinner we'll have sliced peaches.

Peach Muffins.

2 cups all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 cup diced peaches
4 tablespoons melted butter

Sift the dry ingredients together several times. Beat the egg, add the milk, peaches, and butter. Stir only enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, filling them two-thirds full. Bake in 400 degree oven for 20 minutes.

Peach muffins have a speaking acquaintance with orange loaf, which is another interesting fruit bread. Orange loaf is made with a new vegetable shortening. In fact, the recipe was developed by the manufacturers of this shortening.

Orange Loaf.

Grated rind of 1 orange
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
Juice of 1 orange
Milk
1 beaten egg
2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
2 cups whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder

Combine orange rind, water, salt, and sugar, and boil for 10 minutes. Cool and add orange juice and milk to make 1½ cups. Combine beaten egg, orange rind mixture, and melted shortening. Mix flour with baking powder. Stir into first mixture and blend. Pour batter into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 50 or 60 minutes. Chopped nuts may be added to the recipe, or half white flour and half whole wheat flour may be used.

Both the peach muffins and the orange bread have a nodding acquaintanceship with honey rolls, which they consider "really delightfully sweet." The honey rolls are made with a baking powder biscuit base.

Honey Rolls.

[One dozen.]

Baking powder biscuit dough
2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Chopped nuts

Melt vegetable shortening and add honey and cinnamon. Pour into greased muffin tins and add chopped nuts to each tin. Roll biscuit dough ¼ inch thick and spread with honey. Sprinkle with cinnamon and roll as you would a jelly roll. Cut in one inch pieces and place cut side down in muffin tins. Bake in a 375 degree oven 25 minutes.

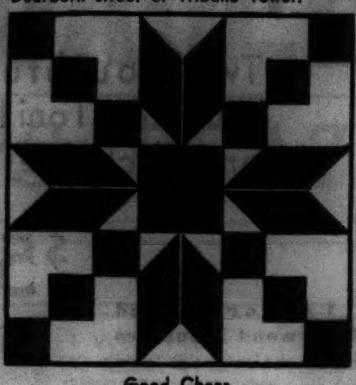
"Good Cheer" Is an Old Colonial Quilt of Charm

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Good Cheer.

BY NANCY CABOT.

There always is a feeling of excitement when one runs across an old quilt pattern which has an interesting history. "Good Cheer" is one of the early colonial quilt patterns which was unearthed this summer in a small Iowa town. A summer vacation and an interest in quilts served to bring to light a pattern which has not been well known in the middle western states for over 100 years. The original coverlet was pieced in turkey red and unbleached muslin, and set together to form an all-over design.

Movies Based on News Topics Prove Popular

Papers Are Given Careful Reading at Studios.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Every movie studio now has its "newspaper scanner," whose job it is to clip what he thinks would make bang-up films of timely interest—soldiers' bonus, air races, the drouth, an unusual murder. Nevertheless most producers film whatever they please, whether the topic be an hour or four centuries old. Shakespeare, Mary Queen of Scots, Calamity Jane, the old reliable triangle—all is grist to their mill.

Immediate examples now in production include Warner's story, "The Black Legion," with Humphrey Bogart and Eron O'Brien; Twentieth Century-Fox's second of a series of films presenting the Dionne quintuplets and titled "Reunion"; Paramount's "The General Dies at Dawn," with Chinese revolution and warfare; Warner's "Draegerman's Courage," based on the Nova Scotia mine disaster; Warner's "Mountain Justice" [Edith Maxwell murder case]; Twentieth Century's "Sing, Baby, Sing," with Alice Faye and Adolphe Menjou strangely resembling Elaine Barry and John Barrymore; Universal's "Flying Hostess"; Paramount's "One Man's Bonus," and RKO's "One Man Came Back" [based on David Lamson's book about condemned row in San Quentin].

In addition the studios are putting out a current run of campus and football yarns, including Paramount's "Rose Bowl," Twentieth Century's "Pigskin Parade," RKO Radio's "The Big Game," and Warner's "King of Hocky."

Paramount studio has signed Mary Ruth Kizziar, child prodigy pianist, and the youngster appears in a scene in "Right in Your Lap." Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kizziar of Altus, Okla. A friend helped send the family here.

Two individuals of unique attainments are Ben Bollie and Henry Campbell at Warner studio. Ben and Henry are "barkers," meaning they put the "bark" on the synthetic studio trees and forest and jungle scenes. They have just completed molding the bark for the studio sets of "God's Country and the Woman," lumberjack story shot mainly in the fir forests of the state of Washington, and at present are doing a Blue Ridge type of trees for background scenes in "Mountain Justice." They make molds of the bark of living trees of different ages and species, and then fashion their own product out of fiber and plaster.

Another unusual expert whom we stumbled on to at Warners' is Jack Baker, the "icicle specialist." After a good deal of puttering, Baker says, he discovered that several layers of cellophane twisted and dipped in wax made the best icicles.

Jumper Dress Is Youthful

JUNIOR GIRL'S FROCK.

Any figure which has the lines of youth may wear this adorable jumper dress. College and young business girls particularly may wear it effectively. The separate guimpe lends tailored interest to the bodice, and may have either a saucy frill or the traditional Peter Pan collar. The sleeves may be either long or short, but both versions possess the puffed lines which contribute definite interest to the shoulderline.

The skirt is a delightfully fitted affair, snug through the hips and wide through the hemline, thanks to the magic of clever paneling.

The original of this model is fashioned of lightweight woolen in a sherry wine shade. The guimpe is of white piqué. Another attractive scheme employs deep black velveteen for the jumper, with the guimpe of white washable crêpe or satin crêpe. With this slightly dressier fabric the plaited frill for the neckline is particularly smart.

Style No. 2566 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material for the jumper, with 1⅛ yards of 35 inch fabric for the guimpe in sleeveless version.

Night Cleaning Ritual Is Best for Complexion

Quick Eye Opener Only Is Needed in Morning.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A young correspondent asks whether it is better to wash the face at night or in the morning when getting ready for work.

A complete nightly ritual and the morning wake-up for the skin is our advice. At night before going to bed you aren't as hurried as you are in the morning, if you are the average business girl. Important, too, in that night ritual is to get the face free of your day's or evening's makeup. I feel there's a certain relaxation about the night performance that is beneficial in itself. You will cream your face for one thing, perhaps leaving on a film of cream overnight. In the morning, you have not the time nor the inclination for creaming, and I claim that few faces survive this present day mode of living and working without the support of lubricants you find in creams and lotions.

For the younger woman, the night ritual had best begin with a good cleansing cream. I believe in allowing this cream to remain on a couple of minutes, giving the clogged pores a chances to get softened. Then clean this off, using at least two or three clean tissues. Then fill a bowl with warm water, have a good soap and a good complexion brush and scrub away until you get the color up and the face thoroughly scrubbed with particular attention to the skin around the nostrils. Rinse next in warm water, then in cold. Lay on great splashes of cold water. Then rub your film of cream on just for its softening effect and keep it on until the very last minute before retiring, if not overnight.

In the morning, all you need is a quick eye opener of cold water splashings, a good drying, and then your nice protective cream. Better, if in th morning, you put on your shower cap and get the entire body to tingling with the coolish or cold water from the spray. Turn the face up and let the water sprays tickle and tingle your face. In this there is real skin magic, if you young women would only believe it.

Don't bother about astringent lotions and things like that. Not yet. It's your mother, or your aunt, or maybe a much older sister on whose dressing table such things have place. You don't need them, so don't start using them. But you do need a certain amount of skin oiling, if you are old enough to be out working under the usual environment of a worker.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Fine eyes are a beauty asset that not even time, that old snatcher of charms, can take away. Think of the definitly elderly or old women you know; aren't the most attractive ones those with bright, keen eyes beneath their snow white hair?

You're storing up beauty for your old age when you take care of your eyes. Of course, nature has a hand in the matter. The old girl is kinder to some than to others in the matter of size and color. But it's health and good care, with a generous sprinkling of a sane mental outlook, that supply the sparkle.

If you're not in condition the whites of your eyes aren't going to be white. The luster won't be anything to dazzle mankind, either. Health is important. But even beyond that there are simple hygienic rules for the care of the eyes that every wise woman should follow.

The most vital of these is rest. At the risk of being called a fuss budget you should be careful about the lights under which you work and read. Develop the kind of moral fiber it takes to drop even the most exciting mystery story before the eyes drop out of your head. If you have reason to feel that your eyes are strained, but can't bear to pass up reading at night set yourself a limit on pages or chapters and stick to it.

Don't let vanity keep you away from the oculist, even though he springs glasses on you. That's plain idiocy. And keep your eyes clean. After motoring, after a hard day, use a good eyes wash; as a matter of fact you couldn't form a better habit than to use one daily.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

VALUATION OF DECLARER'S HAND.

In using the distributional count to estimate the number of available winners at his own trump bid, the player counts his honor winners and adds to them the length value of the trump and side suits.

The full value of honors is as follows: The trump suit is usually controled by the declarer, who can draw out the opponents' trumps and remove the danger of a third round of a side suit being ruffed. Therefore, A K Q, which is valued as only 2-plus honor tricks against the opponent's trump bid because the queen may be ruffed, becomes three full winners at declarer's own bid. K Q J, valued as 1½ honor tricks, is counted as two honor winners because it surely will win two tricks.

The table of honor winners gives the values of the various combinations. Declarer counts his honor strength in accordance with these values and then adds the long cards of his trump suit and side suits of four cards or more.

How to value the trump suit. Until partner has denied the suit [by refusing to raise], every card over three in the trump suit is valued as one full winner. Thus, the trump suit 9 7 6 4 3 2 is worth three winners; change the suit to A 7 6 4 3 2 and the total value is four winners—three for length and one for the ace.

If partner supports the suit, declarer continues to count each long trump as one full winner. If partner fails to raise, declarer revises his valuation, considering the long trumps to be worth no more than long cards in a side suit.

Solid trump sequences, however, are more easily valued by simply counting out the losers. Q J 10 9 8 is valued as three sure tricks, whether partner supports or not.

Today's Hand.

West, in the hand shown below, had a chance to distinguish himself on the defense, but he missed it.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diam.	2 hearts
Double	Pass	4 clubs	Double
Pass	Pass	4 spades	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the nine of hearts; dummy ruffed and played the ace and king of diamonds, declarer intending to discard a club. But East ruffed with the deuce and declarer overruffed, next leading a small heart for dummy to ruff. Another diamond and heart ruff followed and then declarer entered his hand by ruffing a diamond with the spade ten. He cashed the trump ace, and then threw East on lead with the last spade. East returned the heart king, but was thrown right back with the heart queen, and thus was forced to lead up to dummy's king of clubs at the thirteenth trick.

This hand is a good deal trickier than it looks at first glance. A shrewd declarer would have made his contract against any defense by taking the precaution to cash his ace of hearts at an early stage. But as actually played, if East had ruffed in with a trump honor at the time declarer was attempting to return to his hand by means of a diamond ruff [after dummy's three trumps had been used], the contract would have been defeated. If declarer overruffed, East would hold the master trump and would be able to give his partner a heart ruff, thus smothering declarer's heart ace, and resulting in five tricks for the defenders. If declarer allowed East's trump honor to hold, discarding a club, East could, as before, lead the heart king through the declarer and this would defeat the contract one trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: An opponent opened with one diamond. Partner doubled. Next hand passed. What should I bid with:

♠ A K 9 6 5 ♥ J 5 2 ♦ 10 4 2 ♣ 8 7?

Answer: Two spades.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Parents Must Learn Child's Temperament

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Are you like a child?

Have you the same tastes, the same temperament, perhaps even the same physical makeup?

Ordinarily speaking, it is easier for you to understand some one who is like you, whether that person is a child or a grownup. And, because you understand him, it is easier for you to get along with him.

Are you, mother or father, entirely different from your son or daughter?

In a few exceptional instances, such a difference intrigues a parent's interest. But, generally speaking, parents find it difficult to understand and handle properly the child who is utterly different from themselves.

The woman who is gregarious finds it hard to understand the boy or girl who can enjoy solitude and who prefers a few especially congenial friends to a crowd. The man who is capable, practical, and successful in business finds it difficult to deal sympathetically with a boy who is a dreamer, a poet, an artist, or a craftsman, and who has no ambitions toward material success.

Too often, as their children grow older, parents try to force a profession or a way of living upon their children which is their idea of the best course to pursue, but not their child's.

In a school of which I know, when a child has been tried in one classroom and doesn't seem to develop well or happily in his work or as a personality, the head of the school changes him to another teacher. There are some adult personalities so alien to a child that they can get nowhere together.

Being parents, we can't switch around. But what we can do is to meet well the challenge of having a child entirely different from ourselves.

With imagination and study, one can get to understand that different personality and to find it not an irritation but a fascinating matter. You're open and frank, we'll say. Your son is reticent. You're unsociable. Your daughter loves people and they love her. You're a chatterer. Your child says little and keeps his own counsel. All that should make things more interesting.

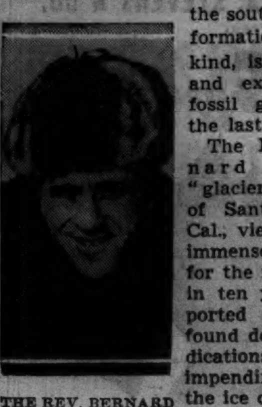
PRIEST DISCOVERS 'FOSSIL GLACIER' OF LAST ICE AGE

Father Hubbard Tells of New Mountains.



THE REV. BERNARD HUBBARD.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Taku ice cap near here, one of the southernmost formations of its kind, is receding and exposing a fossil glacier of the last ice age.

The Rev. Bernard Hubbard, "glacier priest" of Santa Clara, Cal., viewing the immense ice field for the first time in ten years, reported today he found definite indications of the impending end of the ice cap if the present rate of shrinkage continues.

New Mountains Appear.

"The ice mass is shrinking," Father Hubbard said upon his return here, "The earth still is in a recessional ice age. On the Taku ice cap many new mountains, called Nuntakas, as well as long, rocky ridges have appeared where I saw only crevassed ice ten years ago.

"Near by the Taku glacier is over half aground and soon will cease breaking off icebergs. The lobes of Twin glacier have retreated almost a mile in ten years and now are aground.

"For several years the Mendenhall glacier has been melting back and exposing a fossil glacier underneath the present one.

Ice for Many Miles.

"The hundreds of square miles of this ice cap and its many glacier tongues are a new layer of ice hundreds of feet thick lying on top of a remnant of the last ice age which is a fossil body of ice entirely different in crystal form. It appears here and there as the upper layer melts."

Landlocked icebergs in Twin Glacier lake, its bottom 600 feet below sea level, were observed by Father Hubbard and his party. The icebergs float there the year around and keep the water near freezing temperatures, he said.

Nicholas Cavaliere of New Haven, Conn., a member of the Hubbard party, took 50,000 feet of motion pictures of the Taku region, a short distance northeast of Juneau.

"Scrapped entirely is the old theory that a conservative surplice dress in a gloomy dark color is all you can wear . . . you find, adapted to maternity needs, the fashions of the moment: full sleeves, box jackets. BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 13.—A touchdown and a field goal, all they could fashion out of seven excellent scoring chances, enabled the Green Bay Packers to open the National Professional league season with a 10 to 7 victory over the Chicago Cardinals today in a rough and spectacular football game, played before a near capacity crowd of 11,000.

Ernie Smith, veteran tackle, kicked the field goal from the 25 yard line in the last two minutes of the fourth quarter to break a 7 to 7 tie into which the Packers had charged in the preceding period. The tie was gained when Verne Lewellen, former Packer star who was serving as field judge, ruled interference by Howard Tipton, Cardinal guard, on a long pass from Arnie Herber to Gordon Hinkle on the 2 yard line. The ruling was one of the few official decisions with which nonpartisan observers could find no fault. George Sauer, former Nebraska star, carried the ball over on two plunges.

Cardinals Take Lead.

The Cardinals took the lead in the second quarter after stopping the second of the Packers' seven challenges on the one yard line. Bill Smith, Cardinal end, scooped up a fumbled backward pass and ran back 62 yards with it. As he threaded his way behind a cordon of interferers, Packer officials swarmed on the field to protest and a spectator, William Hurst, 58 year old bookkeeper from Black Creek, Wis., dropped dead.

After order had been restored, Phil Sarboe, Cardinal quarter back, passed 37 yards to Chuck McBride, a freshman half back from Washington State, for the touchdown.

It was a particularly rough contest with personal animosity provoking some play beyond the code and adding to the confusion that gripped contestants, officials and spectators alike. Four Cardinals were helped from the field with bad injuries. The riotous afternoon came to a close on an even more riotous note when Dave Cook, Cardinal full back, who had suffered a dislocated shoulder in the first quarter, came on the field with his arm in a sling under his jersey and attempted to tie the score with a field goal from his own 45 yard line, a distance of merely 55 yards. It was a heroic, but futile attempt, as Cook kicked into a nest of charging Packer linemen.

Packers Wear Down Line.

Cook was joined on the sidelines by Bill Smith, star end, Doug Russell, half back and the league's champion ground gainer, and Conway Baker, giant freshman tackle, all of whom suffered injured knees. Baker, Russell, and Cook were injured in the first half and their loss was largely responsible for the Cardinals' inept showing in the last two quarters.

The Packers were deserving of the victory, but discounting their play in the last quarter, and a half, all they had to be proud of was the score. The Cardinal line tired badly under the pounding Sauer, Herber, and Chester Johnson gave it in the second half. Sauer was the outstanding back on the field, forming the bulwark of the Packers' attack.

Sarboe was the chief offensive threat in the Cardinal attack, although Hal Pangle and Pug Vaughn, the latter a newcomer obtained from Detroit last winter, strove desperately to lead a rally in the fourth quarter.

Both teams showed the customary early season raggedness, but the Packers, once they tied the score, gave a demonstration of offensive power that bodes ill for rival elevens in the National league championship race.

They reached the 17 yard line in

CARDINALS AND GIANTS DIVIDE BEFORE 64,417

New York Wins 1st, 8-4; Loses 2d, 4 to 3.

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Amid the tumult and the roar of the mightiest crowd ever to witness a National league baseball game, an overflow throng of 64,417 that packed the Polo Grounds to the rafters, the league leading New York Giants split a double-header today with their foremost challengers, the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rushing to the rescue of the faltering Roy Parmelee in the eighth inning of the final game, the great Dizzy Dean saved an even break for the crippled Gashouse Gang after the Giants had defeated them, 8 to 4, in the opener, with the aid of two homers by Mel Ott.

Dean Again Saves Cards.

Dean, pitching in his third game in two straight days, turned back the home team with the tying run on second base in each of the last two innings. His brilliant relief job clinched a 4 to 3 decision for the Cardinals that was due mainly to Johnny Mize's homer with two on.

Fighting hard for a double triumph that would have all but ended lingering doubt about the championship outcome, the Giants nevertheless preserved their lead of 3½ games over the Cardinals, with the last game of the series due tomorrow.

Cards a Game Bunch.

The league leaders outplayed but failed to outgame the harassed, battle-worn Cardinals whose patched up batting order included only three survivors of their 1934 championship machine, outside the mound. After slugging out an easy victory in the first game, behind the seven hit pitching of Fred Fitzsimmons, the Giants lacked finishing power in the pinches in the bitterly fought second encounter, to the intense annoyance of a crowd that finally became almost too unruly to handle.

DEATH TAKES PURDUE STAR BURNED IN BLAST

Carl Edward Dahlbeck, 25 years old, Lyndonville, Vt., who died yesterday morning as a result of burns suffered in an explosion of gasoline fumes which trapped six football players in the shower room of Purdue university gymnasium Saturday. Dahlbeck was a veteran guard.

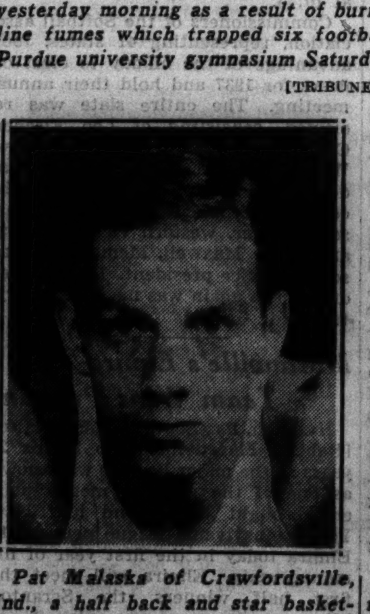
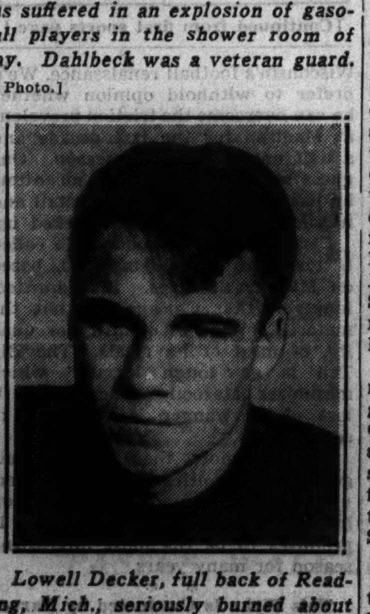
Tom McGannon, veteran half back from Evansville, Ind., is in serious condition, although physicians were hopeful his case would not become critical. The injured players were removing bandages from their legs, using gasoline, when fumes ignited from flames of an open stove used to warm the shower room.



Pat Malaska of Crawfordsville, Ind., a half back and star basketball guard, was reported resting in fair condition. [TRIBUNE Photo.]



Lowell Decker, full back of Reading, Mich., seriously burned about legs and back, yesterday was fighting an even battle.

BIG TEN FOOTBALL.

MINNESOTA and Ohio State, on past records and present prospects, are consensus for leading positions during the impending Big Ten football season. Minnesota's record is seventeen straight victories—twenty-four games without defeat with four ties in 1933. Ohio State lost only two games in the last two years, 14 to 13 against Illinois in 1934 and the 18-13 epic against Notre Dame last fall.

Gophers and Buckeyes, who do not meet each other, were co-champions of 1935. They might be just that again, even though general feeling is that each of several rivals has better chances to upset the title holders than did any eleven last fall. To an outsider it would seem the Northmen must feel the loss of men like Le Voir, hero of the All-Star game; Roscoe, Beise, Rennebohm, Oech, Dick Smith, and Seidel; that Ohio must miss Gomer Jones, Karcher, two ends, Heekin, Pincura, Boucher, and others.

On the other hand, Minneapolis newspaper men here for the All-Star game, voiced predictions that the Gophers, with returning letter men and oncoming sophomores, would be stronger than 1935 with an undefeated season if they can just get by that early game with Washington at Seattle Sept. 26.

Ohioans are equally optimistic with the feeling this is Buckeye's year. They consider Ohio State was the better eleven when it lost to Illinois and Notre Dame in the only defeats of the last two years.

After Minnesota and Ohio State are placed tops on form, there is a merry discussion of relative ranking of six others pretty much on a parity. Season's breaks and injuries no doubt will figure in their ultimate standing. The Wake discussed these future prospects with six persons whom we consider well informed. Their composite, including ours which varies in several particulars, gives this standing:

1—Minnesota
1—Ohio State
3—Iowa
4—Northwestern
5—Indiana
5—Purdue
7—Illinois
8—Michigan
9—Wisconsin
10—Chicago

Yet it may seem strange to place Iowa ahead of Northwestern when the latter had the better winning record last season and played a final with the Hawkeyes, 0 to 0. Iowa has lost the versatile Dick Crayne but still has bulky gentlemen to block for Oze Simmons. Northwestern lost heavily in its line and notably Cruice and Duvall from the back field. It has good replacements and sophomores and still has the sparkplug Don Heap. Still Purple will miss experienced men and possibly has not enough reserves for the tough conference schedule.

Purdue is well satisfied with its returning line although Loebs at end will be missed. Isbell should be better than a year ago. Coach Kizer fears his replacements may not be "thick" enough, meaning not enough of them for an arduous eight game schedule.

Indiana, which seems on its way under Coach Bo McMillin, one of the All-Star instructors who did such capable work against the Detroit Lions, anticipates definite improvement. It has good returning material and oncoming sophomores better than usual. It has been a great eleven in recent years to furnish upsets to which Purdue will subscribe.

Illinois and Michigan may be ranked far too low in the above tabulation. For several years the wily Zuppke has had to work with light material because his big men were slow. Now he has a few big men with speed. Illini always are well coached and noted for their fighting spirit.

*

Michigan decidedly was on its way "back" last season. Its freshmen squad was the strongest in years. Several of those boys were in summer school to remedy scholastic deficiencies and a majority got through. General alumni sentiment, however, is that the Wolverines need another year of seasoning before challenging for premier honors. Both Illinois and Michigan, on a good day, might down any squad ranked above them.

Wisconsin was placed ninth because none knew just where to place them. Harry Stuhldreyer, once of the "Four Horsemen," begins his first year in

CUBS LOSE TO DODGERS, 6 TO 3; THEN WIN, 9 TO 7

Five Run Rally in Sixth Saves Second Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Cubs didn't like the way fourth place was yawning for them half way through the second game of this afternoon's doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers, so they staged a five run sixth inning rally when enabled them to split a doubleheader. After much suffering they won the sundown number, 9 to 7, after dropping the first encounter, 6 to 3.

With a dozen games remaining, half of them with the second place Cardinals, the Cubs remain five games behind the Giants, a game and a half behind the Cards and four and a half ahead of the Pirates, with whom they play three more contests. On the scoreboard at the time the Cubs woke up, the Cubs stood to be only 2½ games ahead of the Pirates.

French Is Pushed Around.

Larry French got a merry thumping in the first inning of the first game, in which he was attempting to raise his victory record to a lifetime high of nineteen succeseses. The Cubs would have taken a more decisive licking if Augie Galan hadn't orated himself out of the panorama, giving Tuck Stainback a chance to knock a home run with one on in the fourth inning.

The Dodgers made four runs off Carleton in the first inning of the second game, but Charley Root and Curt Davis held down the Brooklyns while the overtaking program was being carried out, although Davis succumbed to a pounding in the eighth.

Henshaw Halts Threat.

A homer by Johnny Gill was a factor in the process. Half of the Cubs first eight runs were driven in by Demaree, however.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs started off in much the same way as they did in yesterday's triumph against the Giants. That is, they made no runs and left three runners on base. Allen opened the contest with a single and stole second. Cavarretta fanned, but Herman walked. Brandt had Herman trapped off first, but the ball got away from Hassett, Allen taking third and Herman second. Demaree popped to Frey, then Hack walked, filling the bases. Galan was so provoked when a third strike whizzed past him that he raised a rumpus which resulted in his getting the bounce for the first time in his major league term of employment.

The Cub flop in the first inning proved an immediate stimulant to the Dodgers. Jordan opened the Brooklyn first inning by beating out a single to Cavarretta. Cooney flied to Stainback, but Stripp singled to right. Winsett rammed out the first of his doubles, Jordan scoring and Stripp stopping at third. Phelps fouled to Hartnett, but Hassett singled to center, scoring Stripp and Winsett. Bordagaray flied to Stainback.

Cubs Break Through.

In the fourth inning the Cubs busted through for the first time. Demaree singled and, after Hack had popped to Frey, scored on Stainback's drive into the distant left field stand. Hartnett singled to left, but Jurges and French went out on easy flies.

The Dodgers made a run in the sixth. Winsett knocked his second double and scored on Phelps' single.

CONDITION OF 2 OTHERS HURT IS STILL SERIOUS

Maloney and Drake Out of Danger.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Carl Edward Dahlbeck, 25 years old, of Lyndonville, Vt., veteran guard of the Purdue university football team died this morning as a result of burns he suffered in an explosion of gasoline fumes in the shower room of the Purdue gymnasium yesterday. Five other players who were in the room with Dahlbeck at the time of the explosion also were injured, two of them seriously.

Although he was in a serious condition when admitted to the hospital last night, Dahlbeck was not considered critically injured until about 4 o'clock this morning when he took a turn for the worse. Death came at 10 o'clock this morning, due to shock and toxemia.

Fear Condition of Others.

News of Dahlbeck's death threw a pall of sorrow over the Purdue campus, where the student body was preparing for the opening of registration for the academic year tomorrow, and likewise increased fear over the condition of the others seriously burned.

Tom McGannon, veteran half back from Evansville, Ind., was in serious condition tonight, although attending physicians said they expected no complications to make his case critical. Lowell Decker, full back, of Reading, Mich., who also was seriously burned on the legs and back, appeared to be fighting an even battle.

Maloney, Drake Out of Danger.

The two other injured boys, James Maloney, of Oak Park, Ill., reserve guard, and John Drake, of Chicago, veteran full back, were considered out of all danger. Drake was burned only superficially on the left foot, and probably will be released from the hospital tomorrow or Tuesday. Maloney's burns were confined largely to his feet and ankles and he was reported well on the road to recovery.

The explosion occurred shortly after the close of football practice yesterday afternoon. The six players who were burned were the first into the dressing room and had begun to remove the tape from their feet and ankles with gasoline. Some of the gasoline was spilled on the floor and the flame in the stove used to heat the shower room ignited the fumes, causing the explosion.

Dahlbeck Dislocates Shoulder.

The gasoline on the floor blazed up and the six players were trapped in the midst of the flames. Dahlbeck, in attempting to escape the fire, slipped and fell, dislocating a shoulder.

Dahlbeck was a senior in the school of physical education. He was recognized as one of the outstanding guards in the central states and had been expected to play regularly in the Purdue line this fall.

Dahlbeck's parents had been advised of the accident by Purdue athletic officials last night and his mother was enroute here at the time of his death. Although definite funeral plans await word from his parents, it was expected here that the body would be sent to Lyndonville, Vt., for burial, accompanied by representatives of the university.

Kizer Is Grief Stricken.

"The whole thing seems almost unbelievable," said Kizer. "Dahlbeck was a star football player, yes, but more than that he was a credit to any community as an outstanding young man. Just what effect it will have on our football plans, I have not even considered. We feel this tragic occurrence more than any outsider can realize."

The tragedy recalled the disaster of Oct. 31, 1903, when sixteen persons, most of them members of the Purdue football squad, were killed and 40 injured in a train wreck at Indianapolis. More than 1,000 university students and football fans were aboard the special train on their way to the annual Purdue-Indiana game, when it crashed into a string of coal cars only a few blocks from the Union station.

PATTY BERG GETS 79 TO WIN MEET BY 21 STROKES

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—With her third successive round under 80 over the course of the Elkwanok Country club, Miss Patty Berg of Minneapolis finished with a card of 41—38—79 today to win the first annual women's invitational golf tournament at fifty-four holes of medal play. Miss Berg's scores were 72—78—79—229. She won by 21 strokes.

Next in order finished Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, 250; Miss Virginia Guilfoil, Syracuse, 254; Miss Jean Bauer, Providence, 256; Mrs. Frederick Davis, Providence, 259, and Mrs. Clarence T. Voss, Kingston, 260.

AMATEUR GOLF STARS TO START TOURNEY TODAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Youth vs. age, that rusty, battered, and too often publicized theme of modern sport, was being resurrected once more tonight on the eve of the 40th national amateur golf tournament, but the old mummy emerged from its casket in fresh wrappings, for the human element applied only to one side of the battle.

In one corner were 210 of the ablest amateur golfers in the United States, Great Britain, and Canada. Across the ring was no flesh and blood opponent, but one of the most ancient links in our land—the 38 year old Garden City Golf club, 6,808 yards of shaggily bearded traps, snugly tapering fairways, and smooth surfaced greens.

The struggle between these two combatants is no warmup. Beginning tomorrow, they will throw assorted punches at each other until the title match on Saturday. Of the 210 entrants, 164 must toil tomorrow, while the remaining 46 will escape first round labor by the grace of byes.

Following tomorrow's 82 matches, the field as a whole will be employed in 64 matches on Tuesday. Forty-eight debates will be argued on Wednesday, first of the double rounds, and another twin schedule on Thursday calls for 12 more arguments. All of this will reduce the hopeful regiment to four survivors, who will meet in two 36 hole semi-final matches on Friday. The brave, able, and fortunate pair who come out of these two will go the same distance for the title on Saturday.

Eight withdrawals from the tournament were announced today and their places promptly filled by alternates. The most important withdrawal in the event, however, harks way back there to last April, when W. Lawson Little Jr. of San Francisco, amateur champion for two years, turned professional.

Who will succeed Little? Johnny Goodman, the Omaha Alger hero who has twice reached the semi-finals and once the final? Square jawed Scotty Campbell, the pride of Seattle, and the standout man on the ever winning Walker cup team? Or shall it be one of the eight entrants who already have known the thrill of winning the title? And what of the British Walker cup crew, eager for individual redemption of their joint rout at Pine Valley?

Conducted in the old English links tradition, from the mustard served in the tidy dining room to the traps on the course, Garden City will offer one of the most exciting but at the same time eminently fair problems an amateur field ever has faced. Whether tea and crumpets or bubble and squeak may be ordered at table has not been ascertained, but those who have been over the ground know full well that they will be able to hit any number of shots here that might be called for only on a British seaside course.

Famous Stars to Play.

A majority of the artists and experts are willing to agree that there will be no such casualty list of upset stars by unknowns as was posted at Brookline and Cleveland in the first two years under the British all match play system. Willie Turnesa, one of the favorites and out of a family of high professional talent, today remarked, "It will take old blood to get anywhere in this tournament."

That is why such veterans as Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Max Marston, and Jesse Sweetser are being given more than an outside chance, aside from the fact that all have played the course exceptionally well in practice.

Outstanding matches tomorrow bring together Goodman and Hunter Hicks of Chicago; Fred Haas Jr., vs. Charley Mayo Jr.; Tony Torrance of London vs. W. B. McCullough; Campbell vs. Forrest Thompson; Johnny Fischer vs. Eddie Meister; Paul Leslie vs. Joe Lynch, and John Roberts vs. Hector Thomson, Scotland's British amateur champion.

Favorites who drew byes in tomorrow's first round include three British Walker cup players—Dr. William Tweddell, Cecil Ewing and Gordon Peters—and Turnesa, George Voight, George T. Dunlap Jr., and Ernest Pieper of California who has stood out in the last two amateurs.

How Chicagoans Are Paired.

The Chicago delegation of eighteen players drew four byes. The lucky ones were Russell Martin of Flossmoor, C. B. Hill Jr. of Skokie; Art Doering of Westward-Ho, and Winfield Day of Elmhurst. Aside from Hunter Hicks, who meets the formidable Goodman, the others are paired as follows:

Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields, vs. J. Wood Platt, Philadelphia; Bill Chambers, Kildeer, vs. Roger Kelly, Los Angeles; Johnny Krutilla, Calumet, vs. Fred Bannerot Jr., Charleston, W. Va.; Al Anderson, Medinah, vs. Henry Kowal, Hamilton, N. Y.; Chick Evans, Edgewater, vs. F. Paul Anderson Jr., Summit, N. J.; Gus Moreland, Peoria, vs. H. Law Weatherwax, Hamburg, N. Y.; Ken Beukema, Grand Rapids, vs. Fred Newton, Cleveland; Chuck Boywid, Big Oaks, vs. Tom Webb, Arlington, Va.; Johnny Banks, Big Oaks, vs. Don Armstrong, Aurora; Gus Fetz, Big Oaks, vs. W. E. Wells, East Liverpool, O.; Chuck Becka, Ridgemoor, vs. Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., and Jack Cameron, Flossmoor, vs. R. E. McCreary Jr., Indianapolis.

In a special eighteen hole playoff for the Chicago district qualifying medal Moreland defeated Russ Martin, Becka, and Chambers. The four tied in the district trials at Skokie with 148.

SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY.

First round play in the 16 inch softball tournament of champions continues tonight at I. C. park, 28th street and East avenue, Berwyn, with four games.

Sparta Opens Soccer Season with Victory

BY OFFSIDE.

The Spartas opened the soccer season yesterday with a close victory over the Nickeloids of Dalzell, Ill., three goals to two. Playing without two of their regulars the Spartas were hard pressed to score in the last minute.

Nickeloid kicked off on a muddy field and lost no time in finding the net. Frank Bernabei beat Cross close in for the first goal. The Spartans then put on the pressure, but overlooked a good opportunity to score, Wright and Vlcek missing easy chances.

Play Is Speeded Up.

Play was speeded up by the Spartans and near the close of the first period Wright went crashing through only to be brought down by Mini, and from the penalty kick Monroe tied the score.

Starting the second half the Spartans again played some fast soccer and after Wright headed over the bar Wolf passed to Monroe, who shot into the net to give Sparta another goal. Coutts objected so strenuously he was put out of the game.

The Nickeloids then staged a hard drive and soon tied it up. Guerrini then threatened to score again for the visitors when he went through only to shoot over the bar.

Score As Whistle Blows.

With five minutes left to play and the Nickeloids a player short, Wright scored the winning goal for Sparta just before the whistle ended the game. Lineup:

The Peoria players were on the ground to meet the Maccabees, but the referee called the game on account of the mud and rain. All other matches scheduled for yesterday were called off.

Spaniel Owners: Time to Ready Dogs for Trials

BY BOB BECKER.

Owners of springer and cocker spaniels in the middle west are being advised to get their dogs ready for field work because the annual fall series of field trials is about to start, and it won't be long until the hunting seasons are here. Every owner of a well trained hunting spaniel will find it helpful to himself and to his dog to enter these trials, which are educational and also excellent training routine. Here is the schedule of trials:

On Sunday, Oct. 4, the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West States will hold its trial on the Crane estate above St. Charles, Ill. There will be puppy, novice, and all age stakes for cockers and an open stake for springers, too.

The public is cordially invited to attend this outdoor event. According to J. Paul Bishop, secretary of the club, about thirty cockers will compete in the three stakes. If you own a well trained hunting cocker and want to try him in this trial we suggest that you write Mr. Bishop for further information and entry blanks. His address is 20 North Prospect avenue, Clarendon Hills, Ill.

On Oct. [illegible] and 18 the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois, the only springer organization that conducts a training class for owners, will hold its annual trial. Dogs will compete at Montgomery, Ill., the first day. On the second day the events will be run on the Crane estate above St. Charles.

Owners of springers [and cockers] wishing further information about this trial should write Secretary A. P. Moecher at Oakcrest, N. Farnsworth, Aurora, Ill. Mr. Moecher also has charge of the training class for springer owners which this month is "graduating" a number of sportsmen who will run their dogs in the coming trial.

A second springer organization, the English Springer Spaniel Club of the Central States, has scheduled its fall field trial for Oct. 31 at Lake Forest, Ill. B. F. Gentry of Deerfield, Ill., is secretary of the club.

Wisconsin's football renaissance. We'd prefer to withhold opinion whether he can overcome the friction prevalent at Madison for the last decade and a half until his second season. Our guess would be "yes," but meantime he has his own system to install and incoming material to be worked up.

Berwangerless Maroons are called better than average material, based on Midway averages. It's admitted, however, that Chicago has not the material, either in quantity or quality, of most of its rivals. The Big Ten is a "tough league" which minimizes Maroon chances even if loss of Berwanger is remedied to some extent.

On the whole, there will be few games on the entire conference schedule in which the so-called underdog has not a good fighting chance. It promises to be the most interesting season for many years.

Do You Remember 'Way Back When:

We youngsters, perhaps not to our credit, used the old nickel 3 cent pieces for dimes in the slot machines on Madison between Wells and La Salle and also to secure the use of opera glasses from the slot racks at the Chicago Opera house at Clark and Washington [1888]?—C. M. C.

Milt Aron and Harold Brown Clash Tonight

Milt Aron and Harold Brown, west side welterweight rivals, tonight will renew their differences in a scheduled ten round bout at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. In a previous meeting the fighting youngsters, both of whom are Golden Gloves products, fought ten rounds to a draw at the north side club Aug. 17. A crowd of 1,793 grossed $1,850 to see the highly developed grudge match on that occasion. A larger turnout is anticipated tonight.

Pat Robertson, New York featherweight, clashes with Walter Matthys of St. Charles, Ill., in the five round semi-final. Matches at four rounds involve Pete Lello, Michigan City, Ind., and Jackie Leonard; Nick Peters, San Antonio, Tex., and Harry Booker, all lightweights, and Rolla Taylor, St. Louis welterweight, and Phil Rosenberg.

Matches between Frankie Hart and Hans Schnabel and Pat McCleary and George Mansor will head the wrestling card tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Each is set for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. Supplementary affairs, booked for 30 minutes, match Jerry Meeker with Charlie Peterson and Bull Curly with Mike Markoff.

Lloyd [K. O.] Clements, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Tyrus Smith, Chilocco, Okla., are marking time for their Chicago debuts tomorrow in two contests at eight rounds which top the inaugural at Arcadia Gardens. Clements clashes with Harry Thomas and Smith fights Buddy Knox. A six round supporting encounter will bring together Tiny Bittner and Bobby Kraft. Chuck McCarthy faces Don McDonald, Floyd McNulty battles Chet Le Vere, and Bruno Dooley encounters Clem Ebbs at four rounds.

Loss of Allowance Proves Little Handicap.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Skeptical horsemen have returned their verdict about young Basil James' riding ability.

It didn't take quite two weeks for him to prove to them that he's as good as ever even when riding without an apprentice allowance of five pounds.

Two weeks ago tomorrow the lad from Sunnyside, Wash., graduated from the apprentice riding class into the ranks of full fledged jockies. For the first two-thirds of the Illinois racing season, while riding as an apprentice, he had been the white haired lad who could do no wrong.

In the ten days of racing here since James began to ride with the five extra pounds of lead, his record hardly was the ball of fire it was previously. Few are willing to believe, however, that the five extra pounds are making seconds and thirds out of horses which were once able to win for him.

Rated as 1937 Leader.

"Unless there's a sensational apprentice rider in 1937 James will be the leading jocky next year," remarked Roscoe Goose at Lincoln Fields yesterday. Trainer Goose has developed more famous riders within the last dozen years than any other horseman in the country. He had nothing to do with the bringing of James to the front ranks. "His alertness at the post, his good judgment of pace, and his horsemanship is sure to make him a leader," Goose said.

Few lads just out of the apprentice class have ever done better than James has during his first ten days as a genuine jocky.

During that period the bright eyed youngster has ridden in 52 races. It is true that he scored on only eight of them, yet he had no less than nine seconds and eleven thirds.

As an apprentice James frequently scored with three and four winners in an afternoon. Since he became a real jocky he has been unable to score with more than one in an afternoon.

Just Breaks in Luck.

But that was simply the breaks in the luck, according to the professional horsemen who now believe James is destined to be one of the great riders in America.

They point out that in one afternoon since losing his apprentice allowance he rode in seven races. He had one winner, the fleet Challite, and five seconds. A few breaks in his favor would have found him winning four races that day, they contended. On Labor day James had his single victory as usual, but his four other mounts all came in third.

James scored with his first mount after becoming a journeyman jocky. He also scored in the first race in which he wore silks at Lincoln Fields. But since that first triumph at Lincoln Fields he has found the track somewhat of a jinx. He scored on one winner on Thursday, but missed in seven chances on Friday. With four mounts on Saturday he was out of the money three times, but won the Crete handicap as a result of a rousing stretch ride on Rock X.

That record may not appear impressive, but the proof that the horsemen have faith in the kid is shown in the demand for his services.

Around the racing secretary's office every morning when jocky assignments are made it is still James that the owners and the trainers are seeking to ride their colorbearers.

INDIANS DEFEAT A'S TWICE; FELLER STRIKES OUT 17

Rookie Sets American League Record.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Bob Feller, husky high school rookie from Van Meter, Ia., wound up under a dark sky at League park today and blazed his fast one past the Philadelphia Athletics to strike out seventeen batters and allow only two hits as the Cleveland Indians won both games of a double-header.

That was one more strikeout than Rube Waddell achieved 28 years ago, when he set the American league record which stood until today. It also put Feller's name beside that of Dizzy Dean as coholder of the major league record.

Feller's two hit pitching gave the Indians the first game, 5 to 2, and they added the second, 5 to 4.

The farm boy, who learned how to throw by pegging at a makeshift backstop in a cow pasture, walked the first man to face him and then struck out the next three batters. He struck out at least two batters in every inning except the fourth and ninth. In the first and sixth, he fanned three. He struck out every man on the Philadelphia team, except Moss, a pinch hitter who walked.

Cubs Divide Double Header with Dodgers

The Dodgers grabbed two unearned runs off Bryant in the seventh. Brandt walked with one down and Jordan sacrificed. Cooney bounced to Bryant, who threw the ball to the boxes, Brandt scoring. Stripp singled to left, Cooney counting. Winsett flied to Gill.

SECOND GAME

Carleton was knocked out before a Brooklyn batsman was put out. Jordan opened with a single to left and stopped at third on Cooney's single to Cavarretta. Stripp singled to short center and Jordan held up for a possible catch. Stainback got the ball on the bounce and appeared to have thrown out Jordan at the plate until the ball got away from O'Dea. After Jordan scored, Cooney reached third and Stripp second on Ken's error. Winsett was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Phelps singled to right, Cooney and Stripp scoring and Winsett reaching third. Root replaced Carleton. Hassett fouled to O'Dea, but Watkins walked, again filling the bases. Frey bounced out to Cavarretta, Winsett scoring. Butcher fanned.

The Cubs clicked off two runs after two were out in the third. Root fanned and Hack flied to Winsett. Then Cavarretta singled, Herman doubled and Demaree drove them home with a single. Stainback fouled to Phelps.

The Dodgers added their fifth run in the third. Phelps walked, went to second on Hassett's single and continued to third on Demaree's fumble. Watkins flied to Gill and Frey singled to right. Hassett going to third. Then Bucher struck out.

Cubs Get Going.

O'Dea and Jurges walked to get the sixth under way. Davis bunted and forced O'Dea, Hassett to Stripp. Jurges took third on a passed ball. Hack walked, filling the bases, and Baker replaced Jeffcoat. Cavarretta singled off the right field wall, Jurges and Davis scoring the tying runs and Hack reaching third. Frankhouse replaced Baker. Herman doubled to left center, Hack scoring and Cavarretta stopping at third. Demaree singled to left, scoring Cavarretta and Herman. Stainback fanned and Gill grounded out to Jordan.

Here's the way the Dodgers stirred up things in the eighth:

Watkins walked and Frey singled. Moore batted for Frankhouse and also singled, Watkins scoring and Frey taking third. Lee replaced Davis and Radtke ran for Moore. Bucher batted for Jordan and fanned, and Gautreaux, batting for Cooney, grounded to Herman, Frey scoring. Stripp walked, and Henshaw replaced Lee. Winsett ran the count to three balls and two strikes then grounded to Jurges in very deep short. Bill made a great throw to Cavarretta to end the riot.

The Cubs registered their ninth run in the ninth inning on Frey's error, which allowed Stainback to get to second, a sacrifice, and Hartnett's pinch single.

HENSHAW TO PITCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Roy Henshaw has been invited to pitch in the Cub final with the Dodgers tomorrow. Mungo, coming back on a short rest ration, will perform for the Brooklyns.

The Dodgers who have been enacting the rôles of flies in the pennant ointment, have attracted 42,000 in their last three performances.

Babe Phelps, former Cub, now the Dodgers' regular catcher, has hit .420 in the last six weeks.

DICKEY CLIMBS IN BIG SIX RACE; PASSES WALKER

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Although idle, Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, climbed into third place in the American league trio of baseball's batting Big Six yesterday, replacing Gerald Walker of the Detroit Tigers, who slipped to fourth place by going hitless in four times at bat.

The rest of the leading half dozen saw little change, although Babe Phelps of the Dodgers, second in the National league, gained four points on Paul Waner of the Pirates, the league leader.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE Garden City Golf club, where the 40th national amateur championship opens today, is strictly a men's club. . . . Press reports on this year's amateur state that no women ever have been permitted in the clubhouse, but this rule was broken several years ago during a charity match in which Glenna Collett, Alexa Stirling, and Marion Hollins took part. . . . The club has been the scene of four national events and one international battle. . . . It was the site of the amateurs of 1900, 1908, and 1913, the open of 1902, and the Walker cup matches of 1924. . . . The current tournament is the 40th held under the auspices of the U. S. G. A., but two others were held prior to 1895, the first year in which the event is listed. . . . Both were played in 1894. . . . In one, a 36 hole medal play event, W. G. Lawrence won with a 188, and in the other, L. B. Stoddart defeated C. B. MacDonald, 1 up. . . . MacDonald won the first official title in 1895 with a 12 to 11 victory over C. E, Sands. . . . This still stands as the largest winning margin in the event, approached only by Bobby Jones' 10 and 9 win over Phil Perkins in 1928. . . .

Jones is the all-time hero of the amateur, his only rival being Jerome Travers, who scored in 1907, 1908, 1912, and 1913. . . . Jones won the titles of 1924, 1925, 1927, 1928, and 1930 and finished runnerup in 1919 and 1926. . . . Greatest string of victories ever rolled up in any amateur were the 31 successive decisions scored by Lawson Little in winning the British and American events of 1934 and last year. . . . The Theodore Havemeyer trophy which goes to the winner was donated by the first president of the U. S. G. A. . . . Among the present day professional stars who competed in the amateur before joining the cash ranks are Tommy Armour, Willie Hunter, Denny Shute, and George von Elm. . . . Armour reached the quarter finals of the 1920 tournament before losing to Francis Ouimet. . . . The latter made the most heroic comeback in the history of the tournament. . . . Francis won his first amateur at Ekwanok, N. H., Sept. 5, 1914. . . . He fought a losing battle for 17 years until Sept. 5, 1931, when he won again at Beverly, Chicago. . . . Ouimet also has the best card in recent amateur records, scoring a nine of 30 against George Voigt in the 1932 meet. . . .

Hardest triumph ever scored in the amateur was Max Marston's 38 hole decision over Jess Sweetser, defending champion at Flossmoor in 1923. . . . Biggest upset still remains Johnny Goodman's first round defeat of Bobby Jones at Pebble Beach in 1929. . . . Goodman has come a long way from there. . . . He won the open of 1933, finished runnerup in the 1932 amateur, and is No. 1 choice to win this week's meet. . . .

No Chicagoan has won the amateur since Chick Evans scored in 1920. . . . Since that year Evans finished runnerup to Jones in 1927 and Jack Westland was second to Ouimet in 1931. . . . The four Bobby Joneses entered in this year's meet failed to qualify sectionally. . . . So did Chuck Kocsis, much to the relief of the U. S. G. A., which had overlooked him in the Walker cup selections and then saw him win the national intercollegiate and finish first amateur in the American open. . . .

Only two foreigners have managed to win the amateur. . . . They are Harold Hilton of England, who won in 1911, and C. Ross Somerville of Canada, 1932 champion. . . . Somerville will be a warmer favorite by himself than the entire British Walker cup team, which also will be present at Garden City.

Ten Years Ago Today.—The Illinois Boxing commission barred the 118 pound title fight between Bud Taylor and Charley Phil Rosenberg, scheduled for Cubs park. . . . Failure of Rosenberg, the champion, to post a $12,500 bond was given as the reason. . . . The Cincinnati Reds regained the league lead by defeating the Dodgers, 5 to 1. . . . Bobby Jones' 143 headed the list of qualifiers in the national amateur tournament at Short Hills, N. J.

Packers Beat Cards, 10-7, in Pro Opener

the second period, only to have Hinkle miss a place kick from the 25 yard line. They got back on the three yard line with first down goal to go later in the period and failed in three attempts to score, winding up with the fumbled backward pass which gave the Cardinals a chance to score.

Packers Outgain Cards.

Billy Wilson, substitute Cardinal end, blocked Ade Schwammel's attempted place kick from the 18 yard line in the third period after the Packers had reached the eight yard line and Sarboe intercepted a pass by Herber, ending another threat that had penetrated to the eight yard line a few minutes later. A fifth scoring chance went a-glimmering when Tipton blocked another attempted placement by Schwammel after the Packers had reached the 20 yard line.

The Packers led in every statistical department. They made 17 first downs to the Cardinals' 10 and gained 174 yards by rushing against 91 by the Cardinals, the league's defensive champions last year. They made 83 yards on passes completing six out of 19 attempts. One of the completions was the costly interference play by Nichelini, which led to the Packers' touchdown. The Cardinals intercepted three Packer passes. They attempted ten and completed four for 99 yards.

The victory snapped the Cardinals' string of five consecutive triumphs over the Packers in the last three seasons.

EAGLES BEAT GIANTS, 10 TO 7.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Hank Reese's field goal with four minutes to play gave the Philadelphia Eagles a 10 to 7 victory over the New York Giants in the opener of the National Professional Football league today.

Nearly 30,000 saw Reese, former Temple university player, culminate a goal line drive by dropping back from his center position twice successively to kick goals from placement on the 13 yard line. The first was nullified when the Eagles were ruled offside.

Smukler Is Eagles' Star.

Dave Smukler, another former Temple athlete, made his professional debut with the outstanding individual performance of the day. Smukler shot a 19 yard pass to Manske, who lateraled it to Carter on the Giants' 20 yard line in the first period. Carter then squirmed past several tacklers to the goal line, a 39 yard advance. Smukler added the extra point from placement.

It was Smukler again who tossed a 43 yard aerial to Manske to start the winning drive. The Giants stiffened on the 3 yard marker and Reese made his boot.

PIRATES, 10; REDSKINS, 0.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates opened the National league football season today with a 10 to 0 victory over the Boston Redskins. The official paid attendance was 15,622.

Husky George Kakasic, a substitute left guard and kicker, accounted for nine of the Pirates' 10 points. Near the end of the second quarter Kakasic scooped up Ed Smith's fumble on Boston's 26 yard line and ran for a touchdown. He accounted for three more points early in the final quarter after the Pirate attack stalled on the Redskin's 22 yard line. Kakasic dropped back to the 30 yard line and, with Dick Matesic holding the ball, sent a field goal through the uprights.

SOX RAINED OUT; MEET SENATORS IN 2 GAMES TODAY

Lyons and Kennedy Are Named to Pitch.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Senators from Washington and the high stepping White Sox were unable to get together yesterday to thresh out the second place item. It really rained, and the Sox officials, after waiting patiently before abandoning hope of what would have been a good "take" at the gate, abandoned the scheduled double-header. But the athletes involved didn't gain much by their rest. They'll have to go through a bargain bill this afternoon, starting at 1:30 p. m.

One of the three games of the series will never be played, the Senators going away this evening until next season and the Yankees arriving tomorrow to exhibit themselves in their newly acquired rôle of league champions. Joe McCarthy will keep his titleholders around here for two days. After the Yanks depart the Sox will have only two more games at home, both at the end of the season.

It's Still Lyons and Kennedy.

Mr. James Dykes, who now can have anything on Chicago's south side merely for the asking, isn't going to let yesterday's delay scare him out of his pitching plans. He'll start Ted Lyons and Vernon Kennedy today, both of whom drew an extra twenty-four hours of rest as the result of the Sabbath deluge. The Washington starters probably will be picked from among Tarzan Newsom, Pete Appleton, and Monte Weaver.

If past happenings of the season mean anything the Sox should be able to put a check on Washington's second place threat today. The Sox also should regret that one game can't be played. The two teams have put on nineteen battles so far this year and the Sox have won fourteen of them.

Wants Pitcher or Two.

Although the season's affairs have panned out far better than expected Manager Dykes isn't overlooking the necessity of assistance if the success is to continue through 1937. He wants a pitcher or two, but where he is going to locate the needed article is his own problem. There's not much chance of getting anybody worth while from one of the other American league clubs. The Sox have two prospects in the minors—Jack Salveson at Los Angeles and John Rigney at St. Paul—but they still must prove what they can do under big league fire.

ROGELL, FERRELL CLASH; RED SOX BEAT TIGERS, 7-4

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox whipped the Tigers, 7 to 4, today in a game enlivened by a fight between Billy Rogell, Detroit shortstop, and Rick Ferrell, Sox catcher, which resulted in their being ejected from the game. The victory was Rube Walberg's fifth.

Rogell tried to reach home from first in the second inning on Reiber's double, collided with Ferrell, and was out at the plate. Ferrell heaved the ball at Rogell as he walked toward the dugout, but missed. Rogell ran back to the plate and went into a clinch with Ferrell. Umpire George Moriarty banished both players.

"CAMELS HIT THE SPOT!"

HENRY PICARD—broke par or tied it in 50 out of 54 tournaments—an all-time record. He says: "I find Camels a real aid to my digestion. Camels set me right! I smoke lots. Camels never get on my nerves."

"I SMOKE ALL I WANT," says Bill Ferguson, star salesman. "There's nothing like Camels to set you right. I smoke them for digestion's sake. Camels give me a sense of well-being." Camels add extra pleasure to eating by encouraging the flow of digestive fluids—increasing alkalinity. And they give you a pleasant "lift."

J. E. ARMSTRONG DIES; PRINCIPAL HERE 37 YEARS

JAMES E. ARMSTRONG.

James E. Armstrong, Chicago educator and principal of the Englewood High school for 37 years until his retirement in 1929, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital after an illness of five weeks. He was 81 years old and lived at 10638 Prospect avenue. Born at Brookfield, Ill., Mr. Armstrong was a graduate of the University of Illinois. He attended also Johns Hopkins university and Millikin university.

Mr. Armstrong taught first at the University of Illinois, where he held the rank of instructor. In 1882 he became principal of the public school at Arlington Heights, where he served two years, then joined the Chicago school system.

Known as "Jimmy" to Alumni.

"Jimmy," as Mr. Armstrong became known to thousands of his former students, started at Englewood High school in 1891. Before that he had served at the old Lake High school in the city.

When Mr. Armstrong first went to Englewood the school consisted of one small building that housed 472 pupils and 16 teachers. He often recalled that the territory from 63d street south to the Chicago Normal college at 69th street was one vast stretch of farm land.

During his term as principal he effected many reforms now in operation in all Chicago high schools. He was responsible for the construction of the first two gymnasiums in Chicago and in 1902, with the aid of the Parents' club, induced the board of education to install in Englewood the first lunchroom in the city's schools.

Ex-Trustee of U. of Illinois.

Besides being principal of Englewood Mr. Armstrong was elected as trustee of the University of Illinois in 1903 by the largest vote given to any candidate, with the exception of governor, that year.

Surviving are a son, Charles H. Armstrong, and two daughters, Miss Grace C. Armstrong, who lived with her father, and Mrs. D. A. Fessenden, whose husband is football coach at the University of Montana. Funeral services have been set for Wednesday at 4 p. m. in a chapel at 316 West 63d street.

RUSSIAN AIRMEN REACH MOSCOW ON HOP FROM U. S.

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Russian flyers Sigismund Levanevsky and Victor Levchenko landed at the Moscow airport today to complete a trail blazing arctic route from California.

The flyers, who started their 6,000 mile flight from Los Angeles Aug. 5, were greeted by President V. M. Molotov of the people's council of commissars. They had, Molotov asserted, fulfilled one of the greatest flights in the history of the soviet aviation.

Thousands of citizens lined the streets to cheer the aviators as they drove into the city to be greeted by other government leaders. Their flight was hailed by soviet officials as the first step toward early inaugural of a Russo-United States air route through the arctic.

Custer's Last Stand Holds 500 in Blazing Theater

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The spectacle of Gen. Custer's last stand so fascinated 500 movie-struck east side children today that they refused to leave the theater, with a fire raging under their feet. Not until firemen mounted the stage and ordered everybody out did the youngsters and a thousand adults quit the movie house. An hour later they were permitted to return to the theater and see Gen. Custer die beneath the Indian tomahawks all over again.

WAR ON FRAUDS IS KEYNOTE OF CEMETERY MEN

The development of cemeteries as places of beauty and the prevention of frauds in the sale of lots by racketeer promoters are two of the aims of the American Cemetery Owners' association and the Cremation Association of America, which opened a joint convention in the Morrison hotel yesterday. The convention will continue through Wednesday.

The delegates pointed to California as the top notch state in realizing these two aims. Raymond Brennan, executive secretary of the Interment Association of California, urged more adequate protection of the public by legislation providing strong penal measures for operators who promise perpetual care but do not have funds properly set up. He said cemetery men can get greater results through coöperation.

The innovation of elaborate and expensive music and sound projection equipment in cemeteries will be discussed today by Lewis C. Tingley, president of the Resthaven Memorial park at Louisville, Ky.

WORLD'S WHEAT HARVESTS SHOW 'PLANNING' VAIN

Scarcity After Ten Years of Surplus.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The present world wheat situation provides an illuminating commentary on planned economics. Wheat is selling above a dollar a bushel today in every leading world market. The world is faced with a condition of scarcity after a decade of striving to solve the problem created by a tremendous world surplus.

The problem solved itself. What the representatives of the leading wheat countries were unable to agree upon has been brought about by natural developments. Four consecutive small harvests in the United States, reduced production in Canada, culminating this season in the smallest crop in 17 years, and smaller yields in European countries have taken this world commodity off the international bargain counter and put it at a price premium.

Sellers Now in Control.

Present supply and demand make a "seller's market" in the grain in which a "buyer's market" existed for so many years.

In July, this year, London dispatches reported a decision had been reached not to disband the world wheat conference permanently due to hopes that some future agreement might be brought about to balance production and consumption. That was before the full extent of the crop failure in the United States and Canada was known and when international crop statisticians were thinking in terms of wheat surplus instead of deficiency. The subject of controled production now appears to have been effectively disposed of by events outside of the control of diplomats.

Canada Holds Chief Surplus.

Dominion production this season is estimated at 232 million bushels. Adding the carryover stocks and deducting estimated domestic needs, Canada will have 255 million bushels for export and reserve.

Canada is the principal source of supply during the coming six months for importing countries and it is not a question of finding a market but whether there will be enough wheat to meet the demand. The United States, once the leading exporting country of the world, will need 35 to 40 million bushels of Canadian wheat.

The best evidence of the underlying strength of the wheat market is the fact that high prices have been maintained during the important harvest periods, when normally the marketings of grain depress prices. In recent weeks Canadian farmers have sent grain to market, but many of them have stored wheat in the belief that they will get higher prices later.

Chicago Prices Firmer.

SEASON'S PEAK PRICES REACHED BY FRESH EGGS

Fresh eggs reached the highest price level of the season last week on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The basis of the market's strength appears in the relatively high cost of poultry feed, which promises to bring about a reduction in egg production. Added to this is the comparatively small storage supplies of graded eggs at the present time. At the close of the week the principal grades were selling a half cent a dozen above the price quoted a week earlier, with "extras" at 26 cents.

In the futures market prices did not show strength corresponding with that in the cash market. Early price advances were wiped out and the leading futures contracts closed at approximately the same prices as a week earlier.

The butter market was quiet. Prices in both cash and future markets showed only slight fluctuations during the week.

Gadsden Raps Power Plans of President

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of utility executives, today characterized statements made by President Roosevelt in an address Friday before the world power conference as an "official declaration" that the purpose of the administration's hydro-electric program is to bring about lower electric power rates.

PHILIP H. GADSDEN
[Acme Photo.]

"The President's assertion Friday," Gadsden said, "to the effect that, should the competitive influence of more federal dam projects be necessary to force further reductions of electric power rates upon private enterprise, then addittional 'meritorious' dams 'can always be added' is a clear-cut admission of New Deal guilt in the abuse of constitutional functions for the purpose of achieving unconstitutional objectives.

President's Real Goal.

"From the lips of the President of the United States, at last we have an open and an official declaration that the real purpose of this hydro-electric program of the government is not flood control, not navigation, not conservation, that the real purpose is to force further reduction of electric power rates.

"No other interpretation can be placed upon the President's words than that the recent official emphasis upon navigation, flood control and conservation are but a constitutional smoke screen cloaking the unconstitutional federal power program.

"The statement before the Supreme court by Mr. Stanley Reed, New Deal solicitor general of the United States, arguing the Wilson dam-TVA case last winter, is pertinent.

Quotes New Deal Official.

"'If we assume,'" Mr. Reed said, "'that this act [the TVA act] was primarily for navigation, then it would be valid. But if we determine that this act, while stating that it is for navigation, national defense and flood control, is actually for the purpose of developing power and selling it commercially, the act would be invalid.'

"It is significant that the President, while making his first campaign year defense of his yardstick theory failed to answer or explain the substantiated charge that electricity sold from these wasteful and unnecessary projects costs the people much more than the same energy if sold by the private utilities, any ostensible saving by way of lower rates being made up two fold from taxes levied on everybody.

"He has served notice upon the millions of citizens whose savings are invested in operating utility companies that, unless rates are adjusted to suit the arbitrary views of Washington burocrats, then the properties in which they have invested their savings are going to be subjected to further destructive and unconstitutional federal competition."

100 EXHIBITORS ARE EXPECTED AT FUEL EXPOSITION

The exposition of solid fuel to be held Sept. 21 to 26 in connection with the annual meeting of the American Bituminous Retail Coal Merchants' association at the Stevens hotel is expected to draw 100 exhibitors. Fifty-eight firms, representing coal merchants, stoker manufacturers, companies handling specialties in the coal field, and fuel trade magazines have already taken space, Leon Glenicki, chairman of the exposition committee, said yesterday.

The displays will show the most recent developments in preparation and handling of coal. Because of increased building activity, greater public interest in the exposition is expected. Glenicki estimated that attendance will exceed 100,000. Last year's exposition was viewed by 75,000.

The exposition and annual meeting will be held during American Coal week.

U. S. TIGHTENS RULE OVER FARM PRODUCT TRADE

New Commodity Act Now in Effect.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Federal regulation of trading in chief farm products was expanded and tightened today as provisions of the commodity act of 1936 went into effect, replacing the grain futures act of 1922.

Officials said both acts prohibited "price manipulation" or "corners" on products. While the old act was limited to grains—wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, and grain sorghums—the new act also includes cotton, rice, butter and eggs, mill feeds and Irish potatoes.

Both acts rest upon the powers of congress to regulate interstate commerce. Constitutionality of the grain futures act was upheld by the Supreme court in 1923. Three test actions against the new act were started in federal courts at Chicago and Kansas City, and injunctions against enforcement were denied.

Appeals May Be Taken.

While appeals may be taken in these cases, officials said all parties involved had unofficially indicated compliance with provisions of the act.

Under the old act contract futures were designated by the secretary of agriculture and chief penalty for violations by individual speculators or firms was suspension of the right to trade.

Under the new act numerous criminal penalties have been added. Fines up to $10,000, and jail terms up to one year, or both are possible for violations.

Brokers Must Register.

Commission merchants and floor brokers who handle trading for others are required to be registered with the Commodity Exchange administration for the first time.

Under the new amendments limits of trading also may be established for the first time. Thus, after hearings, the amount of any one commodity which a trader may hold, sell, or buy can be fixed, with penalties for violation.

Other changes, officials said, include specific prohibition on "cheating," "defrauding," "bucketing," "wash sales," "cross trades," "privileges or indemnities," and "false reports." Each of these is defined in the amended act. The act is enforced by the Commodity Exchange administration.

20 WHEAT SHIPS LEAVE CANADIAN PORTS IN ONE DAY

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Grain shipments down the Great Lakes from Canadian lakehead storehouses to eastern ports were heavy last week. Twenty vessels went out Tuesday after subsidence of a Lake Superior gale, the greater part going to various eastern ports, with considerable wheat to Buffalo and a few cargoes to Duluth. It was the heaviest week since last May, according to the board of Canada grain commissioners.

In the preceding week Buffalo elevators took in 2,306,000 bushels, and last week they took 2,404,000 bushels. Among the vessels clearing were: Prescodoc, Duluth, 109,000 bushels of wheat; Prescodoc, second trip in week, 104,000 bushels of wheat; Maritana, Duluth and Superior, 106,000 bushels of wheat, and 30,000 bushels barley; Soodoc, Duluth and Superior, 230,000 bushels of wheat.

Baking Industry to Hold National Meeting Sept. 26

Plans have been virtually completed for the first national conference and exposition of the baking industry to be held since 1930. It is scheduled to open on Sept. 26 in Atlantic City. Nearly 73,000 square feet of exhibit space has been sold, according to the exposition's advisory committee here. Some 170 bakery equipment, materials, and service companies were said to be preparing displays.

ILLINOIS CROPS SHOW SLIGHT GAIN; CORN IS STILL BELOW NORMAL

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Although still 26 per cent below average, a 1 per cent improvement during August in the combined prospective yield per acre of the major Illinois crops was announced today in the Sept. 1 report of the state and federal agricultural departments.

As irregular rains over part of the state checked drouth damage, Agricultural Statistician A. J. Surratt said prospective production of feed grains was still 44 per cent above the all time short crop of 1934. Feed grain production prospects were estimated at about 30 per cent less than last year and 40 per cent under the 1928-'32 average.

"The Illinois corn crop," Surratt said, "is estimated at 197,434,000 bushels, which is the same as forecast last month, and compares with 318,510,000 bushels produced last year, and a 1928-'32 average of 336,738,000 bushels." The only years since 1887 when corn crop production was smaller was 1934, when the Illinois crop totaled 167,808,000 bushels.

American Air Lines Shows Gain in Chicago Travel

American Airlines, Inc., transported 7,789 passengers in and out of Chicago during August, a 17 per cent increase over the number transported in August, 1935, C. R. Spears, Jr., district trafic manager, reported yesterday.

INACTIVE GROUP RISES SHARPLY IN CURB TRADING

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Sharp advances in a group of inactive specialties stood out against narrow changes for the general run of stocks in the Curb market last week. Utilities, oils, mining shares and other leading groups followed the pattern of the big board, where selective buying held some issues on a higher course. Others slipped back for nominal losses.

Outstanding performers on the upside included Singer Manufacturing, American Cyanamid "B," American Meter, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Midvale Steel, Pratt & Lambert, New England Telephone, Moore Corporation, Ltd., and American District Telegraph of New Jersey.

An extreme advance of 20 points was registered by Western Maryland railroad first preferred on a few sales toward the end of the week.

Gulf Oil rose sharply at the beginning of the period following the call for a special stockholders' meeting to vote on a proposal to double the company's capital, but subsequently turned dull. Other oil shares did little either way.

Such utilities as Electric Bond and Share, Niagara Hudson, Northern States Power "A" and Commonwealth Edison were active, but ran into profit taking sales on bulges and made little progress.

CHICAGO INDUSTRIES HIRE MORE WORKERS; BUILDING EXPANDS

Additions to industrial pay rolls and a rush by home owners and prospective builders to complete residential rehabilitation and construction before the start of cold weather, featured Chicago business last week, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported.

Several of the larger manufacturing companies indicated that the policy of making small but steady weekly increases in personnel will be continued, it was said.

A marked pick-up in employment in the ranks of skilled labor has resulted from expanding activity in residential building in the suburbs, the association added.

Report of Smaller Cotton Crop Causes Price Spurt

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Reflecting the government's reduced estimate of this year's domestic crop, prices of cotton registered sharp advances last week following moderate advances the week before. On the New York Cotton exchange active contracts closed on a gain of fourty-four to sixty-four points.

Steel Output Expected to Set New Peak

Although a decline of two points to 69½ per cent of plant capacity was registered in steel works operations last week, largely due to the Labor day holiday, the magazine Steel in its weekly report released yesterday said that a rebound this week is indicated, which may carry the rate even higher than during August.

Operations in the Buffalo district were up 6 points last week to 81 per cent and in the Pittsburgh district 2 points to 72 per cent. However, the Cleveland, eastern Pennsylvania, Youngstown, New England and Cincinnati districts showed declines and other districts were unchanged, according to the publication.

Price Advance Is General.

"Following the announcement of fourth quarter prices a week ago by the leading interests on a number of items, independent producers are sending out announcements to the same effect," reported Steel. "Additionally, cold rolled strip, alloy steel and ferromanganese prices have been reaffirmed. Prices on cold drawn bars and reinforcing bars remain to be announced for the fourth quarter and seamless tube rounds are automatically increased $2 per ton by the bar advance."

Steel pointed out that adjustment of prices on wire products has been made by a cut of $4 per ton on nails and several other items. This has been done without announcement and is for September only, with the limit of delivery Oct. 15. No price for the fourth quarter has as yet been announced.

Structural Awards Expand.

Award of structural shapes last week at over 19,000 tons was nearly double the 11,129 tons reported in the preceding week. Also reported were several unusual tonnages of steel placed last week or pending, which offer substantial support to production.

On an advance of 50 cents per ton on heavy melting steel at Chicago, Steel's scrap composite rose 8 cents to $15.87, the eleventh consecutive week of advance. The finished steel composite dropped 40 cents to $53 on the September reduction of $4 per ton on wire nails. The iron and steel composite remained unchanged at $34.10.

STEEL WORKERS TO MEET TODAY ON PAY DENIAL

Will Continue Fight for Increase.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Representatives of employés in the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's vast system of steel and tin mills plan to confer here tomorrow on the management's refusal to grant wage increases "at this time."

Delegates claiming to represent all of the company's 90,000 employés probably will carry their proposals direct to the Carnegie-Illinois officials, who said they were willing to be shown how they could afford to raise wages.

The agenda for tomorrow's discussion probably will include such subjects as wage adjustments, as well as pensions, insurance, and other problems.

Challenge Fairless Statement.

Spokesmen for the 10,000 workers at the company's Homestead, Pa., plant already have challenged the statement of President Benjamin F. Fairless that the steel industry cannot yet afford a raise.

President Fairless, in his letter to employé representatives Saturday, left the way open for negotiations for higher pay if the workers could show how it could be effected without "jeopardizing the successful operation of the business." He outlined the company's responsibilities to employés, stockholders, and customers; cited its losses in depression years and referred to "uncertainties in the industrial picture."

Only a few hours after the announcement a committee on wages at the Homestead mill asserted it did not consider the letter "an answer to our wage requests." Its representatives arranged immediately to lay their contentions before President Fairless at a conference Wednesday.

Seen as General Attitude.

Steel observers generally accepted Fairless' letter as reflecting the attitude of the industry as a whole. The nation's steel mills employ approximately 450,000 men.

Leaders of the steel workers' organization committee, in the midst of a campaign to enroll the workers under the banner of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, remained silent on the Fairless letter.

ARE YOU A C.P.A.?

Employment offers to people with the foregoing qualifications were among the hundreds of help wanted ads which appeared the last few days in the Tribune want ad section.

Every month so far this year, the Tribune has printed more help wanted advertising than in the same month of 1935. Combined increase for the first eight months amounted to 37% over the corresponding period of last year.

To find capable workers for practically every kind of a job, employers and employment agencies place three times as much help wanted advertising in the Tribune as in any other Chicago newspaper.

The growing number of employment offers reflects the improved opportunities now available to ambitious job seekers. If you want a job, or a better one than you now have, check today's offers in the Tribune help wanted columns.

The Tribune does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisments which misrepresent the nature or terms of employment, or advertisments for sales help which do not indicate the type of product or service to be sold, and the form of compensation.

BANK CONCLAVE TO HEAR CHIEFS IN VARIED LINES

Program for San Francisco Meeting Announced.

Bankers of the United States will hear speakers in varied lines of activity at their annual convention in San Francisco, Sept. 21 to 24, a study of the program disclosed yesterday. Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Lindsay Bradford, president of the City Bank Farmers Trust company, of New York, will address the first general session on Sept. 22.

On Sept. 23 Leroy A. Lincoln, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York, and Gilbert T. Stephensen, vice president of the Equitable Trust company, of Wilmington, Del., will speak.

Other Well Known Speakers.

Clarence Francis, president of the General Foods corporation, and Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, will appear on Sept. 24. Leland Whitman Cutler, president of the board of trustees of Leland Stanford university, also will speak at that session.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the Sept. 23 session. Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatman's National bank, of St. Louis, is scheduled to succeed Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank, of Washington, D. C., as president of the organization.

Prior to the convening of the general sessions the savings division of the association will assemble Sept. 21. The state bank division will meet the following afternoon and the national bank division the next day.

Other Division Meetings.

The trust division will meet Sept. 22 and a clearing house round table conference will be held Sept. 21. A public relations "clinic" will also assemble the same afternoon.

Two special trains carrying 220 bankers and their families, en route to the convention, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning over the New York Central lines. The party was conducted on a police escorted tour of the city and was officially welcomed at a luncheon in the Edgewater Beach hotel by City Controler R. B. Upham. The delegation departed in the afternoon over the Milwaukee road.

MACHINERY LINE OPTIMISTIC.

After a busy summer the machinery industry faces the remainder of the year optimistically, the American Machinist reported in an industrial review. The trade journal noted there was shortage of qualified men for building machinery. It also said the industry anticipated a substantial volume of foreign orders for machinery tools.

Household Finance.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information relative to Household Finance corporation?—G. L. S.

Answer: Household Finance corporation, the outgrowth of an enterprise started in 1878, is engaged in the small loan business. It operates more than 200 offices in 16 states and in Canada.

On June 30, 1936, there were 373,698 loans outstanding for a total of $45,202,000. This compared with 315,085 loans aggregating $37,976,000 a year earlier. During 1935 the company loaned $74,732,000 to 447,605 persons.

Earnings have been consistently good. Net income set a new record of $2,565,000 or $3.39 a share on the combined A and B common stock during the first six months of this year, compared with $2,235,000 or $2.91 a share in the first half of 1935. The record of the last three years:

	Gross income.	Net income.	Inc. per A and B shr.
1935....	$12,540,000	$4,204,000	$5.32
1934....	12,364,000	3,644,000	4.40
1933....	12,744,000	3,589,000	4.32

The per share earnings figures used for the combined class A and class B common shares are after allowance for maximum dividends of $5 a share on the 212,701 shares of participating preferred stock. The preferred is entitled to $3 a share annually before dividends can be paid on the common and to $1.16 a share for each $1 paid on the common over $2.57 a share up to a $5 maximum.

The $3 minimum preferred dividend has been covered 5½ to 6½ times in the last five years and the stock is considered high grade. Regular payments are being made at the rate of $3.50 annually.

Regular dividends of $3 annually are being paid on the A and B shares, of which 599,052 were outstanding on June 30, 1936.

Bond Commissions.

Investors' Guide: Please advise if I have just cause to feel I have been taken advantage of: I just purchased one $1,000 bond at $880, listed on the New York Curb, and was charged a commission of $7.50. The regular commission for buying is $2.50. This brokerage house did not tell me they would add on $5 and I had no way of knowing they would do so.—J. W.

Answer: You have just cause for complaint in not being told there would be an added charge, though the charge may be perfectly fair. Many bond houses are not exchange members, and it is customary for them to make a charge for their services [as much as $10 on a $1,000 bond] in addition to the commission going to the exchange member through which the purchase is made.

TRADE IN STOCK MARKET SLIPS INTO LETHARGY

Movie and Rail Shares Show Some Life.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Whether due to the imminence of the Maine elections, as many brokerage house observers think, or to considerations growing out of the domestic business picture or the rising war talk in Europe, the share market has settled into a state of lethargy approximating a stalemate.

There was a little flareup of trading activity last Tuesday with the resumption of business following the traditional Labor day "turn of the season," but the moderate gains chalked up on the surge were virtually wiped out the following session and since then the price "averages" have hardly moved. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's index of fifty representative issues finished yesterday's abbreviated session at 133.21 which compared with its closing figure of 133.12 for the preceding Saturday.

Movie Shares Strong.

Group movements as usual in such a market are difficult to distinguish. Motion picture stock stood out in one or two sessions the latter part of the week, thanks to some bullish talk of better-than-season results during the dull summer months coupled with unexpectedly heavy theater receipts since the beginning of September. The steel group continued in the front of operations despite a decline in output of the industry.

Railroad issues were also well liked, their standing in popular estimation coming in for an extra prime in the shape of earnings reports indicating that the profits of the roads are rapidly getting back to a state of what might be called normalcy. Atchison, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, and other so-called favorites of the sector came in for special play. Utilities continued to lag. President Roosevelt's speech in which he reiterated his promise of cheaper light and power provided another sour note in the chorus against the shares of corporations still holding out against governmental obstacles in this particular field of industrial endeavor.

Baking company issues were boomed somewhat by the announcement of larger dividend disbursements by three big companies of the industries, Continental Baking, General Baking, and Horn & Hardart.

Copper Shares Get Attention.

Predictions of a 10-cent markup in the price of copper in this country before the end of the year attracted some attention to the red metal shares, although producers here are reported to be firm against such a move. Foreign sellers are said to be interested in maintaining quotations at sufficiently low levels to discourage supplies of United States copper from entering the market. While a good deal of copper is going into industrial use in Europe a large part of the present buying is accounted for by munitions programs on the part of certain nations.

The motors kept step with the general procession despite the continued slackness in the industry as a result of preparations for the introduction of new models. Early recovery of the industry is confidently expected, however, and for the leading producer, August brought the highest total of sales to the public enjoyed for a number of years.

Trade news generally continues mildly supporting to the constructive viewpoint. On all sides, in fact—travel, instalment buying, amusements, clothing and even housing—the signs now point admittedly to a loosening of the public's purse strings, which, however gratifying as indicating business improvement, is giving some concern as a possible forerunner of inflation and later recession. The government has set the example for unlimited spending, and the public is beginning to follow, worrying less and less apparently over where the money is coming from.

Among the dividend meetings scheduled for the new week are those of United Fruit on Monday, Continental Can and National Cash Register on Tuesday, Magma Copper on Wednesday, Bon Ami "A" on Thursday, and Firestone Tire & Rubber on Friday.

ILLINOIS POWER FIRMS MINIMIZE FARM DRUDGERY

Manufacturers Find Little for U. S. to Do.

Illinois public utilities have eliminated much of the drudgery from the state's farms and have given the rural inhabitants an opportunity to bend themselves toward new, attractive and profitable tasks, the Illinois Manufacturers' association asserted yesterday.

In a survey of the state's rural electrification, the association asserted that in practically every part of Illinois the progressive farmer has electric lights and electric power machinery, and some country dwellings have electrical kitchen appliances not found in metropolitan homes.

Finds Little for U. S. to Do.

"Rural electrification has been so complete in Illinois—at least in a 6,000 square mile territory in the northeastern section—that the national administration program for the extension of electric service will find there is nothing more to do," the survey stated.

Referring to various sales promotional ventures and coöperation with the farmers by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the survey said:

"These activities have resulted in an increase in the annual kilowatt hour consumption of farm customers from 951,420 in 1925 to 9,059,847 in 1935. The gross revenue from these customers has increased from $71,483 in 1925 to $488,692 in 1935. The kilowatt hour consumption per bill rendered has increased from an average of 47 in 1925 to 79 at the end of 1935.

Small Addition to Cost.

"While kilowatt hour consumption per bill rendered has increased approximately 66⅔ per cent, this additional current has added only 25½ per cent to the customers' bills. Many progressive farm customers use as much as 3,000 kilowatt hours per year and a few run as high as 8,000 kilowatt hours per year."

A recent survey by the Illinois commerce commission brought out that every community of 100 population or more within the 6,000 square mile area in which Public Service of Northern Illinois operates is receiving electric service.

"The management of the company now feels that the load from rural customers can in time be built to a point where it will pay a reasonable return," the manufacturers' survey said.

TRADE IN BONDS LED BY SECOND GRADE DIVISION

Rail Issues Most Active in Last Week.

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Several records for 1936 were established or equaled in the bond market last week as trading in low and medium priced issues expanded under strong speculative and investment demand.

The turnover in rail bonds was especially brisk as successive reports from carriers serving all parts of the country confirmed earlier predictions of substantially increased car loadings and an improvement in net operating income. Industrials and utilities, while less aggressive on the upside, nevertheless had a good following.

United States government issues followed conventional procedure. After rising to unprecedented heights prior to the September quarter-financing program, federal loans moved sluggishly, many dropping back moderate fractions from their peaks.

Low Priced Rails Rise.

Of the low priced rail issues, Rock Island general 4s, North Western 4¾s, St. Paul 5s, and Alleghany stamped 5s were trading favorites. Several issues held down the forward gait, however, including Missouri Pacific 5s and "Katy" 5s.

Utility bonds moved in lackadaisical fashion, up one day and down the next, but, withal, giving a fair account of themselves.

A group of high priced industrials carrying conversion privileges sold lower coincident with the calling for redemption of portions of several such issues. These included Allis Chalmers 4s and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 3½s.

New Bond Offerings Shrink.

New flotations for the week of around $62,000,000 were under the $80,000,000 of the week before and would have been quite meager had it not been for the $55,000,000 New York offering, which set a new low cost in the history of the state.

Next week, however, the market anticipates total offerings in the neighborhood of $90,000,000, the bulk of which is expected to be furnished by flotation of $55,000,000 Bethlehem Steel 3¾s.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt to Pay Million of Bonds

The Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt company has notified the trustee under its bond indenture that $1,000,000 face value of its 5½ per cent bonds will be called by lot for redemption on Dec. 1.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

What! No Chinch Bugs?

September 13, 1936.

CHINCH bugs have been so scarce during the last two years that the manager of the Tribune's Yorkville experimental farm is encouraged to tackle the growing of small grains again on a comparatively limited acreage. In 1935 and 1936 few small grains, excepting oats, were raised.

This year a few odd patches of wheat were grown as "bait" for the bugs but they failed to appear, so that the farm manager now feels reasonably safe in trying to raise rye. Last week workers on the farm completed the sowing of eighty acres of rye in field No. 8 north of the Fox river where oats were grown this summer and a crop of corn was produced in 1935.

The rye was sown at the rate of one and three-fourths bushels per acre.

Soil Samples Taken.

Last week soil samples were taken from field No. 8 and will be sent to the University of Illinois for analysis to determine the deficiency of plant food elements. The manager knows that the land is sour and is planning to apply limestone as soon as the soil tests have been completed and he knows how many tons will be needed to correct the acidity.

Fertilize for Plowing.

Fourteen hundred tons of manure have been hauled out of the cattle yards since Aug. 10. It was scattered on land that is being plowed this fall. All of the manure scattered so far has ben put on 120 acres of ground. Seventy acres of this land is now in red clover and twenty acres in sweet clover. The 120 acres will be planted to corn next spring. About fifteen acres of the land already has been plowed.

Corn Yield is Poor.

Twenty acres of green corn has been cut and fed to the steers this fall on the Yorkville place. The corn is poor and yielded only about twenty-five tons of green material, or about one and one-fourth tons per acre. Normally the farm produces at least six tons of green corn per acre where established varieties are used. Where hybrid varieties are grown some of them produce about twice this amount. The field that is now being cut as green corn is of the Smith's white variety, grown on spring plowed sod and suffered a severe setback by the drouth and by the work of white grubs.

Get Cattle Yards Ready.

Men at the Yorkville farm are getting the cattle yards ready for winter and spring feeding. Recently they have been hauling gravel and scattering it over the feed lots to keep the steers out of the mud during the rainy seasons of the year. They are hauling the gravel from a pit on the farm.

The men also are resurfacing the driveways around the barns and in the lots around the farm buildings. Cattle sheds, feed bunks, watering troughs and tanks are being repaired and put in first class condition before winter.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—STRATEGY

HE SPEAKS TO HER—BUT SHE CALLS HIM A VULGAR AMERICAN, AND APPEARS TO BE HIGHLY INSULTED...
LATER, HOWEVER, IN A HOUSE IN ANOTHER PART OF THE CHINESE CITY....
—ARE YOU SURE THIS GUY WILL CHASE AFTER YOU JUST BECAUSE YOU WERE RUDE TO HIM?
OF COURSE! IT'S A MAN'S WAY! —AND WHEN HE DOES, I WILL SOON HAVE THE PLANS YOU ARE SO ANXIOUS TO GET!
YOU GO NOW! HE WILL FIND OUT WHERE I LIVE AND CALL ON ME HERE!—HE MUST NOT FIND YOU!
SO YE THINK THIS "DRAGON LADY" EXPECTS YE T'COME CHASIN' TO HER PLACE T'APOLOGIZE?
THAT'S IT!—BUT I'M GOING TO FORCE HER HAND!—IF SHE'S THE WOMAN WHO'S AFTER THOSE PLANE BLUE PRINTS SHE'LL HAVE TO LOOK ME UP!—IF SHE IS A REAL PRINCESS SHE'LL NEVER GIVE ME ANOTHER THOUGHT!—GET IT?
THAT I DO!

How You Can BORROW at HOUSEHOLD

No Salary Assignments.
REDUCED RATES
ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $100.

1. Whether or not you have furniture or a car, you can borrow here if you can make regular monthly payments.
2. Payments on all loans are small. For example payments on a $300 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
3. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
4. You can secure the money quickly—the same day if you want it before 5 o'clock.
5. Household's rate of 3% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on that part of the balance over $100 is substantially lower than the lawful maximum on all loans above $100.
6. Repay at any time and reduce the cost.
7. Private offices. Your problem will have our sympathetic attention.
